

TWO AMBITIOUS SOLONS

EDWARD WARD CARMACK AND THOMAS M. PATTERSON.

Young Democratic Senators Who Are Trying to Create a Stir—Both Are Newspaper Men.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Of the younger group of coming Democrats Senator Edward Ward Carmack, of Tennessee, is certain to attain a conspicuous position.

Mr. Carmack is a newspaper man in the sense of most public men who refer to their newspaper connections in their biographies.

Another newspaper man of a different stamp is Senator Patterson, of Colorado. He owns the Rocky Mountain News, the strongest Democratic paper of the mountain States.

Since then he has been in all parties and has been a bitter fighter in all of them. He has been successful in business and has taken a high place in the practice of his profession—the law.

He is just as impatient in the United States Senate as he has been in forging his way ahead in the world of the customs of the Senate may go hand in hand as far as he is concerned.

The Baptist assembly will meet in the First Baptist Church of St. Paul in May. The feature of public interest, and of commanding denominational interest, is the relation of the benevolent societies to each other, and the relation of all of them to the churches.
