

NEW YORK STORE

107 B. B. SOLE AGENTS BUTTERICK PATTERNS, Indiana's Greatest Dry Goods Emporium

GLOVES

For All Occasions

No matter what your glove need may be—you may fill it from this excellent stock of ours—you'll find just the proper lengths and the proper colors and shades that are in demand for the season. Qualities may be depended on too for beauty and service. Prices much to your liking.

Among the more popular brands, in all the new shades, are:

- Our "Juliette", at a pair.....$1.00
The "Argyle", at a pair.....$1.25
And "Cygne", at a pair.....$1.50

Center Aisle.

Pette's Dry Goods Co

Spring Cravings Satisfied Here...

Vegetables and fruits are now coming in more regularly and of better quality.

Relying upon us, you may be sure of prompt service and absolutely the best to be had in this market.

There's a trick in culling the best for available stock and our buyer does the trick

Mighty Well.

The N. A. MOORE CO. GROCERS

162 and 164 North Illinois Street. Phone 89a.

SUMMER UNDERWEAR

BON BON'S FRENCH BALBRIGGANS are the best, that's the kind we sell. Good quality for 50c a garment. Better grades up to $1.50 a garment. Also a large assortment of plain and fancy colors in hosiery thread and silk. Have a look.

Paul H. Krauss

44 East Washington Street. Men's Furnisher

C. N. WILLIAMS & CO. BANKERS

8 and 10 East Market Street. Accounts with banks and individuals so desired. 5 percent interest paid on time deposits.

WE MAKE LIBERAL ADVANCES ON

WATCHES DIAMONDS BICYCLES

DRIVE ROOMS AND ALL TRANSACTIONS STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL. NOE'S LOAN OFFICE, 110 W. MARKET ST.

Will Go on Your Bond. No Delay

THE UNION SURETY COMPANY OF INDIANAPOLIS, INDIANA. A Home Institution

LARGEST BUSINESS LARGEST ASSORTMENT LOWEST PRICES

Geo. J. Marrott, 20 and 28 E. Washington St.

Indiana Dental College

Department of Dentistry, University of Indianapolis. for all kinds of Dental Work. The fees are to cover the costs only. Receives patients from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. E. W. Cor. Delaware and Ohio Streets.

McGray Refrigerator Company

Refrigerators and Cold-Storage Houses for Butchers, Grocers, Hospitals and Public Institutions, and fitted for residences. NED JONES, Agent, 315 Indiana, Ind. 346 South Capitol Avenue. Phone 601, Main 99.

NEWS OF THE THEATERS

LEON MORRIS WITH HIS PONIES AT THE GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

John Rucker and "The Black Patti" in a Show at the Park-Burlesque at the Empire.

At the Theaters To-Day.

GRAND—Vaudeville, 2:15 and 8:15 p. m. FARK—Black Patti Troubadours, 2 and 8 p. m. EMPIRE—Rantz-Santley Burlesques, 2 and 8 p. m.

The Vaudeville at the Grand.

Leon Morris shows some trained ponies, a trained dog and a trained colored man at the Grand Opera House. The ponies have a drill, the dog rides on a pony's back and the colored man wrestles with two of the trained dogs.

At the Park-Burlesque. John Rucker and "The Black Patti" in a Show at the Park-Burlesque at the Empire.

Willis and Hassan have an acrobatic act that is excellent in make-up and form. The tricks are of head and hand, and balancing and they are gracefully done. Arnie Hall sings ragtime songs with the genuine comic style and quality.

Black Patti and Others at the Park.

John Rucker, an Indianapolis colored man, occupies the stage at the Park Theater the greater part of the time in the "Black Patti" burlesques, which opened yesterday for three days.

IRELAND—BERRY.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. EVANSVILLE, Ind., April 21.—Judge W. W. Ireland, who yesterday was married here to-day, and the announcement has caused much surprise. Judge Ireland is nearly seventy years old and is one of the oldest active practitioners at the local bar.

MARTIN—AXE.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. PORTLAND, Ind., April 21.—Mr. Frederick Martin, ex-treasurer of Jay county, and Miss Ruth A. Axe, both of this city, were married at Bryant last evening by the Rev. J. S. Spradley, pastor of the Methodist Church.

ADAMS—HOFFMAN.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. ELWOOD, Ind., April 21.—Fred Adams, a well-known newspaper man, and Miss Anna Hoffman, one of Elwood's most accomplished young women, were married last evening at the Methodist parsonage, the Rev. J. A. Beatty officiating.

CITY NEWS NOTES.

The Woman's Home Missionary Society of this city will give a concert at the church parlors this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

The Rev. G. P. Klein, who has been a missionary in the Philippines, will preach to-morrow night in the Central Universalist Church.

There will be a meeting of the One-hundredth anniversary of the adoption of the constitution of the United States at the Commercial hotel to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock.

A vacant house at 216 West Georgia street was damaged $50 by fire yesterday afternoon. The cause of the fire is a mystery, but incendiary is suspected. The house is insured in the H. Plummer agency.

Ed Smiley, living at 121 Norwood street, was arrested yesterday by Detectives John Splan and Haley on the charge of grand larceny. Smiley is said to be implicated in the West Washington street shops.

Governor Durbin yesterday appointed Dr. William F. Currier, a Republican, of this city, to succeed Dr. J. C. R. Hunter as a member of the Indiana Medical Board of Registration and Examination.

The Rev. O. W. McGaughey, of the Sixth Christian Church, read a paper yesterday morning at the meeting of the Indianapolis "Inequality" club at the Hamilton Hotel. His subject was "Inequality in the Basis of Service."

John W. Leach, a well-known musician at 84 East Market street last night by the City Dispensary physicians. He was taken to the West Washington street shops to be treated for a severe case of pneumonia. He had been drinking and fell, his head striking the curbstone.

Adjutant General Smock of the G. A. R. yesterday received requests for charters for organizations for charters. Post No. 42 was reorganized at Mentone under Charles W. Scott. A new post was organized at the City on last Saturday by J. S. Conlogue, of Kendallville.

The first feasts of "Pesach," or Passover, in commemoration of the redemption of the Israelites from Egyptian bondage, were celebrated at the present time here in service at the Temple, on North Delaware street. The feasts will be celebrated with solemnity at a service this morning at 10 o'clock.

Alonso Strange, colored, was arrested yesterday by Bicycleman Hill and Griffin on a charge of larceny. He was taken to jail yesterday morning after serving a sentence for the same offense. He went to his home at 216 West Georgia street, where he had a large quantity of goods. He was released on a $100 bond.

The Indianapolis Street-Car Company yesterday brought out its first summer cars from all the North Side barns and run them to the West Washington street shops to have trucks placed under them so that they may soon be ready for the regular summer use. The new cars are also taken over the river to have trucks replaced under them.

The steady increase of prices in pork and beef, it is said, has begun to make the retail meat dealers think of doing their own slaughtering. At the present time there is not enough margin of profit to pay the rentals and yet give a fair return for the butchering. At several grocers' and meat counters have been run in connection with other lines of goods the sale of meat has been discontinued. The grocers are being forced to hold their trade, have been forced to sell their meats to customers at cost prices.

Exhibit of Miss Keep's Work.

A collection of Miss Virginia Keep's drawings is on view in the Lusher gallery. There are portraits made on Bristol board with pencil and pen and ink illustrations for books. Miss Keep, whose home is in this city, almost confines herself to black and white illustration, and a number of recent novels have had her work in them.

The Buffalo Bill's Wild West show opened here to-night to a crowd which completely filled Madison-square Garden. The different features of the performance were viewed with great satisfaction by the spectators, who pronounced it better than ever before, and especially pleased with the new features which have been added. There were many well-known people present, and among them were noticed General Miles, General Brooke, Brig. Gen. M. V. Sheridan, retired, Colonel J. D. Slocum, retired, and Senator W. A. Clark, of Montana.

At one point in the performance, when the military contingent held the ring, it drew up in front of General Miles's box and saluted the general. The spectators were kept in suspense over the actions of the horses, fearful of an accident. Two hundred new horses are being placed on show to take the place of that number lost in a railroad wreck. They were given but one rehearsal, and the electric lights to-night made them exceedingly wild. Two rough riders were thrown with great force against the rail, but escaped serious injury.

Colonel Cody, as usual, attracted great attention by his wonderful marksmanship on horseback. The new feature of the life-saving drill, with its breeches buoy and life lines, was enthusiastically received. The Buffalo Bill's Wild West show has been enlarged into two this year, which gives an opportunity to present many new points in the historic fight.

PERSONAL AND SOCIETY.

Mrs. Milton A. Woolen has returned from a visit with relatives in Bellefontaine, O.

Miss Lena Braash has returned from a visit with relatives in Bellefontaine, O.

Mr. and Mrs. Carroll De Witt have gone to Wawasee to remain until the last of May.

MUSKVEREIN'S CONCERT

IT CLOSES ITS SEASON WITH AN ALL-WAGNER PROGRAMME.

Mrs. Bremmerman-Edmunds, Miss Jeffries, Mr. Miller, Mr. Isensee and Mr. Green the Soloists.

The Muskverein wound up its season last evening with an all-Wagner programme. The audience was larger than usual and filled the large hall of the German House.

The concert, besides enlisting the men's and women's choruses and the orchestra, gave opportunity for several of the city's prominent soloists to display their qualities. The programme, too, was instructive, for it embraced bits of Wagner's work from his youthful opera, "The Ring," to the climax of his labor, "The Valkyrie," which was represented by Siegmund's love song from "The Valkyrie."

"The Flying Dutchman" was twice on the programme. The orchestra began with the overture to this opera, and later the spinning scene and the ballad were given by Mrs. Josephine Bremmerman-Edmunds, Miss Eva Jeffries and Mr. B. F. Miller, with the women's chorus and the orchestra. Mrs. Bremmerman-Edmunds sang admirably Senta's tale of the wretched Dutchman condemned to sail the seas interminably unless he finds a woman willing to love him eternally. And his chance to find this woman came only every seven years.

The concert, besides enlisting the men's and women's choruses and the orchestra, gave opportunity for several of the city's prominent soloists to display their qualities. The programme, too, was instructive, for it embraced bits of Wagner's work from his youthful opera, "The Ring," to the climax of his labor, "The Valkyrie," which was represented by Siegmund's love song from "The Valkyrie."

The Flying Dutchman was twice on the programme. The orchestra began with the overture to this opera, and later the spinning scene and the ballad were given by Mrs. Josephine Bremmerman-Edmunds, Miss Eva Jeffries and Mr. B. F. Miller, with the women's chorus and the orchestra.

Mrs. Bremmerman-Edmunds sang admirably Senta's tale of the wretched Dutchman condemned to sail the seas interminably unless he finds a woman willing to love him eternally. And his chance to find this woman came only every seven years.

The concert, besides enlisting the men's and women's choruses and the orchestra, gave opportunity for several of the city's prominent soloists to display their qualities. The programme, too, was instructive, for it embraced bits of Wagner's work from his youthful opera, "The Ring," to the climax of his labor, "The Valkyrie," which was represented by Siegmund's love song from "The Valkyrie."

The Flying Dutchman was twice on the programme. The orchestra began with the overture to this opera, and later the spinning scene and the ballad were given by Mrs. Josephine Bremmerman-Edmunds, Miss Eva Jeffries and Mr. B. F. Miller, with the women's chorus and the orchestra.

Mrs. Bremmerman-Edmunds sang admirably Senta's tale of the wretched Dutchman condemned to sail the seas interminably unless he finds a woman willing to love him eternally. And his chance to find this woman came only every seven years.

The concert, besides enlisting the men's and women's choruses and the orchestra, gave opportunity for several of the city's prominent soloists to display their qualities. The programme, too, was instructive, for it embraced bits of Wagner's work from his youthful opera, "The Ring," to the climax of his labor, "The Valkyrie," which was represented by Siegmund's love song from "The Valkyrie."

The Flying Dutchman was twice on the programme. The orchestra began with the overture to this opera, and later the spinning scene and the ballad were given by Mrs. Josephine Bremmerman-Edmunds, Miss Eva Jeffries and Mr. B. F. Miller, with the women's chorus and the orchestra.

Mrs. Bremmerman-Edmunds sang admirably Senta's tale of the wretched Dutchman condemned to sail the seas interminably unless he finds a woman willing to love him eternally. And his chance to find this woman came only every seven years.

The concert, besides enlisting the men's and women's choruses and the orchestra, gave opportunity for several of the city's prominent soloists to display their qualities. The programme, too, was instructive, for it embraced bits of Wagner's work from his youthful opera, "The Ring," to the climax of his labor, "The Valkyrie," which was represented by Siegmund's love song from "The Valkyrie."

The Flying Dutchman was twice on the programme. The orchestra began with the overture to this opera, and later the spinning scene and the ballad were given by Mrs. Josephine Bremmerman-Edmunds, Miss Eva Jeffries and Mr. B. F. Miller, with the women's chorus and the orchestra.

Mrs. Bremmerman-Edmunds sang admirably Senta's tale of the wretched Dutchman condemned to sail the seas interminably unless he finds a woman willing to love him eternally. And his chance to find this woman came only every seven years.

The concert, besides enlisting the men's and women's choruses and the orchestra, gave opportunity for several of the city's prominent soloists to display their qualities. The programme, too, was instructive, for it embraced bits of Wagner's work from his youthful opera, "The Ring," to the climax of his labor, "The Valkyrie," which was represented by Siegmund's love song from "The Valkyrie."

The Flying Dutchman was twice on the programme. The orchestra began with the overture to this opera, and later the spinning scene and the ballad were given by Mrs. Josephine Bremmerman-Edmunds, Miss Eva Jeffries and Mr. B. F. Miller, with the women's chorus and the orchestra.

Mrs. Bremmerman-Edmunds sang admirably Senta's tale of the wretched Dutchman condemned to sail the seas interminably unless he finds a woman willing to love him eternally. And his chance to find this woman came only every seven years.

The concert, besides enlisting the men's and women's choruses and the orchestra, gave opportunity for several of the city's prominent soloists to display their qualities. The programme, too, was instructive, for it embraced bits of Wagner's work from his youthful opera, "The Ring," to the climax of his labor, "The Valkyrie," which was represented by Siegmund's love song from "The Valkyrie."

The Flying Dutchman was twice on the programme. The orchestra began with the overture to this opera, and later the spinning scene and the ballad were given by Mrs. Josephine Bremmerman-Edmunds, Miss Eva Jeffries and Mr. B. F. Miller, with the women's chorus and the orchestra.

Mrs. Bremmerman-Edmunds sang admirably Senta's tale of the wretched Dutchman condemned to sail the seas interminably unless he finds a woman willing to love him eternally. And his chance to find this woman came only every seven years.

The concert, besides enlisting the men's and women's choruses and the orchestra, gave opportunity for several of the city's prominent soloists to display their qualities. The programme, too, was instructive, for it embraced bits of Wagner's work from his youthful opera, "The Ring," to the climax of his labor, "The Valkyrie," which was represented by Siegmund's love song from "The Valkyrie."

The Flying Dutchman was twice on the programme. The orchestra began with the overture to this opera, and later the spinning scene and the ballad were given by Mrs. Josephine Bremmerman-Edmunds, Miss Eva Jeffries and Mr. B. F. Miller, with the women's chorus and the orchestra.

Mrs. Bremmerman-Edmunds sang admirably Senta's tale of the wretched Dutchman condemned to sail the seas interminably unless he finds a woman willing to love him eternally. And his chance to find this woman came only every seven years.

The concert, besides enlisting the men's and women's choruses and the orchestra, gave opportunity for several of the city's prominent soloists to display their qualities. The programme, too, was instructive, for it embraced bits of Wagner's work from his youthful opera, "The Ring," to the climax of his labor, "The Valkyrie," which was represented by Siegmund's love song from "The Valkyrie."

The Flying Dutchman was twice on the programme. The orchestra began with the overture to this opera, and later the spinning scene and the ballad were given by Mrs. Josephine Bremmerman-Edmunds, Miss Eva Jeffries and Mr. B. F. Miller, with the women's chorus and the orchestra.

Mrs. Bremmerman-Edmunds sang admirably Senta's tale of the wretched Dutchman condemned to sail the seas interminably unless he finds a woman willing to love him eternally. And his chance to find this woman came only every seven years.

The concert, besides enlisting the men's and women's choruses and the orchestra, gave opportunity for several of the city's prominent soloists to display their qualities. The programme, too, was instructive, for it embraced bits of Wagner's work from his youthful opera, "The Ring," to the climax of his labor, "The Valkyrie," which was represented by Siegmund's love song from "The Valkyrie."

The Flying Dutchman was twice on the programme. The orchestra began with the overture to this opera, and later the spinning scene and the ballad were given by Mrs. Josephine Bremmerman-Edmunds, Miss Eva Jeffries and Mr. B. F. Miller, with the women's chorus and the orchestra.

Mrs. Bremmerman-Edmunds sang admirably Senta's tale of the wretched Dutchman condemned to sail the seas interminably unless he finds a woman willing to love him eternally. And his chance to find this woman came only every seven years.

MUSKVEREIN'S CONCERT

IT CLOSES ITS SEASON WITH AN ALL-WAGNER PROGRAMME.

Mrs. Bremmerman-Edmunds, Miss Jeffries, Mr. Miller, Mr. Isensee and Mr. Green the Soloists.

The Muskverein wound up its season last evening with an all-Wagner programme. The audience was larger than usual and filled the large hall of the German House.

The concert, besides enlisting the men's and women's choruses and the orchestra, gave opportunity for several of the city's prominent soloists to display their qualities. The programme, too, was instructive, for it embraced bits of Wagner's work from his youthful opera, "The Ring," to the climax of his labor, "The Valkyrie," which was represented by Siegmund's love song from "The Valkyrie."

"The Flying Dutchman" was twice on the programme. The orchestra began with the overture to this opera, and later the spinning scene and the ballad were given by Mrs. Josephine Bremmerman-Edmunds, Miss Eva Jeffries and Mr. B. F. Miller, with the women's chorus and the orchestra.

Mrs. Bremmerman-Edmunds sang admirably Senta's tale of the wretched Dutchman condemned to sail the seas interminably unless he finds a woman willing to love him eternally. And his chance to find this woman came only every seven years.

The concert, besides enlisting the men's and women's choruses and the orchestra, gave opportunity for several of the city's prominent soloists to display their qualities. The programme, too, was instructive, for it embraced bits of Wagner's work from his youthful opera, "The Ring," to the climax of his labor, "The Valkyrie," which was represented by Siegmund's love song from "The Valkyrie."

The Flying Dutchman was twice on the programme. The orchestra began with the overture to this opera, and later the spinning scene and the ballad were given by Mrs. Josephine Bremmerman-Edmunds, Miss Eva Jeffries and Mr. B. F. Miller, with the women's chorus and the orchestra.

Mrs. Bremmerman-Edmunds sang admirably Senta's tale of the wretched Dutchman condemned to sail the seas interminably unless he finds a woman willing to love him eternally. And his chance to find this woman came only every seven years.

The concert, besides enlisting the men's and women's choruses and the orchestra, gave opportunity for several of the city's prominent soloists to display their qualities. The programme, too, was instructive, for it embraced bits of Wagner's work from his youthful opera, "The Ring," to the climax of his labor, "The Valkyrie," which was represented by Siegmund's love song from "The Valkyrie."

The Flying Dutchman was twice on the programme. The orchestra began with the overture to this opera, and later the spinning scene and the ballad were given by Mrs. Josephine Bremmerman-Edmunds, Miss Eva Jeffries and Mr. B. F. Miller, with the women's chorus and the orchestra.

Mrs. Bremmerman-Edmunds sang admirably Senta's tale of the wretched Dutchman condemned to sail the seas interminably unless he finds a woman willing to love him eternally. And his chance to find this woman came only every seven years.

The concert, besides enlisting the men's and women's choruses and the orchestra, gave opportunity for several of the city's prominent soloists to display their qualities. The programme, too, was instructive, for it embraced bits of Wagner's work from his youthful opera, "The Ring," to the climax of his labor, "The Valkyrie," which was represented by Siegmund's love song from "The Valkyrie."

The Flying Dutchman was twice on the programme. The orchestra began with the overture to this opera, and later the spinning scene and the ballad were given by Mrs. Josephine Bremmerman-Edmunds, Miss Eva Jeffries and Mr. B. F. Miller, with the women's chorus and the orchestra.

Mrs. Bremmerman-Edmunds sang admirably Senta's tale of the wretched Dutchman condemned to sail the seas interminably unless he finds a woman willing to love him eternally. And his chance to find this woman came only every seven years.

The concert, besides enlisting the men's and women's choruses and the orchestra, gave opportunity for several of the city's prominent soloists to display their qualities. The programme, too, was instructive, for it embraced bits of Wagner's work from his youthful opera, "The Ring," to the climax of his labor, "The Valkyrie," which was represented by Siegmund's love song from "The Valkyrie."

The Flying Dutchman was twice on the programme. The orchestra began with the overture to this opera, and later the spinning scene and the ballad were given by Mrs. Josephine Bremmerman-Edmunds, Miss Eva Jeffries and Mr. B. F. Miller, with the women's chorus and the orchestra.

Mrs. Bremmerman-Edmunds sang admirably Senta's tale of the wretched Dutchman condemned to sail the seas interminably unless he finds a woman willing to love him eternally. And his chance to find this woman came only every seven years.

The concert, besides enlisting the men's and women's choruses and the orchestra, gave opportunity for several of the city's prominent soloists to display their qualities. The programme, too, was instructive, for it embraced bits of Wagner's work from his youthful opera, "The Ring," to the climax of his labor, "The Valkyrie," which was represented by Siegmund's love song from "The Valkyrie."

The Flying Dutchman was twice on the programme. The orchestra began with the overture to this opera, and later the spinning scene and the ballad were given by Mrs. Josephine Bremmerman-Edmunds, Miss Eva Jeffries and Mr. B. F. Miller, with the women's chorus and the orchestra.

Mrs. Bremmerman-Edmunds sang admirably Senta's tale of the wretched Dutchman condemned to sail the seas interminably unless he finds a woman willing to love him eternally. And his chance to find this woman came only every seven years.

The concert, besides enlisting the men's and women's choruses and the orchestra, gave opportunity for several of the city's prominent soloists to display their qualities. The programme, too, was instructive, for it embraced bits of Wagner's work from his youthful opera, "The Ring," to the climax of his labor, "The Valkyrie," which was represented by Siegmund's love song from "The Valkyrie."

The Flying Dutchman was twice on the programme. The orchestra began with the overture to this opera, and later the spinning scene and the ballad were given by Mrs. Josephine Bremmerman-Edmunds, Miss Eva Jeffries and Mr. B. F. Miller, with the women's chorus and the orchestra.

Mrs. Bremmerman-Edmunds sang admirably Senta's tale of the wretched Dutchman condemned to sail the seas interminably unless he finds a woman willing to love him eternally. And his chance to find this woman came only every seven years.

The concert, besides enlisting the men's and women's choruses and the orchestra, gave opportunity for several of the city's prominent soloists to display their qualities. The programme, too, was instructive, for it embraced bits of Wagner's work from his youthful opera, "The Ring," to the climax of his labor, "The Valkyrie," which was represented by Siegmund's love song from "The Valkyrie."

The Flying Dutchman was twice on the programme. The orchestra began with the overture to this opera, and later the spinning scene and the ballad were given by Mrs. Josephine Bremmerman-Edmunds, Miss Eva Jeffries and Mr. B. F. Miller, with the women's chorus and the orchestra.

Mrs. Bremmerman-Edmunds sang admirably Senta's tale of the wretched Dutchman condemned to sail the seas interminably unless he finds a woman willing to love him eternally. And his chance to find this woman came only every seven years.

The concert, besides enlisting the men's and women's choruses and the orchestra, gave opportunity for several of the city's prominent soloists to display their qualities. The programme, too, was instructive, for it embraced bits of Wagner's work from his youthful opera, "The Ring," to the climax of his labor, "The Valkyrie," which was represented by Siegmund's love song from "The Valkyrie."

The Flying Dutchman was twice on the programme. The orchestra began with the overture to this opera, and later the spinning scene and the ballad were given by Mrs. Josephine Bremmerman-Edmunds, Miss Eva Jeffries and Mr. B. F. Miller, with the women's chorus and the orchestra.

Mrs. Bremmerman-Edmunds sang admirably Senta's tale of the wretched Dutchman condemned to sail the seas interminably unless he finds a woman willing to love him eternally. And his chance to find this woman came only every seven years.

The concert, besides enlisting the men's and women's choruses and the orchestra, gave opportunity for several of the city's prominent soloists to display their qualities. The programme, too, was instructive, for it embraced bits of Wagner's work from his youthful opera, "The Ring," to the climax of his labor, "The Valkyrie," which was represented by Siegmund's love song from "The Valkyrie."

The Flying Dutchman was twice on the programme. The orchestra began with the overture to this opera, and later the spinning scene and the ballad were given by Mrs. Josephine Bremmerman-Edmunds, Miss Eva Jeffries and Mr. B. F. Miller, with the women's chorus and the orchestra.

SIX CANDIDATES.

All Want to Be Nominated for Superintendent of Instruction.

Among the candidates for superintendent of public instruction in George W. Worley, of Warsaw, is located in Room 49, and among those who made it pleasant for his visitors yesterday were Ed Plousson, representative Stookey and Arthur Brubaker, of Warsaw. It was announced that other of Mr. Worley's friends will be with him to-day.

Frederick A. Cotton, candidate for superintendent of public instruction, is being assisted by Frank Wayman and O. E. Saffell, of New Castle, and C. F. Kennedy, of Indianapolis.

Robert C. Hillis, another candidate for the same office, is in Room 4. C. Smith, George A. Gamble, John M. Johnston and B. Powell, all of Warsaw, are among those in charge of his headquarters. Hillis is giving away maps showing the congressional districts and is also giving out copies of a book on the subject of public instruction.

Thus far, Kenzie, of St. Joseph county, a candidate for superintendent of public instruction, has Room 54. W. B. Jakways, of South Bend, and Bruce Moon, of Lakeview, are also candidates for the office.

John S. Moore, of Mount Vernon, another candidate for superintendent of public instruction, is in Room 4. Brad McArthur, of Posey county, is in charge of the public committee, in charge of his headquarters.

John S. Moore, of Mount Vernon, another candidate for superintendent of public instruction, is in Room 4. Brad McArthur, of Posey county, is in charge of the public committee, in charge of his headquarters.

John S. Moore, of Mount Vernon, another candidate for superintendent of public instruction, is in Room 4. Brad McArthur, of Posey county, is in charge of the public committee, in charge of his headquarters.

John S. Moore, of Mount Vernon, another candidate for superintendent of public instruction, is in Room 4. Brad McArthur, of Posey county, is in charge of the public committee, in charge of his headquarters.

John S. Moore, of Mount Vernon, another candidate for superintendent of public instruction, is in Room 4. Brad McArthur, of Posey county, is in charge of the public committee, in charge of his headquarters.

John S. Moore, of Mount Vernon, another candidate for superintendent of public instruction, is in Room 4. Brad McArthur, of Posey county, is in charge of the public committee, in charge of his headquarters.

John S. Moore, of Mount Vernon, another candidate for superintendent of public instruction, is in Room 4. Brad McArthur, of Posey county, is in charge of the public committee, in charge of his headquarters.

John S. Moore, of Mount Vernon, another candidate for superintendent of public instruction, is in Room 4. Brad McArthur, of Posey county, is in charge of the public committee, in charge of his headquarters.