

BOYS BRIGADE HEROES

(CONCLUDED FROM FIRST PAGE)

For weeks past the meaning of the ceremony and will send to the dedication children animated with patriotic feeling and a sense of the real meaning of the monument.

From out of the State many distinguished visitors will be in attendance, some of whom will deliver addresses. The Hon. John W. Foster arrived yesterday from Washington and will deliver the oration this morning at the dedication exercises.

SENATOR FAIRBANKS COMING. Few men of fame and prominence whose names are in Indiana will be absent from the ceremonies. The representatives in Congress found it impossible to come on account of a press of official business.

THE TORCHLIGHT PARADE. The last parade of the day will be that of the German societies of the city. Under the command of Marshal J. L. Bieler the torchlight procession of the German societies will form promptly at 8 o'clock, moving on the south side of Washington street to Senate avenue, commencing march on the north side of Washington street to Meridian street, north on Meridian street to the monument.

THE GREAT EVENT. The great event of the day will take place at 10 o'clock, after the flag parade has terminated at the monument and the antedecedents have been placed in position.

It is Anticipated To-Day by Railroad Officials—Day of Inspection. Indianapolis is expected to break all its one-day records for crowds to-day. If the experience of railroads yesterday is a basis for a new record will be set that may for a long time remain unapproached.

RECORD-BREAKING CROWD. Indianapolis is expected to break all its one-day records for crowds to-day. If the experience of railroads yesterday is a basis for a new record will be set that may for a long time remain unapproached.

GENERAL MCCOOK IN CITY. A notable warrior will witness monument dedication. One of the best-known of the distinguished men here to attend the dedicatory exercises is Gen. Alexander McDowell McCook, who has, since 1866, been a retired army officer.

GENERAL OLINSTEAD IN TOWN. One of the visitors arriving yesterday was Gen. W. A. Olinstead, of Notre Dame. He was a gallant soldier in the Second Corps all through the war. He was one of the earliest members of the Loyal Legion and is now a priest in one of the religious orders of the Catholic Church.

Boys' Brigade First Christian Church and other organizations. After the parade reaches the monument a vesper service will be held by the G. A. R. Gen. Eli Torrance will deliver an address at this service. There will be singing of religious and patriotic hymns and an invocation by the department chaplain.

CAMP FIRES TO-NIGHT. To-night, in Tomlinson Hall and in English's Opera House, great patriotic meetings will be held. At Tomlinson Hall Governor Durbin will preside, at English's Opera House, the Rev. J. H. Torrance, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, will be one of the noted figures during the day.

THE TORCHLIGHT PARADE. The last parade of the day will be that of the German societies of the city. Under the command of Marshal J. L. Bieler the torchlight procession of the German societies will form promptly at 8 o'clock, moving on the south side of Washington street to Senate avenue, commencing march on the north side of Washington street to Meridian street, north on Meridian street to the monument.

RECORD-BREAKING CROWD. Indianapolis is expected to break all its one-day records for crowds to-day. If the experience of railroads yesterday is a basis for a new record will be set that may for a long time remain unapproached.

GENERAL MCCOOK IN CITY. A notable warrior will witness monument dedication. One of the best-known of the distinguished men here to attend the dedicatory exercises is Gen. Alexander McDowell McCook, who has, since 1866, been a retired army officer.

GENERAL OLINSTEAD IN TOWN. One of the visitors arriving yesterday was Gen. W. A. Olinstead, of Notre Dame. He was a gallant soldier in the Second Corps all through the war. He was one of the earliest members of the Loyal Legion and is now a priest in one of the religious orders of the Catholic Church.

GENERAL MCCOOK IN CITY. A notable warrior will witness monument dedication. One of the best-known of the distinguished men here to attend the dedicatory exercises is Gen. Alexander McDowell McCook, who has, since 1866, been a retired army officer.

GENERAL OLINSTEAD IN TOWN. One of the visitors arriving yesterday was Gen. W. A. Olinstead, of Notre Dame. He was a gallant soldier in the Second Corps all through the war. He was one of the earliest members of the Loyal Legion and is now a priest in one of the religious orders of the Catholic Church.

GENERAL MCCOOK IN CITY. A notable warrior will witness monument dedication. One of the best-known of the distinguished men here to attend the dedicatory exercises is Gen. Alexander McDowell McCook, who has, since 1866, been a retired army officer.

Governor Durbin will preside, at English's Opera House, the Rev. J. H. Torrance, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, will be one of the noted figures during the day.

THE TORCHLIGHT PARADE. The last parade of the day will be that of the German societies of the city. Under the command of Marshal J. L. Bieler the torchlight procession of the German societies will form promptly at 8 o'clock, moving on the south side of Washington street to Senate avenue, commencing march on the north side of Washington street to Meridian street, north on Meridian street to the monument.

RECORD-BREAKING CROWD. Indianapolis is expected to break all its one-day records for crowds to-day. If the experience of railroads yesterday is a basis for a new record will be set that may for a long time remain unapproached.

GENERAL MCCOOK IN CITY. A notable warrior will witness monument dedication. One of the best-known of the distinguished men here to attend the dedicatory exercises is Gen. Alexander McDowell McCook, who has, since 1866, been a retired army officer.

GENERAL OLINSTEAD IN TOWN. One of the visitors arriving yesterday was Gen. W. A. Olinstead, of Notre Dame. He was a gallant soldier in the Second Corps all through the war. He was one of the earliest members of the Loyal Legion and is now a priest in one of the religious orders of the Catholic Church.

GENERAL MCCOOK IN CITY. A notable warrior will witness monument dedication. One of the best-known of the distinguished men here to attend the dedicatory exercises is Gen. Alexander McDowell McCook, who has, since 1866, been a retired army officer.

GENERAL OLINSTEAD IN TOWN. One of the visitors arriving yesterday was Gen. W. A. Olinstead, of Notre Dame. He was a gallant soldier in the Second Corps all through the war. He was one of the earliest members of the Loyal Legion and is now a priest in one of the religious orders of the Catholic Church.

GENERAL MCCOOK IN CITY. A notable warrior will witness monument dedication. One of the best-known of the distinguished men here to attend the dedicatory exercises is Gen. Alexander McDowell McCook, who has, since 1866, been a retired army officer.

GENERAL OLINSTEAD IN TOWN. One of the visitors arriving yesterday was Gen. W. A. Olinstead, of Notre Dame. He was a gallant soldier in the Second Corps all through the war. He was one of the earliest members of the Loyal Legion and is now a priest in one of the religious orders of the Catholic Church.

Governor Durbin will preside, at English's Opera House, the Rev. J. H. Torrance, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, will be one of the noted figures during the day.

THE TORCHLIGHT PARADE. The last parade of the day will be that of the German societies of the city. Under the command of Marshal J. L. Bieler the torchlight procession of the German societies will form promptly at 8 o'clock, moving on the south side of Washington street to Senate avenue, commencing march on the north side of Washington street to Meridian street, north on Meridian street to the monument.

RECORD-BREAKING CROWD. Indianapolis is expected to break all its one-day records for crowds to-day. If the experience of railroads yesterday is a basis for a new record will be set that may for a long time remain unapproached.

GENERAL MCCOOK IN CITY. A notable warrior will witness monument dedication. One of the best-known of the distinguished men here to attend the dedicatory exercises is Gen. Alexander McDowell McCook, who has, since 1866, been a retired army officer.

GENERAL OLINSTEAD IN TOWN. One of the visitors arriving yesterday was Gen. W. A. Olinstead, of Notre Dame. He was a gallant soldier in the Second Corps all through the war. He was one of the earliest members of the Loyal Legion and is now a priest in one of the religious orders of the Catholic Church.

GENERAL MCCOOK IN CITY. A notable warrior will witness monument dedication. One of the best-known of the distinguished men here to attend the dedicatory exercises is Gen. Alexander McDowell McCook, who has, since 1866, been a retired army officer.

GENERAL OLINSTEAD IN TOWN. One of the visitors arriving yesterday was Gen. W. A. Olinstead, of Notre Dame. He was a gallant soldier in the Second Corps all through the war. He was one of the earliest members of the Loyal Legion and is now a priest in one of the religious orders of the Catholic Church.

GENERAL MCCOOK IN CITY. A notable warrior will witness monument dedication. One of the best-known of the distinguished men here to attend the dedicatory exercises is Gen. Alexander McDowell McCook, who has, since 1866, been a retired army officer.

GENERAL OLINSTEAD IN TOWN. One of the visitors arriving yesterday was Gen. W. A. Olinstead, of Notre Dame. He was a gallant soldier in the Second Corps all through the war. He was one of the earliest members of the Loyal Legion and is now a priest in one of the religious orders of the Catholic Church.

Governor Durbin will preside, at English's Opera House, the Rev. J. H. Torrance, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, will be one of the noted figures during the day.

THE TORCHLIGHT PARADE. The last parade of the day will be that of the German societies of the city. Under the command of Marshal J. L. Bieler the torchlight procession of the German societies will form promptly at 8 o'clock, moving on the south side of Washington street to Senate avenue, commencing march on the north side of Washington street to Meridian street, north on Meridian street to the monument.

RECORD-BREAKING CROWD. Indianapolis is expected to break all its one-day records for crowds to-day. If the experience of railroads yesterday is a basis for a new record will be set that may for a long time remain unapproached.

GENERAL MCCOOK IN CITY. A notable warrior will witness monument dedication. One of the best-known of the distinguished men here to attend the dedicatory exercises is Gen. Alexander McDowell McCook, who has, since 1866, been a retired army officer.

GENERAL OLINSTEAD IN TOWN. One of the visitors arriving yesterday was Gen. W. A. Olinstead, of Notre Dame. He was a gallant soldier in the Second Corps all through the war. He was one of the earliest members of the Loyal Legion and is now a priest in one of the religious orders of the Catholic Church.

GENERAL MCCOOK IN CITY. A notable warrior will witness monument dedication. One of the best-known of the distinguished men here to attend the dedicatory exercises is Gen. Alexander McDowell McCook, who has, since 1866, been a retired army officer.

GENERAL OLINSTEAD IN TOWN. One of the visitors arriving yesterday was Gen. W. A. Olinstead, of Notre Dame. He was a gallant soldier in the Second Corps all through the war. He was one of the earliest members of the Loyal Legion and is now a priest in one of the religious orders of the Catholic Church.

GENERAL MCCOOK IN CITY. A notable warrior will witness monument dedication. One of the best-known of the distinguished men here to attend the dedicatory exercises is Gen. Alexander McDowell McCook, who has, since 1866, been a retired army officer.

GENERAL OLINSTEAD IN TOWN. One of the visitors arriving yesterday was Gen. W. A. Olinstead, of Notre Dame. He was a gallant soldier in the Second Corps all through the war. He was one of the earliest members of the Loyal Legion and is now a priest in one of the religious orders of the Catholic Church.

Governor Durbin will preside, at English's Opera House, the Rev. J. H. Torrance, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, will be one of the noted figures during the day.

THE TORCHLIGHT PARADE. The last parade of the day will be that of the German societies of the city. Under the command of Marshal J. L. Bieler the torchlight procession of the German societies will form promptly at 8 o'clock, moving on the south side of Washington street to Senate avenue, commencing march on the north side of Washington street to Meridian street, north on Meridian street to the monument.

RECORD-BREAKING CROWD. Indianapolis is expected to break all its one-day records for crowds to-day. If the experience of railroads yesterday is a basis for a new record will be set that may for a long time remain unapproached.

GENERAL MCCOOK IN CITY. A notable warrior will witness monument dedication. One of the best-known of the distinguished men here to attend the dedicatory exercises is Gen. Alexander McDowell McCook, who has, since 1866, been a retired army officer.

GENERAL OLINSTEAD IN TOWN. One of the visitors arriving yesterday was Gen. W. A. Olinstead, of Notre Dame. He was a gallant soldier in the Second Corps all through the war. He was one of the earliest members of the Loyal Legion and is now a priest in one of the religious orders of the Catholic Church.

GENERAL MCCOOK IN CITY. A notable warrior will witness monument dedication. One of the best-known of the distinguished men here to attend the dedicatory exercises is Gen. Alexander McDowell McCook, who has, since 1866, been a retired army officer.

GENERAL OLINSTEAD IN TOWN. One of the visitors arriving yesterday was Gen. W. A. Olinstead, of Notre Dame. He was a gallant soldier in the Second Corps all through the war. He was one of the earliest members of the Loyal Legion and is now a priest in one of the religious orders of the Catholic Church.

GENERAL MCCOOK IN CITY. A notable warrior will witness monument dedication. One of the best-known of the distinguished men here to attend the dedicatory exercises is Gen. Alexander McDowell McCook, who has, since 1866, been a retired army officer.

GENERAL OLINSTEAD IN TOWN. One of the visitors arriving yesterday was Gen. W. A. Olinstead, of Notre Dame. He was a gallant soldier in the Second Corps all through the war. He was one of the earliest members of the Loyal Legion and is now a priest in one of the religious orders of the Catholic Church.

BELIEVES IN OSTEOPATHY

Does Prof. W. T. Ayres, of De Pauw University, His Merits Extolled by Leading Citizens of Indianapolis.

It will prove invaluable to many afflicted people, consulted by the leading and distinguished citizens who have obtained relief through osteopathy. That Dr. Spaulhurst's treatment, in his opinion, cannot be doubted after perusal of such testimony as follows:

"For eight years I experimented with old methods, consulted the best and exhausted all available means without benefit. Friends became alarmed and prevailed upon me to try osteopathy. I began treatment of Dr. J. P. Spaulhurst, one of the most skillful Osteopaths in the United States. Five treatments removed all symptoms of Asthma, Smell, taste and appetite are restored. Asthma and Catarrh of head and digestive tract are cured. In three months I gained thirty-two pounds, and old friends fail to recognize me, so complete is the change effected. Dr. Spaulhurst is persistent, painstaking, conscientious, and he is certainly bringing joy and relief to many abandoned souls who are incurables."

Henry C. Long, of 118 N. Penn. St., said: "A tubercular condition of the breast was entirely healed in three months by Dr. Spaulhurst's skillful mechanical treatment. Lumps over chest and soreness in spine disappeared. Gas on stomach and bowels and bad renal trouble were removed in three weeks. In view of these facts I certainly have good reason to admire Dr. Spaulhurst, and I feel that I am doing good to afflicted humanity in registering my hearty approval of osteopathy as practiced by him."

Jno. M. Whitney, 250 Douglas street, foreman of Brewer & Love Bros. cotton mills since its establishment, said: "A little over a year ago I had given up all hope after exhausting all medical means. I was persuaded by my sister to try Dr. Spaulhurst's treatment. I received benefit from the beginning, and my recovery was so rapid that it surprised myself as well as friends. I gained fourteen pounds in a short time and soon resumed my work, which I have continued steadily for over a year. My continued malady, indigestion, constipation, rheumatism and jaundice—are cured permanently and I have no hesitancy in saying that I owe my escape from Crown Hill to Dr. Spaulhurst."

Throw away your prejudices, look at these facts with simple justice. In the light of these plain, truthful statements, rest on your better judgment, and you, too, may enjoy health. All patients receive Dr. Spaulhurst's personal attention and none but registered, experienced Osteopaths are associated with him, 328-29 Stevenson Building.

GOVERNOR WINFIELD T. DURBIN Chairman Executive Committee.

tion of an era in the State's history of which they are fast-disappearing evidence. There was practiced the most commercial in the character of the crowd. It did not come to spend money nor to make money. It filled the hotels and restaurants, but was not prepared for shopping.

Probably Four Thousand Persons Passed Through His Parlors. From 7:30 until 9:30 last evening an unbroken line of men, women and children passed through the public office of Governor Durbin and into his private office, where he greeted each with a handshake and smile. The public reception was given in honor of the visitors to the dedication. The corridors of the Statehouse were gaily illuminated, and in the balcony the band from the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan and the Orphans' Home played patriotic airs.

They Will Take Part in the Big Parade This Afternoon. Forty members of the regular army met at the office of Wallace Sherwood, 29 South Delaware street, last night, and provided for participation in the parade to-day. Those who served in the regular army between wars are not eligible to the veteran organizations of the civil and Spanish-American wars. The purpose of the meeting was to organize a local garrison of the Army and Navy Union, and as a result Mr. Sherwood was authorized to communicate with the adjutant of this union. Mr. Sherwood says a garrison with a large membership will be organized here and the membership extended throughout the State.

HON. JOHN W. FOSTER IN TOWN. Will Deliver an Address at Monument Dedication To-Day. Hon. John W. Foster, who is to take part in the dedicatory services at the monument to-day, arrived from Washington yesterday and is a guest of his old friend, Captain J. A. Lemcke, at Meridian and Vermont streets. Mr. Foster was feeling badly last night, and Dr. Franklin W. Hays was called to see him. It was thought that with a good night's rest he would be able to deliver his address. He had been suffering with grip, and the fatigue of the trip from Washington, together with cold, seemed to have brought on a slight relapse of the malady. A man said Dr. Foster last night that he is looked upon as one of the ablest diplomats in America to-day.

spends visiting his children. General McCook graduated at the West Point Military Academy fifty years ago in June. For eight years after the close of the war he was in Texas in command of the subdivision of Rio Grande. At the close of this service he was made inspector general for the Department of Missouri and filled this office for a year. For six years he was on the Governor Durbin will preside, at English's Opera House, the Rev. J. H. Torrance, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, will be one of the noted figures during the day.

THE TORCHLIGHT PARADE. The last parade of the day will be that of the German societies of the city. Under the command of Marshal J. L. Bieler the torchlight procession of the German societies will form promptly at 8 o'clock, moving on the south side of Washington street to Senate avenue, commencing march on the north side of Washington street to Meridian street, north on Meridian street to the monument.

RECORD-BREAKING CROWD. Indianapolis is expected to break all its one-day records for crowds to-day. If the experience of railroads yesterday is a basis for a new record will be set that may for a long time remain unapproached.

GENERAL MCCOOK IN CITY. A notable warrior will witness monument dedication. One of the best-known of the distinguished men here to attend the dedicatory exercises is Gen. Alexander McDowell McCook, who has, since 1866, been a retired army officer.

GENERAL OLINSTEAD IN TOWN. One of the visitors arriving yesterday was Gen. W. A. Olinstead, of Notre Dame. He was a gallant soldier in the Second Corps all through the war. He was one of the earliest members of the Loyal Legion and is now a priest in one of the religious orders of the Catholic Church.

GENERAL MCCOOK IN CITY. A notable warrior will witness monument dedication. One of the best-known of the distinguished men here to attend the dedicatory exercises is Gen. Alexander McDowell McCook, who has, since 1866, been a retired army officer.

GENERAL OLINSTEAD IN TOWN. One of the visitors arriving yesterday was Gen. W. A. Olinstead, of Notre Dame. He was a gallant soldier in the Second Corps all through the war. He was one of the earliest members of the Loyal Legion and is now a priest in one of the religious orders of the Catholic Church.

GENERAL MCCOOK IN CITY. A notable warrior will witness monument dedication. One of the best-known of the distinguished men here to attend the dedicatory exercises is Gen. Alexander McDowell McCook, who has, since 1866, been a retired army officer.

Governor Durbin will preside, at English's Opera House, the Rev. J. H. Torrance, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, will be one of the noted figures during the day.

THE TORCHLIGHT PARADE. The last parade of the day will be that of the German societies of the city. Under the command of Marshal J. L. Bieler the torchlight procession of the German societies will form promptly at 8 o'clock, moving on the south side of Washington street to Senate avenue, commencing march on the north side of Washington street to Meridian street, north on Meridian street to the monument.

RECORD-BREAKING CROWD. Indianapolis is expected to break all its one-day records for crowds to-day. If the experience of railroads yesterday is a basis for a new record will be set that may for a long time remain unapproached.

GENERAL MCCOOK IN CITY. A notable warrior will witness monument dedication. One of the best-known of the distinguished men here to attend the dedicatory exercises is Gen. Alexander McDowell McCook, who has, since 1866, been a retired army officer.

GENERAL OLINSTEAD IN TOWN. One of the visitors arriving yesterday was Gen. W. A. Olinstead, of Notre Dame. He was a gallant soldier in the Second Corps all through the war. He was one of the earliest members of the Loyal Legion and is now a priest in one of the religious orders of the Catholic Church.

GENERAL MCCOOK IN CITY. A notable warrior will witness monument dedication. One of the best-known of the distinguished men here to attend the dedicatory exercises is Gen. Alexander McDowell McCook, who has, since 1866, been a retired army officer.

GENERAL OLINSTEAD IN TOWN. One of the visitors arriving yesterday was Gen. W. A. Olinstead, of Notre Dame. He was a gallant soldier in the Second Corps all through the war. He was one of the earliest members of the Loyal Legion and is now a priest in one of the religious orders of the Catholic Church.

GENERAL MCCOOK IN CITY. A notable warrior will witness monument dedication. One of the best-known of the distinguished men here to attend the dedicatory exercises is Gen. Alexander McDowell McCook, who has, since 1866, been a retired army officer.

Advertisement for 'Good enough for anybody!' cigars, featuring 'FLUORODORA BANDS' and 'SPEARHEAD, STANDARD NAVY, OLD PEACH & HONEY' brands.

Witnesses were heard, and the case aroused an interest that was widespread among Catholics. Gaullier, among other things, alleged that Miss Loomis's Catholicism was a mere pretense affected for the purpose of bringing about the marriage. He said his wife was his object and that Miss Loomis had taken advantage of his religious beliefs to hold him fast. The finding of the ecclesiastical court, headed by Rev. Father M. J. Mooney, that the marriage is a sacrament and cannot, therefore, be broken by any power on earth.

DEBATE IN CONGRESS. Fortifications Appropriation Bill Considered by the Senate. WASHINGTON, May 14.—During the greater part of the Senate session to-day the fortifications appropriation bill was under consideration. Mr. Proctor of Vermont, offered an amendment providing that no part of the appropriation made should be used for procuring disappearing gun carriages. The amendment precipitated a debate which continued for two hours and had not been concluded when the measure was laid aside for the day.

Naval Bill in the House. WASHINGTON, May 14.—The naval appropriation bill occupied the attention of the House throughout the day. Mr. Dayton, of West Virginia, speaking on the need of strengthening our naval battle line, while Messrs. W. W. Kitchin, of North Carolina, Fitzgerald, of New York, Metcalf, of California, and Maynard, of Virginia, stated their opposition to the warships in government navy yards.

Governor Sent to Prison. NEW YORK, May 14.—Emma Fisher, the governess who shot little Genia Simons, of Yonkers, owing to fear that she was about to lose her job, was yesterday committed from the child, and then attempted to kill herself, has been sentenced at White Plains to five and one-half years in Auburn prison. The girl heard her sentence with a smile. She told the court officer she was not sorry for what she had done.