NOTABLE SPEECH BY JOSEPH CHAM-BERLAIN IN THE COMMONS.

Intentions of the Government in Regard to the Boers and South African Colonies Outlined.

ALL PROMISES WILL BE KEPT

BOERS WILL NOT BE ASKED TO BREAK WITH OLD TRADITIONS.

Britain Anxious They Should Preserve Their Best Characteristics and Work for Prosperity.

LONDON, July 29.-Mr. Chamberlain's appearance in the House of Commons today was marked by a speech, which won the applause even of such opponents as Henry Labouchere. Mr. Chamberlain dealt comprehensively with the past and future of South Africa. "We have no intention," he declared, "that the Boers should break FOR SLAYING AMERICANS with their old traditions. We desire that they should preserve all the best characteristics of their race, and hope they will shake hands with us, thus securing prosperity in South Africa under the flag which TRIAL OF TWENTY-FIVE NATIVES protects different races and different religions." That sentiment was the keynote of his speech. Dealing with the much discussed labor question, Mr. Chamberlain said he believed every in-Bodies of Their Four Victims Mutiducement to labor should be held out to the blacks, but no scheme of compulsory labor would receive the slightest government support. Regarding the future status of South Africa, the colonial secretary said the imperial government had established a crown colony in the strictest sense. The next step would be to add a nominated official element. Thereafter there would be an elected official element, and then nothing but circumstances and time would separate the new colonies from full self-government, the ultimate goal of their ambition. That consummation would not be delayed, if for no other reason, because it might relieve the government of the tremendous burden of responsibility involved in the present situation, but all must understand that the government would not be rushed carrying correspondence of the so-called nor hustled into any action which circumstances did not warrant. The speaker said he was optimistic enough to believe that the new colonies would reach the ultimate goal of their ambition much sooner than many persons now thought possible. So far as the government was concerned the mar, indicating that the people of that surrender promises would be kept in spirit as well as in letter. He thought it would be perfectly fair to lay Wright, however, refused to weaken; and Lorente was inaugurated according to the a fair part of the cost of the war on the principal industry of the Transvaal, but what amount it was too soon to say. considerably abated, even in Brittany, owing to the circumstances that none of the recalcitrant schools will be forcibly closed until special decrees to this end have been signed for each department. In many departments such action will not be necessary, as the congregations have submitted, and moreover the decision of the government not to close those schools for which authorization was not asked owing to misinterpretation of the law has had something of a quieting effect. The leaders of the agitation still talk of organizing popular protests, but the life seems to be out of the movement so far as Paris is concerned. Here the Socialists have determined upon counter demonstrations to every clerical meeting. Some disturbances in the provinces, especially in Finisterre, are probable, when the police close the schools, but there is evidently a lull in the excitement for the moment. The only incident reported to-day was that a group of women at Rodese, in the Department of Averon, attacked a teacher and compelled him to take refuge in the communal school. French Naval Officers in Disgrace.

PARIS, July 29 .- Two distinguished naval officers, Vice Admiral De Beaumont, maritime prefect of Toulon, and Rear Admiral Servan, commanding the Atlantic division, have been summarily relieved of their commands by order of President Loubet. Rear Admiral Servan's downfall is attributed to sensational developments which led up to the recent suicide of Commander Barry, who shot himself in the cabin of the cruiser Tage while off Martinique. Rear Admiral Servan was aboard the Tage at the time. De Beaumont's discipline is said to be due to a recently published but denied interview severely criticising the minister of marine, M. Pellantine.

The Marquis De Mores was killed near Gabes, in June, 1896, by a number of bandits. El Kheir and Hamma Chiekh were the only ones of his assailants captured. The State Department has no hesitation in fully approving the energetic and sufficient action of Commander McCrea in taking care of the foreign consuls and in preventing a bombardment without warning. The American and foreign interests in Cape Haitien are large, and an American captain is required by the unwritten law to look after the life and property of other foreign residents, as well as Americans, in such cases. It is said the rules of international law, as well as the dictates of humanity, require that proper notice be given before a bombardment in order that women, children and noncombatants may leave the town and carry off their personal

The Navy Department feels that the Machias is sufficiently large for the work at hand at this point, though if there were more such small American gunboats in the gulf and Caribbean, a quieting and restraining influence would be exerted over these frequent rebellious outbreaks, involving violations of the rules of war and great suffering. However, there is no naval vessel, save those now actually engaged in such service as the Machias, within 1,800 miles of the various seats of trouble in Central and South America and the West Indies. The Machias is a vessel of 1,177 tons, carrying eight four-inch rapid-fire guns and a crew of eleven officers and 143 men. While not many men could be spared for a landing party, the vessel undoubtedly could lie in the anchorage and cover the town with her guns. It is not believed that there is the slightest danger of an attack upon her by any of the Haitien gunboats, loyal or rebel.

BAILEY AT ST. LOUIS

WHAT THE TEXAN IS ALLEGED TO HAVE SAID TO A REPORTER.

"Beveridge and I Are the Best of Friends"-Judge Penfield Alluded to as a "Four Flusher."

LOUISVILLE, July 29,-The Times prints the following special dispatch from St. Louis: A broad-shouldered man of medium height and of youthful visage, wearing a long frock coat and looking as dignified as minister of the gospel, stepped from a Vandalia train at Union station to-day. In his right hand he carried a grip, on which were inscribed the initials "J. W. B." "Senator Bailey, I believe," was the The Assets of the Company in the United States greeting which caused the fighting Texas senator to halt and, turning around, suddenly exclaim:

"You're mistaken this time, thank goodness. I am not Joe Bailey.

Then the senator chuckled, declined the services of an usher to carry his grip and hurried up to the dining room. He finally acknowledged his identity. He refused to discuss his little altercation at Washington with Senator Beveridge, saying: "That's ended now; Beveridge and I are the best of friends. "And Penfield?" "Oh," said the senator, "I am not talking about 'four-flushers' to-day. I haven't time. Please excuse me. As the senator started for his train he was stopped by the gateman, who requested him to show his ticket. "Don't you knew who I am?" said Bailey.

"No, sir; and you can't go through without my seeing your ticket." Thereupon the Texas senator produced his transportation.
