ARMY OFFICER WHO KILLED A BROTHER OFFICER ON LATTER'S WEDDING DAY

BERLIN, July 31.—Emperor William has pardoned Lieutenant Hildebrand, who was sentenced to two years' imprisonment in a fortress for the killing of Lieutenant Blaskowitz in a duel last November. The affair attracted international attention, because Blaskowitz was shot and killed on the morning of the day set for his wedding. The duel, which took place at Insterburg, East Prussia, followed an episode in which Blaskowitz, while intoxicated at his bachelor dinner, struck Lieutenant Hildebrand. A settlement of honor decided that the duel was unavoidable. An investigation developed the fact that Lieutenant Blaskowitz was the day after his bachelor dinner without any recollection of the altercation and went to visit his fiancée, where he was recalled to fight the duel. Lieutenant Hildebrand served only seven months of his sentence. Military men explain the pardon by saying that Lieutenant Hildebrand acted simply as the laws of honor required. BRITISH WEST INDIES

Conditions Reviewed by Chamberlain—Grant of $1,250,000. LONDON, July 31.—In an explanatory statement in the House of Commons to-day of the grant of £250,000 for the relief of sugar planters in the British West Indies, Colonial Secretary Chamberlain said he took a hopeful view of the future of the islands. When he took office, grave apprehensions were expressed that the islands were being ruined by the West Indies, and it was that state of affairs that led to the appointment in 1898 of a royal commission to investigate the West Indian sugar industry. As a result of the Brussels conference, the abolition of sugar bounties, which were ruining the West Indies, the situation had much improved and was now much brighter, especially as a direct line of fruit steamers was developing an important trade. It was promised also that enormous coal deposits, which had been found in Trinidad, would materially help the islands, and British Guiana, which had been largely neglected, had now been developed. The diamond and gold fields, which promised to have considerable commercial value. However, the period of the diamond and gold bounties in 1903 must be bridged over, and £250,000 was the smallest sum that would suffice. The government would see that the relief fund was so distributed that the neediest should get the largest share.
