

Telephone Calls (Old and New), Business Office... TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION...

REduced Rates to Clubs, Weekly Edition, One copy, one year...

REduced Rates to Agents, Subscribers with any of our numerous agents...

THE INDIANAPOLIS JOURNAL, Can be found at the following places: NEW YORK—Astor House...

CHICAGO—Palmer House, P. O. News Co., 217 Dearborn street...

CINCINNATI—J. R. Hawley & Co., Arcade, Louisville—C. T. Deering, northwest corner...

ST. LOUIS—Union News Company, Union Depot, Washington, D. C.—Bills House, Ebbitt House...

DAVENPORT, Col.—Lombard & Jackson, Fifteenth and Lawrence streets...

Those persons who are yet writing letters to Washington denouncing the site selected for an army post ought to cease...

The commission on grade crossings appointed by the mayor should make thorough investigation as to what effect track elevation might have on the switching facilities of the city.

There should have been no fight to make any Territory a State which has not the population required in a large State for a representative...

Senator Quay may pretend to be sorry for having to desert his recent Democratic allies, but it is safe to wager that he is glad to be back in the Republican fold again.

The appropriation by Congress of $200,000 for ex-Queen Liliuokalani in full of all her legal and equitable claims against the United States will probably be perfectly satisfactory to her and will quiet Uncle Sam's title to Hawaii, if it needed any quieting before.

Mr. Clinton R. Woodruff, whoever he may be, thinks that municipal ownership of public utilities would do away with the corruption incident to private ownership.

The fact that two prominent railroad officials, President Ingalls, of the Big Four, and Receiver Maloit, have large personal interests in this city repels the idea that they would try to get an undue advantage or impose an unnecessary expense upon it in favor of the railroads...

The conclusion of an agreement with Cuba by which the United States acquires a naval station and a coaling station at eligible points on the island is a matter of considerable importance. It commits the Cuban government to carrying out the Platt amendment to its Constitution and the United States a foothold on the island that will add materially to our naval control of West Indian waters.

The fussy Canadians are objecting to Senators Lodge and Turner acting as members of the Alaskan boundary commission, on the ground that both have expressed opinions on the subject. Canadians seem not to know that the commission is not an arbitration board, but a body to ascertain if the documents and record make the boundary the same that Russia and Great Britain fixed many years ago.

Experience demonstrated long ago that there are reformers and reformers. There are theoretical reformers and practical reformers, idealists and men of affairs, hobby riders who think they know it all and would rather have nothing accomplished unless it is done their way, and people of common sense who think more of results than they do of methods.

The Democratic in the House who amended a bill so that the trustees of an institution would have no compensation beyond actual expenses probably imagined that he was doing a smart thing. When the Democrats made trustees they not only gave them compensation, but allowed such trustees to employ lawyers at salaries ranging from $90 to $1,200 in at least four institutions. It would be just as sensible and fit to vote that members of the Legislature should have but actual expenses and require them to submit an itemized account of their expenses.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

The outcome was a complete surrender by Senator Quay, and while the compromise measure was not accepted by the Democratic contingent, in his following they also surrendered to the extent of withdrawing the riders to the appropriation bill. Senator Quay was not only forced to surrender, but, by keeping faith with the Republicans, he was forced into the position of deserting his Democratic allies. Senator Beveridge failed to get Oklahoma in, but he broke the deadlock, thereby insuring the passage of the appropriation bills and the ratification of the pending treaties and preventing an extra session of the Senate.

John H. Emrich, Prof. Scot Butler, Charles E. Coffin, Eudorus M. Johnson and Charles H. Buddebaum. The people have absolute confidence in this commission and its ability to protect public interests. The commission is pledged to consent to nothing short of a satisfactory, complete and permanent solution of the grade-crossing problem. Although it has taken much evidence and heard many views, it has not yet got to the bottom of the subject. It would be insulting to question its ability or its purpose to do so. The representatives of the railroads have expressed their confidence in the commission and their willingness to discuss and arbitrate disputed points with it. When the commission has threshed out the whole subject it will be able to report a plan for eliminating grade crossings that ought to be satisfactory to the city authorities, the railroads and the public. It may not be exactly the plan that this or that individual has approved, but it may be better than any plan that has yet been suggested. Practical business men know that questions of this kind, involving large property interests and conflicting views, cannot always be settled on theoretical lines nor without much deliberation. The compromise bill opens the way to a satisfactory settlement of the matter in the near future, and if such a settlement is not reached the city authorities can go before the next Legislature with a much stronger case than they have now. For the present the compromise bill was undoubtedly the best thing that could have been done.

All government begins in the primary. If the machinery of the primary falls into unclean hands and only a few interested persons attend, unit nominations will be made. The packed primary is a menace to party unity and integrity. Republicans will not continue to go to the polls and vote tickets that are not of the best material and by the success of which efficient government cannot be obtained. It is reported about the Statehouse that some of the Democrats in the House will vote against the bill to please Democrats in this city. The Journal cannot think that Democrats in Marion county desire to continue the systematic frauds which have prevailed in Democratic primaries in this city whenever there has been an exciting contest. It must be a few men who distrust their influence with the Democratic voters who oppose the pending bill. If the Democrats in the House oppose the pending bill, it is all the more incumbent upon Republican members to rally as one man for the bill and make its passage certain.

REPRESENTATIVES OF THE PEOPLE The Journal has called attention to the threats of one class of men who now assume to dictate to the General Assembly of Indiana. Now the county officers who are here in force are reported as saying that "they want to get the Gard bill before the House and place the members on record for and against it so that they will know where their friends are." Presumably this large delegation of county officers also desires to know who will oppose the bill so that they may punish them. Now, all the county officers here, labor union committees, temperance and anti-temperance lobbyists and all who make threats should be made to understand that it is the General Assembly of the people of Indiana that is in session, and that the senators and representatives should first ascertain the sentiment of the most intelligent people regarding important topics. To threaten a member of the Legislature with punishment if he does or does not support a certain measure is an outrage upon the rights and privileges of a member who is under oath to look after the public welfare before all else.

As for the county officers who are alleged to be here lobbying for the Gard bill, if they wish to influence members why do they not bring petitions from their respective counties signed by large numbers of taxpayers and reputable citizens advising them to vote for that measure? If they cannot get such petitions the people are against the bill and it ought not to be passed. Now, the intelligent representative who has had time to look over the Gard bill, which has been extended as to salaries by the Senate committee, must feel some doubt about voting for such a bill; indeed, a great deal of doubt if he is heartily from many constituents. In view of this fact the representative can fling back the threat of the county officer and remind him that he is but one of the several thousand men who voted for him.

If any of the county officers elected last fall or those who were candidates had announced that they would ask for such an increase of salary as the Gard bill provides for some of them they would have been defeated, as the representative would have been in many instances had he announced his purpose to vote for such a bill. But the point it is desired to make here is that threatening a representative for supporting or opposing a measure is an attempt at coercion, which the laws make an offense with a high penalty.

THE GRADE-CROSSING QUESTION. While the Journal would have been better pleased to have recorded a complete victory for the city in the matter of track elevation—or to use the better phrase, "elimination of grade crossings"—it believes the compromise measure agreed upon is the best that could have been done in existing circumstances. The city should have been given power to compel the railroads to adopt a definite policy in this regard, but as there was no probability that such a bill could be passed in the few remaining days of the session over the opposition of the railroads, it was wise for the city to do the next best thing. When the Democrats made trustees they not only gave them compensation, but allowed such trustees to employ lawyers at salaries ranging from $90 to $1,200 in at least four institutions. It would be just as sensible and fit to vote that members of the Legislature should have but actual expenses and require them to submit an itemized account of their expenses.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

THE PRIMARY ELECTION BILL IN THE HOUSE.

It is probable that the primary election bill which has already passed the Senate may come up in the House to-day. It applies to all three counties. To this county it is of the utmost importance if the masses of voters belonging to the two leading parties are to have any voice in the selection of candidates. While it is not pretended that every Republican or every man claiming to be a Republican is in favor of the pending bill, it is claimed that the entire body of Republicans who are such from principle are in favor of a primary law that shall insure a party primary with a fair vote and count of Republicans who vote, and which shall throw about the primary, whether called to nominate candidates direct or elect delegates, all the safeguards that now surround the ballot box in the general elections.

All government begins in the primary. If the machinery of the primary falls into unclean hands and only a few interested persons attend, unit nominations will be made. The packed primary is a menace to party unity and integrity. Republicans will not continue to go to the polls and vote tickets that are not of the best material and by the success of which efficient government cannot be obtained. It is reported about the Statehouse that some of the Democrats in the House will vote against the bill to please Democrats in this city. The Journal cannot think that Democrats in Marion county desire to continue the systematic frauds which have prevailed in Democratic primaries in this city whenever there has been an exciting contest. It must be a few men who distrust their influence with the Democratic voters who oppose the pending bill. If the Democrats in the House oppose the pending bill, it is all the more incumbent upon Republican members to rally as one man for the bill and make its passage certain.

REPRESENTATIVES OF THE PEOPLE The Journal has called attention to the threats of one class of men who now assume to dictate to the General Assembly of Indiana. Now the county officers who are here in force are reported as saying that "they want to get the Gard bill before the House and place the members on record for and against it so that they will know where their friends are." Presumably this large delegation of county officers also desires to know who will oppose the bill so that they may punish them. Now, all the county officers here, labor union committees, temperance and anti-temperance lobbyists and all who make threats should be made to understand that it is the General Assembly of the people of Indiana that is in session, and that the senators and representatives should first ascertain the sentiment of the most intelligent people regarding important topics. To threaten a member of the Legislature with punishment if he does or does not support a certain measure is an outrage upon the rights and privileges of a member who is under oath to look after the public welfare before all else.

As for the county officers who are alleged to be here lobbying for the Gard bill, if they wish to influence members why do they not bring petitions from their respective counties signed by large numbers of taxpayers and reputable citizens advising them to vote for that measure? If they cannot get such petitions the people are against the bill and it ought not to be passed. Now, the intelligent representative who has had time to look over the Gard bill, which has been extended as to salaries by the Senate committee, must feel some doubt about voting for such a bill; indeed, a great deal of doubt if he is heartily from many constituents. In view of this fact the representative can fling back the threat of the county officer and remind him that he is but one of the several thousand men who voted for him.

If any of the county officers elected last fall or those who were candidates had announced that they would ask for such an increase of salary as the Gard bill provides for some of them they would have been defeated, as the representative would have been in many instances had he announced his purpose to vote for such a bill. But the point it is desired to make here is that threatening a representative for supporting or opposing a measure is an attempt at coercion, which the laws make an offense with a high penalty.

THE GRADE-CROSSING QUESTION. While the Journal would have been better pleased to have recorded a complete victory for the city in the matter of track elevation—or to use the better phrase, "elimination of grade crossings"—it believes the compromise measure agreed upon is the best that could have been done in existing circumstances. The city should have been given power to compel the railroads to adopt a definite policy in this regard, but as there was no probability that such a bill could be passed in the few remaining days of the session over the opposition of the railroads, it was wise for the city to do the next best thing. When the Democrats made trustees they not only gave them compensation, but allowed such trustees to employ lawyers at salaries ranging from $90 to $1,200 in at least four institutions. It would be just as sensible and fit to vote that members of the Legislature should have but actual expenses and require them to submit an itemized account of their expenses.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

REVISION OF OUR CORPORATION LAWS.

The substitute for Senate bill No. 112, which provided for a general revision of the statute laws of the State, is better adapted to meet immediate wants than was the original, and would also involve less expense. The original bill involved a revision of all the statute laws of the State. This may be a needed work, but it would require much time and involve large expense. A work of more immediate importance is the compilation, revision and codification of the laws relating to corporations. The necessity of such revision is recognized by lawyers and business men throughout the State. The general statutes were revised in 1833, in 1853 and in 1881, but the laws relating to corporations have not been revised and codified since 1852. By the term corporations as here used is meant public as well as private corporations, including laws relating to municipalities, to highways and drainage, to manufacturing, mining, insurance and all kinds of business corporations. The revision of these laws made by the commission of 1881 was not adopted by the Legislature, and consequently there has been no revision of them since 1852, over half a century. The result is great confusion in the laws, embarrassment to business, a hindrance to the operations of capital and large annual loss to the State. Fifty years is almost too long to have gone without a revision of corporation laws in a State that has grown as fast as Indiana. In 1852 probably not one-fifth of the business in the State was done by corporations; now probably four-fifths of the business is done by corporate organizations. Laws relating to such large interests should not be allowed to remain in a state of confusion. They should be adjusted to the actual business needs and conditions of to-day. The promoters of the coliseum could not find a law under which they could incorporate for the purpose, and they had to ask for a special act. There are scores of corporations of Indiana capital doing business in this State which have organized under the laws of other States because of the defective or antiquated character of Indiana corporation laws. It would take more than the entire session of a Legislature to revise and codify these laws without doing anything else. It cannot be done by the Legislature. It can only be done by a commission of competent lawyers whose finished work shall be submitted to the Legislature.

The bill originally introduced in the Senate provided for five commissioners at $4,000 each, with other expenses. The pending bill provides for three commissioners and has cut down the expenses. The work of revision requires good lawyers, and $4,000 a year is not more than a reasonable compensation. From information received from practicing lawyers the Journal feels justified in saying that a proper revision of the corporation laws of the State would bring into the state treasury every year more than the entire cost of the work, besides benefiting business and the public in other ways. There is no wisdom in neglecting or postponing a work the necessity and importance of which are so obvious, and which grows more urgent the longer it is deferred.

The Journal does not know what course the Republicans of the Legislature will pursue with reference to the bill which takes the appointment of police commissioners out of the hands of the mayor of South Bend and vests it in the Governor, but it makes free to say that such action has scanty defense. South Bend has a charter from the State which confers the power of self-government upon that people. Because a mayor has been elected who seems to have exceedingly loose notions regarding the enforcement of laws the city charter should not be changed. Let the people of South Bend lie in the bed which they have made. If they have elected a person not in sympathy with the enforcement of the laws, and who will not suppress violence, there is a remedy against that officer. If the people of the city do not propose to take that remedy, let them bear the ills they have, and next time there is reason to believe they will elect a better man. The compromise bill is a real compromise in that respect, but as there was no probability that such a bill could be passed in the few remaining days of the session over the opposition of the railroads, it was wise for the city to do the next best thing. When the Democrats made trustees they not only gave them compensation, but allowed such trustees to employ lawyers at salaries ranging from $90 to $1,200 in at least four institutions. It would be just as sensible and fit to vote that members of the Legislature should have but actual expenses and require them to submit an itemized account of their expenses.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

Washington dispatches state that Senator Beveridge is being highly complimented over the successful fight he made on the steamship bill. He deserves to be. It takes good generalship and hard and persistent fighting to beat an adroit leader like Senator Quay, who had behind him a considerable Republican and the solid Democratic following. Senator Beveridge's position as chairman of the Senate committee on Territories gave him the leadership of the opposition to the omnibus bill providing for the admission of all three of the Territories, and he led it with marked ability.

Wanted Good Service.

Dusty Daniel—Please, sir, will you lend me a dime to get something to eat? Well—Why, you've got a quarter in your hand now. What's that for? Dusty Daniel—That's to tip the waiter.

The Usual Prattle.

Chicago Post. "They thought he was dead, you know, and the papers printed obituary notices." "Well, then they were wrong." "Why, then he's turned up, and since he's read those notices he's too proud to speak to anyone."

Generosity.

New York Evening Sun. Magnate Stevens (entering unannounced)—Look here, young man, I'm not paying you to make love to my daughter! Redway Inks (affably)—Oh, that's all right, sir. I'll not charge you anything extra for it!

Good Business.

Chicago News. Bystander—What are you doing on that fence, little boy? "Well, I'm giving me a penny to sit here on 'em" make faces at the coal-wagon drivers. Bystander—What is that for? "Boy—Why, they get hot 'n' throw coal at me 'n' it falls in our yard."