TWO STORES INDIANAPOLIS LOUISVILLE

KNIGHTS OF FIDELITY.

National Convention Will Begin Its Sessions in the City To-Day.

To-day in the hall of the Order of Railroad Conductors in the Pierson block on North Delaware street the annual national convention of the Knights of Fidelity will begin. The meeting will be called to order this morning by Supreme Valiant Commander James Hay. Following that the regular routine of business will be transacted.

National officers of the organization began to arrive yesterday and a large number of delegates from all over the country, including representatives from Pennsylvania, New York, District of Columbia, Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky, Wisconsin, Tennessee, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska, Illinois and other States, will attend. Next year an effort will be made to secure this city as the national headquarters as John Agnew will be a candidate for the office of supreme recorder. The present incumbent, J. F. Edwards of Chicago, will try for re-election.

The most enjoyable programme for the entertainment of visitors has been arranged by the local committee. This evening the party will take a trolley ride over the city, leaving the corner of Maryland and Illinois streets. A banquet at Fair Bank at which Stephen J. Hartmann, of Lafayette, will be toastmaster and Mayor Charles A. Booker will make the welcoming address. This will be a part of the evening's programme. Henry N. Spain will respond. A number of speeches by prominent members will be made. To-morrow there will be an open carriage drive over the city with a banquet and entertainment at Germania Park. The banquet will be made at 1:30 from the Grand Hotel.

New Pianos at $125 and up at Wulfschneider's.

CONTROL OF COMMITTEE

ACTIVITY NOTICEABLE IN REPUBLICAN STATE CIRCLES.

Senator Beveridge Would Like to Have a Say About the New Committee—News and Gossip.

There is a good deal of activity in Republican State political circles at present, centering in the reorganization of the State committee, which must be effected before the next campaign. The reorganization will not take place until next January, and this is considered rather early to begin the fight.

State Chairman James P. Goodrich, of Winchester, has made two or three hurried trips to the city during the past week, and was here yesterday. Senator Beveridge's office has been full every day for the past week, his callers including friends from different parts of the State. Chairman Goodrich says he is paying no attention to politics at present, but he has held several quiet conferences with Republican leaders, and it is likely he is not entirely uninterested in what is being done. Senator Beveridge smiles and offers no explanation of the unusual influx of callers at his office, and then smiles again. Senator Fairbanks has not been so active, so far as surface indications tell, but his office has been by no means deserted.

The reason for all this activity is this: In the coming campaign Senator Beveridge will be a candidate for re-election, and will be much interested in the composition of the State committee, while at the same time the forces that are known as the Beveridge forces—although they prefer to be known as anti-Beveridge—are not proposed to be left out of the State organization.

Up to date there is no open opposition to the present organization. No candidate has appeared in the field, although several men are mentioned—Governor Durbin, J. Frank Hanly, and others. The name of Representative Hemmway of Booneville, among others, Senator Beveridge says he does not anticipate a contest, but he is not prepared on the theory that he will have no opposition, but is preparing as carefully and as actively as if the fight of his life were now on. His friends say the politicians who entertain the idea that the junior Senator will be re-elected are not far from their eyes opened when the time comes to lay down the hands.

All the present members of the Republican State committee are considered at least passive candidates for re-election, and some of them are preparing to fight for their positions if need be. Chairman Goodrich, it is conceded, would like to remain at the head of the committee. All talk as to who will be candidates for senator in opposition to Beveridge is largely speculation at this state of affairs. Mr. Hanly has been frequently mentioned as expected to be in the fight, but prominent Republicans in Tippecanoe county have said they did not think he would be. He made a strong race four years ago. Some wiseacres point to Representative Hemmway as a possible candidate, and a few weeks ago, when questioned on the point, he said he was in the hands of his friends, but on the other hand there are those who insist that the First district leader has no intention of making the race. Governor Durbin has been frequently mentioned as a candidate, but the talk does not come from his friends, and the Governor himself proverbially close-mouthed on all his political plans.

STEBEN AND DE KALB.

Both Counties Have Candidates for the Circuit Judgeship.

Politicians from Steuben and De Kalb counties are bearing a path to the Governor's office this week and are besieging the chief executive in behalf of their favored candidates for the appointment as judge of the Thirty-fifth judicial circuit to succeed Judge E. D. Hartman, who died last week. There are three candidates for the appointment—James H. Rose, of Auburn, and E. A. Bratton and John G. Yeagley, of Angola.

Mr. Bratton, called on Governor Durbin in person yesterday afternoon and a number of his friends called to urge his claims. Mr. Yeagley has not been here himself, but his friends are equally active in his behalf as are those of the other candidates. N. T. Jackman, of Waterloo, chairman of the Republican county committee of De Kalb county, has been here for two days in the interests of Mr. Rose, and yesterday H. W. Mounitz, of Garrett, and A. E. Robinson, of Rhodes and F. L. Welshimer, of Auburn, joined him in urging the Governor to appoint the De Kalb county man.

The fact that Steuben has two candidates while De Kalb has but one, is believed to give the latter some advantage, but the Steuben republicans are making a strong fight for the appointment, on the grounds that De Kalb county has had the judge ever since the two counties were put together in the circuit. De Kalb has a few more votes in the joint convention than Steuben and has always been able to secure the prize.

It was understood yesterday that Governor Durbin had held out the slightest encouragement to the friends of either candidate and that he did not even indicate when he was asked to make the appointment. The fact that court is scheduled to convene in that circuit next week, however, leads those interested to believe that the Governor will decide the matter some time before Saturday. In the event that the Governor has not made the appointment by the time the court should convene the law provides that the county officers shall select some one to preside as judge until the vacancy filled.

Connected with Reciprocity League.

Eugene Hay, formerly of Madison, Ind., now one of the leading lawyers of Minneapolis, was in the city yesterday to see Senator Fairbanks. Mr. Hay is identified with the Reciprocity League of Minnesota, a civil organization, and he called on the senator to discuss some reciprocity questions and to secure some ideas as to the work of the joint business commission, of which the senator is a member, that sits in Montreal this summer.

Senator Fairbanks's Birthday.

Yesterday was the fifty-first birthday of Senator Fairbanks and he received a number of telegrams of congratulation from friends in various parts of the country. Among the others was a message from the Southern Indiana Editorial Association, now in session on a boat en route up the Ohio and Kentucky rivers, extending the felicitations of the occasion and wishing him many happy returns of the anniversary. Last evening a number of the senator's friends in this city called on him informally at his residence on North Meridian street.

Mr. Holliday in Town.

Representative E. S. Holliday, of Brazil, was in the city a few hours yesterday. He says that politics is very quiet in the Fifth district at present and that he is concerning himself chiefly with his law business. He was here en route to Anderson to attend the G. A. R. encampment and was accompanied by ten or twelve Brazil veterans. The party took lunch with him at the Columbia Club.

Will Be Guest of Honor.

Governor Durbin, Senator Fairbanks and Senator Beveridge will be guests of honor at the G. A. R. encampment at Anderson to-morrow. The Governor and his staff will participate in the parade, and in the evening all three are scheduled for addresses at the various camps that will be held.

Three Pioneer Women Dead.

Mrs. Eli Heiney died at her home on the Three Notch road, in Perry township, early yesterday morning, after an extended illness. The cause of her death was paralysis coupled with old age. Mrs. Heiney was one of the oldest pioneers of Perry township, having come west from Pennsylvania with her parents and settled in Indiana when a mere girl. She was nearly seventy-nine years old, and had spent fifty-five years of her married life on the farm on which she lived. Her husband, who is one of the best known farmers in Perry township, and five sons survive her. The funeral will be held from the late residence to-morrow afternoon, at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. Julia N. Wells, one of the oldest residents of Wayne township, died suddenly at her home in Clermont. She was the wife of John H. Wells, a retired farmer, and was seventy-five years old at the time of her death.

Mrs. Lydia A. Springer, of Cumberland, was found dead in bed late Sunday night. Mrs. Springer, although seventy-five years old, had been in apparent good health up to the time of her death, which was caused by heart trouble. She was the widow of the late David Springer, and had made Cumberland her home for the past fifty years. The funeral will be held from the late residence to-morrow afternoon.

CHAMBERMAID'S REWARD

GEORGIA CITIZENS SEND HER PURSE OF TWENTY-FIVE DOLLARS.

Money Goes to Louise Hadley, English Hotel Employee Who Refused to Make Booker T. Washington's Bed.

The other day when Booker T. Washington was an honored guest of the city, called here to deliver a lecture on the work of his Tuskegee Institute, the Y. M. C. A. gave a course at Roberts Park Church, he was a guest of the English hotel. Employed in that hotel was a chambermaid named Louise Hadley, who was discharged by the management for refusing to make the bed slept in by the colored educator. A news item to this effect was carried by the Associated Press and now comes word from Atlanta, Ga., that citizens of Senoia, Ga., have made up a purse of $25 for Miss Hadley. The money was mailed to her with the following message: "In token of our appreciation of your conduct in refusing to condescend to such service." The act of the chambermaid and her subsequent discharge by her employers has become a local sensation and there is a movement to raise purses for her in a number of other cities of the South. It is reported.

PRETTY GIRL IS MISSING

RELATIVES CANNOT FIND MARY T. POLLARD, OF WANAMAKER, IND.

She Left Her Home Ostensibly to Visit Her Brother in This City—Police Aid Asked.

The police have been notified to look for Mary T. Pollard, a sixteen-year-old girl, who left her home one mile east of Wanamaker, Ind., on May 5 to visit her brother, W. M. Pollard, of 3501 East Twenty-fifth street, this city, and has not been heard from since. Miss Pollard is a beautiful, black-eyed girl and was a general favorite at her home. Her parents are well to do and highly respected people, and are almost prostrated over the mysterious disappearance of their daughter, and fear that she has met with foul play.

W. M. Pollard, the brother of the missing girl, says that he is unable to account for the whereabouts of his sister in any way. He says he knew that she was coming to see him, but when she failed to arrive he supposed she had decided not to come, and the girl's parents supposed she was safe in her brother's care until a letter from him yesterday revealed the fact that she had not been here and that the police are making every effort to find her, but are under the impression that she did not come to this city at all.

ATTORNEYS HAVE CLAIM

PLANTERS' HOTEL DEMANDS SETTLEMENT ON THEIR TERMS.

Quartermaster General Perry Now in St. Louis Confering with the Hotel Management.

Quartermaster General Perry was in St. Louis yesterday to try to effect a settlement with the Planters' Hotel management of the bill for the Governor's party during the exposition dedication, and yesterday Bernard Korbly, of the firm of Smith & Korbly, attorneys, called on the Governor and informed him that the Planters' had placed the bill in their hands for collection.

The intimation was that if the bill were not settled at once suit would be brought. The Governor informed Mr. Korbly that Mr. Perry had gone to St. Louis to confer with the hotel people, and added that if Mr. Perry did not reach a settlement the attorneys could file whenever they were ready.

In order to show a disposition to be more than reasonably fair, Perry was instructed to offer to settle on the basis of three persons in a room at $2.50 per day each for three days. The contract, on the securement of a $1000 cash deposit, was a contract, called for $2.50 per day for the hotel management, and the number in each room, although it was understood that there were to be two to a room. The hotel manager is seeking to collect $10 per day for seven rooms for five days. In the absence of a contract, and the hotel people have repudiated the Ward document, the Governor is inclined to believe that the hotel can, by legal measures, collect for the room charges, and that the party occupying the room at the regular rates, and not at the advanced rates.

WRESTLED WITH A "SPIRIT."

N. E. White's Grandmother Proved to Be Real Husky.

A scene at the home of Frances Ruddle, on North Senate avenue, was broken up and a number of adherents scattered in all directions by the prank of an inquisitive onlooker Sunday night. A light was burning dimly in the room, and the spirits of relatives of several of the believers had appeared and disappeared in their ghostly garments. This man had seen his "departed wife" and that man had talked to "little daughter who had been cruelly treated from him and taken to the spirit land several years before," but N. E. White, of Moran, Ind., had not seen his mother, and when he did there was "something doing." He was told that she was coming and pressed a white flag into his bobbed up before him. He pretended to be much affected and sobbed, and "grandma" came as if in sympathy, when all of a sudden White made a jump and caught the spirit of his maternal ancestor around the waist and carried her to the door, where he turned the light out, and the spirit, proving itself a good wrestler, got away in the darkness. The front door of the house was thrown open and the party of watchers moved out into the night, some trying to get into the room, but the door was closed and others vowing that White's grandmother must have been a "powerful husky woman."

VOTING MACHINE BIDS

TEN WILL BE PURCHASED FOR USE IN THE CITY ELECTION.

Specifications Adopted by the County Commissioners—Voters' Interests Safeguarded.

The County Commissioners will open bids on June 8 for ten voting machines to be purchased for use in the coming city election. An advertisement is published in this morning's papers calling on voting machine manufacturers to bid for the contract which is to be let according to specifications which will be ready for examination in the County Commissioners' office. The commissioners will purchase ten machines from the appropriation of $12,000 made available by the Board of Commissioners and with the experience gained in the use of these ten machines, plans for the purchase of complete voting machine equipment for the county will be formed.

At present there are 323 precincts in Marion county and the ten machines will be placed in ten of them. The idea to be followed after the machines are secured is to put a machine in operation on election day in different kinds of neighborhoods and communities in an effort to study the benefits derived from machine voting. The use of the machines in the municipal election will also serve the purpose of showing with what rapidity the voters of the county can vote by machine. With the statistics obtained it will be possible to reduce the number of precincts at least one-half.

It is not expected that the total appropriation will be expended for the ten machines. According to the ruling prices on machines approved by the voting machine commission each machine will cost not more than $800, and the total expenditure for the ten machines on which bids have been advertised will be considerably less than the sum allotted to the use of the commissioners for the purchase.

The specifications for the machines provide that the commissioners shall have the right to reject any or all bids and also that each bid shall be accompanied by a bond sufficiently large and of such quality as to indemnify the county should it occur in the closing of a contract with the bidder. The bond will also be made to cover any debts incurred by the successful bidder in the construction of the machines. The specifications were prepared by Martin Hugg, attorney for the county. Commissioners, who after a careful study of the voting machine statutes and the requirements of the board of voting machine commissioners, generalized the specifications so as to come within the lawful requirements as well as to specially provide for the convenience of metropolitan usage of the machines.

The specifications provide that the machines shall be of a straight or acrotach type and that an irregular ticket, that is, a selection of presidential electors or men included in party nominations, may be deposited by the elector in a receptacle provided for them providing that the machine in which it shall be placed and the parties and spaces provided for seven questions to be voted in answer, "Yes" or "No." The first requirement of the specifications concludes with the injunction "that each elector may readily understand and understandingly and within the period of one minute cast his vote for all candidates of his choice."

AGAINST FRAUDULENT USE. The specifications require the machines to be safeguarded mechanically against any manipulation or fraudulent use and to provide absolute secrecy of ballot. They also provide that the registration of each vote shall be indicated in such a manner that when opened for inspection by the election board it may be readily understood while the real register or roll of voting shall be so placed within the machine that it cannot be tampered with and shall not be disturbed until thirty days have elapsed after the election when it shall be examined by a court of competent jurisdiction in the event of a dispute of the accuracy of the indicator.

In mechanical construction the machines must be sixty-name machines where the presidential electors voted as one name and seventy-four if the electors are voted as individuals. The machines must be provided for national state and township elections and in the case of Marion county machines to be so arranged that municipal elections can be conducted with them.

The board will require that the machines containing the ballots be delivered to the election to be held in the city on the first Monday in October and shall be placed on public exhibition and in charge of an instructor furnished by the successful bidder who shall instruct the voters in the use of the machine. The board will also require that for ten days at least before the ballots are opened a working model of the machines shall be set up in the courthouse corridors and their merits demonstrated by instructors from the companies manufacturing them.

MRS. BURGERT IN JAIL.

An Intelligent and Refined Woman. She Remains Her Fate.

Mrs. Elmira Burgert, the woman who was arrested several days ago on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, was sent to the county jail yesterday afternoon to await her trial, which will be held on Thursday. Mrs. Burgert's bond was fixed at $3,000 and she was unable to find any one who was willing to go her bail, although she telephoned to many doctors and professional men of the city. Mrs. Burgert's offense, it is said, was soliciting advertisements which were to appear in a pamphlet designed for distribution among the children of the public schools as an Arbor day souvenir, and representing that she would have 6,000 printed and given to the children through the School Board. The pamphlet she only contracted with the printer for one hundred. It is said that she went around to each of the business houses that she could get hold of and left a copy of the pamphlet and collected the money for the advertisements, stating that the balance of the 6,000 had been sent out to the different schools for distribution. Mrs. Burgert denies any bad intent and says that the whole 6,000 pamphlets would have been got out if the officers had not arrested her. She claims to have been working to that end at the time of her arrest and complains bitterly of the treatment she has received. She graduated from the Central College of Physicians and Surgeons with this year's class and at the time she has been made a refined and talented woman by her classmates and they all seem very much surprised at the charges that have been made against her. She says the final examinations and commencement week at the college kept her from doing anything towards completing her contracts with the merchants, but that if they had only given her a little more time she would have done what she promised to do. Mrs. Burgert is a widow, about thirty years old and a woman of intelligent and refined appearance and is very much dejected over her imprisonment. She really is not a woman that one would expect to find in the cell room of the county jail. Detectives Colburn and Fauser claim that they had sufficient evidence to warrant her arrest and

INDIANAPOLIS PRESBYTERY.

A meeting of the Indianapolis Presbytery was held yesterday. Victor D. Demaree and Ewa Allen Van Nuys, of Franklin, both of whom are recent graduates of the Princeton Theological Seminary, were examined for license and ordination. Walter F. Waltman was examined for lay evangelistic work and will be in charge of the presbytery of this city. He will succeed his uncle, Dr. H. L. Van Nuys, who retired recently after fifty years at Goshon. Mr. Demaree will soon go to California.

Daniel Was Indignant.

An insanity commission yesterday adjudged James L. Daniel, sixty-three years old, insane. After the commission adjourned Daniel appeared in the county clerk's office and expressed his indignation to Deputy Sourber at the treatment he had received. His complaint of unfairness on the part of the person who swore to the affidavit of insanity were so violent that Sourber was forced to pacify him by admitting their truth and persuading the man to leave the office.
