GRAVE CHARGES MADE AGAINST OFFICIALS

President and Cashier of Defunct Elkhart Bank Accused of Falsifying Books of Institution.

BONDS ARE FURNISHED

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. GOBHEN, Ind., Dec. 14.—President Justice L. Brodick and Cashier Wilson L. Collins, of the defunct Indiana National Bank of Elkhart, who were arrested Saturday, at the preliminary hearing this afternoon before United States Commissioner Edgar L. Ziegler were bound over to the federal grand jury in the sum of $5,000 each. Bonds were set at once provided by Dr. Franklin Miles, A. H. Beardslee, John L. Wolfe and William B. Pratt. Three specific charges were preferred against Brodick and one against Collins in the affidavit prepared by Receiver Bosworth, the national bank examiner from Chicago.

These charges were substantiated in the testimony adduced at the hearing from Robert Lyons, an expert accountant in charge of the books under the receiver. They were that the Elkhart Egg Case Company had overdrawn its account $10,000 on June 2, 1932, false credits of $6,000 on Sept. 1, $2,000 on Aug. 21, same year, and $3,000 on Jan. 7 this year, provided by the Indiana National Bank for the Elkhart Egg Case Stationery Company deposited $10,000 in notes to collect, but the cash was deposited in the Elkhart Egg Case Stationery Company, of which J. L. Brodick was treasurer, instead of the proper depositor. The charge against Cashier Collins was that in his report to the controller on Sept. 2 last he overstated the amount of cash on hand and understated the amount of checks and drafts, giving the cash as nearly $30,000 when it was a little over $20,000, and the checks and drafts as nearly $30,000 when the books showed, as nearly as can be ascertained, that they were $20,000. There were also many discrepancies in dates, and other discrepancies as between the pass books and the books of the receiver, an accepted conclusion that the most serious charges that will be presented to the federal grand jury have not been made public.

RECEIVER APPOINTED FOR PAPER COMPANY

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. GOBHEN, Ind., Dec. 14.—Melvin U. Demaree, of Elkhart, was this forenoon appointed by Judge Ferrall, of the Circuit Court, as receiver for the Consolidated Paper and Bag Company, of Elkhart, which company is the owner of the Indiana National Bank for the $50,000 bonds held by the bank, which were issued July 1, 1932, and would be due in 1937. The foreclosure of these mortgage bonds of the company, held by the Indiana National Bank, was brought this morning in a suit filed by Perry L. Turner, receiver of the bank, in the name of Cashier Wilson L. Collins, as trustee. Judgment for $50,000 was decreed in favor of the bank. Nine suits in foreclosure of mechanic's liens were also filed this morning against the Consolidated Paper and Bag Company, the claims aggregating over $40,000. One of them was for $25,000, filed by the National Manufacturing Company, of Elkhart, in the industry. Mr. Brown was also general manager of the Consolidated Paper and Bag Company, and will continue to be closely associated, and while it was always understood he was the prime factor and organizer of the company, he is now explained that he was a salaried employee only.

This testimony, it is expected, will be of a sensational character, as some of that introduced by the defense last week and will be in an attempt to show that Terrell was perfectly sane when he killed Wolfe and carefully planned the murder. It is said one of two of the defense witnesses will be impeached. Terrell has become almost broken down under the severe strain.

MERGER OF QUARRIES IN MONROE COUNTY

Eastern Capitalists Are Making an Attempt to Consolidate Stone Mills Under One Ownership.

COST WILL BE $700,000

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Dec. 14.—It is no longer a secret that eastern capitalists are planning to buy a number of stone quarries and mills in Monroe County and consolidating them under one ownership and management. To that end options are to be taken up on at least five quarry companies, the total cost of which, if the trade is carried through, will amount to over $700,000. The different companies approached and asked to name a price are the Monroe County, owned largely by the Adams Brothers, the Chicago and Bloomington, owned by William Johnson, the National, The Mathers, owned by W. W. Wicks and others, and the Star and Hunter Valley. It is stated that the Adams Brothers priced their property too high, but that the other quarries are now in the consideration. The syndicate is made up of Eastern capital, with a view of furnishing stone for Eastern cities. The idea is said to have come from the remarkable success of the Adams Brothers in the purchase of the Stone Mills. The plan would be to operate under one consolidation, each quarry having an assistant superintendent under one general manager. The result of the deal will be known within a month.

WANT COLLEGE TO CLOSE

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Dec. 14.—The affair of the water famine in this city is growing more serious. The whole town is deeply concerned over the outcome and the university students are bringing all possible force to bear on the authorities to be allowed to go home, but thus far without avail. A representative of the students went to John W. Cravens, registrar of the university, to get him to dismiss school before Dec. 22. The student was not sent officially, but he voiced the sentiments of the masses. The college trustees, which the students are compelled to live with, are not so sympathetic. Mr. Cravens said that there is little chance of allowing the students to leave and get credit for the term's work. The university is exhausted the university intends to continue until Dec. 22, said Mr. Cravens. There is plenty of water in cisterns to run the chemical and science laboratories and while students may be greatly inconvenienced, that is simply unfortunate. When asked what the trustees would do, the registrar stated that it would not. In regard to this he said the trustees decided at their last meeting on a schedule for seven years and it could not be easily broken. It was suggested that the trustees be petitioned separately, but Mr. Cravens said that would do no good as they would have to have a majority. Houses belonging to fraternities houses are suffering most, although the situation throughout the town is bad. The supply of drinking water is inadequate, while there is practically none for toilet purposes. Houses heated by private steam plants are suffering.
