SUGGEST CHANGES AT BERTHA BALLARD HOME

Inspector Stanley Finds Dangerous Conditions Existing Should Fire Break Out.

TO OPEN STAIR OLD WAY

A serious defect in the construction of the Bertha Ballard Home, and negligence in the care of it, were discovered by City Building Inspector Stanley and Fire Chief Coates yesterday. Complaint had been made to the inspector, and the visit resulted.

It was found that on the third floor the space taken up by the rear stairway had been floored over, and a room made off the building of a partition, thus shutting off all egress from the third floor by means of the rear stairway. In the furnace room of the basement it was found that broken chairs and loose boards were piled on top of the furnace. Several barrels of paper were dangerously near to the fire door of the furnace.

The latter defects in the care of the building the janitor was ordered to remedy immediately, while the owners will be urged to open the back stairway on the third floor without delay.

Complaint has also been made to the inspector of the condition of the building occupied by the Badger Furniture Company on East Washington street, and an inspection of this building, accompanied by the fire inspector, was made yesterday afternoon. Mr. Stanley stated yesterday afternoon that he found conditions quite satisfactory, both as to cleanliness and the care of inflammable materials, and that the means of egress seemed amply sufficient for the needs of the building.

At 9 o'clock this morning the inspector will go over the wiring of the Grand Theater very carefully, accompanied by the fire inspector, electrical inspector for the Underwriters' Association. The same inspection of the other theaters may follow. At the same time the inspector will satisfy himself as to whether the improvements that were ordered for the Grand have been made.

"MAMMY" PLEASANT DEAD AT AN ADVANCED AGE

Noted Colored Woman of Wealth Who Figured in Number of Romantic Incidents.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 11.—Mrs. Mary Pleasant, who was known to San Franciscans for many years as "Mammy" Pleasant, died today at an advanced age. She was a colored woman of wealth, and one of the best known persons in the city. She figured prominently in the famous attempt of Sarah Althea Hill to prove herself the wife of the late Senator Sharon, and was an equally conspicuous figure in the prolonged litigation over the estate of millionaire Thomas Bell. For many years she was a member of the well household. Many romantic stories of her career have appeared in print. In her later years she was noted for her charity toward people of her own race.

REVIVAL FOR PITTSBURG.

Many Noted Evangelists to Take Part in the Great Work.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 11.—Two hundred ministers, representing fifteen church denominations, met in the assembly room of the Young Men's Christian Association building today and decided to hold a general revival of the Pentecostal sort in this city, beginning Feb. 7. Among the evangelists who will take part are Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman, Dr. James M. Gray, Dr. L. W. Munhall, Rev. H. H. Walter, Rev. H. H. Walter, Rev. W. E. Bledsoe, Rev. A. H. Kaylor and probably Dr. Clarence B. Strous.

MYSTERIOUS PERSON; RESEMBLED KITCHENER

Nels Peter Hanson, a Wealthy Recluse, Asphyxiated in His Apartments in New York.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—Nels Peter Hanson, a rather mysterious character, has been found dead from asphyxiation in a splendid apartment which he occupied in East One Hundred and Fifth street during the past year.

He is supposed to have accumulated a fortune in the Klondike gold country and to have a splendid collection of valuable art objects, including many diamonds and several bank books showing large deposits. Scattered through the rooms also were valuable pictures, ancient silverware and expensive clothing, but nothing containing allusion to the dead man's family.

Hanson bore a striking resemblance to Lord Kitchener and pictures of the British commander in India adorned the walls in each room. On the dressing table was a portrait of the late general, and in the opening act Miss Alice Leslie's impersonation of a little girl singing a song is very melodious, but this is not the only feature of the specialty worthy of notice. The so-called comedy sketch of Bellman and Moore is likewise presented in an equally humorous manner. The performers themselves are not without ability, but they seem unable to get hold of a suitable partner. The last evening's audience was so large that the show, which they had had a sketch that was pretty poor, but their act this evening was all that is probable. The would-be writer of the play, their attempt to sing entirely, for both have good voices. Fisher and Wacker are also singers, well known to the audience, which is of the Tyrolean style (they are Tyrolean warblers), is too childish to appeal to an American audience, but the music pictures, which conclude the entertainment, are attractive.

AGAINST REMARRIAGE OF DIVORCED PERSONS

Protestant Clergymen of Cleveland Take Decided Stand on Question.

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 11.—The City Ministers' Union, composed of a large number of prominent Protestant clergymen, at its meeting today adopted resolutions against the remarriage of divorced persons. Exception is made only in the case of the innocent party and divorce is permitted only on scriptural grounds. The remarriage of persons who have been divorced for any other than scriptural grounds is declared to be no marriage in the sight of God. Marriage is regarded as a sacred and binding contract, but also a divine institution. The remarriage of divorced persons to each other is regarded as a sin, and on what ground the divorce was granted.

PNEUMONIA'S DEADLY GRIP ON NEW YORK CITY

Fatality for One Week Aggregate 364, and the Health Department Is Alarmed.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—Deaths from pneumonia in this city last week, aggregating 364, are causing the department of health to adopt energetic means to check the progress of the disease. "In my opinion," said Commissioner Darlington, "of that department," "the habit of expectorating in public places has much to do with bringing on the disease. Last week's increase in deaths from this cause, nearly 100 more than for the corresponding week last year, is positively alarming, and I have taken measures to try and keep the disease from spreading."

"No, oh, no," blithely explained Mrs. Dappleford. "We had a few friends drop in that night, and as Harvey had planned to go to the church social, he went to the club by himself. Harvey is awfully nice, of course, but he is awfully obstinate, too, as all men are. At the church social, of course, he ate a whole lot of church-social food—salad, cake, and a whole lot of stuff like that. When he came home we were all awfully merry, having cocktails and crackers in the dining room, and we made him take some, too; it was such a cold night, you know. The doctor went and got frightfully sick in the middle of the night and made us all that trouble. I just wish those church-social people would let Harvey alone with their old cake and coffee. Harvey says it was the cocktails and crackers, and the doctor, of course, won't say what it was, but I know it was all that church-social cake. Cocktails and crackers give me the heart palpitation, and I don't see why they should give it to Harvey. Get me frightened us awfully, of course, and I'm sure the doctor's got off alone to another church social this winter."

SHOPPING SUGGESTIONS.

A candlestick of colored bronze, especially effective in color and design, shows a gorgeously-colored snake wound about the graceful holder. The hints of scarlet in his snout and the arched line in the scarlet taper which fills the holder.

One charming ceramic vase, gray, which has for its decorative scheme a cluster of white violets, is polka-dotted with white in the most effective manner. The dots are very small and the tiny spots of white in the gray give the hat a delightfully French effect.

The separate fancy bodice or shirtwaist seems to be more acceptable just now than in the past season or two, and a simple but exceedingly effective one is of white satin with broad bands of bright yellow tassel, forming an applied yoke. The bands are finished by little yellow tassels.

The birds of all kinds of feathers which have been so popular in jewelry this season are now shown on the smart pocketbooks and card cases. One pretty set of black seal shows a graceful swallow design in the pocketbook having a tail of the dainty lady after a pleasing contrast to the heavy effects in neck dressing. The collar of this particular stock is composed of rows of the PARK.—"The Governor's Son," 2 and 8 p. m.

EMPIRE.—Burlesque, 2 and 8 p. m.

The Vaudeville at the Grand.

Taken altogether, the current vaudeville bill at the Grand is an improvement over the entertainment of last week. All parts of the programme are not on an equal plane, but the audiences at the opening performances yesterday seemed so happy in accepting everything that was offered that the mediocre performers were carried along to popularity along with the more meritorious contributors. There is a suggestion of the circus tent and sawdust arena in the leading acts of the show—the exhibitions of the Riccoboni Brothers, with their horses and dogs, and the wonderful feats performed by the Three Richards, European acrobats. The first-named specialty was seen at the Grand last season, and it repeats this time the good impression that it made upon its first visit. The two brothers, who make up as Russians, but who are, in reality, Italians, are skilled palmists and animal trainers, and they have brought their equine and canine pupils to a high degree of efficiency as "vaudeville artists." The horses are seen in a number of "stunts" never before shown, and the dogs carry out their share of the act as if they enjoyed the business. It is among the most interesting of animal exhibitions now in vaudeville. The "exhibitors" are marvels in an acrobatic way. The Riccoboni Brothers are the specimens of finished athletes and gymnasts, and their performance, individually and collectively, is replete with startling feats.

One of the most pronounced hits of the programme is secured by Josephine Sabel, a comedienne who long ago established a reputation as an entertainer of unusual ability. She is just as good as any ever, and just as resourceful in keeping her audience in a very good humor. She does not succeed in making a hit, but upon her own personality to make her a great favorite. In fact, Miss Sabel's songs are not at all new, but she is singing the same old drinking ditty sung at the Grand last week by Phyllis Allen—a song that seems to have been put on the programme to advertise a popular brand of beer. Advertisements in music are, at their best, poor things with few exceptions. Miss Sabel's songs, however, would do well to advertise any excellent feature from an otherwise excellent specialty. Another strong success of the bill is secured by the very young and very fair-faced, who present an act called "Old Curiosity Shop," that is filled with very funny bits of "business" and laughable dialogue. Foy is a good eccentric comedian, and his partner, Miss Clark, is a very good and graceful comedienne, although not much of a vocalist. Al Holt, a mimic, who is well known to Grand patrons, is on the programme with a specialty that is the same in every particular as the one which he last appeared in this city. His imitation of birds, especially his imitation of a crow, is excellent.

The weakest part of the entertainment comes early in the programme. The specialties of Howley and Leslie, Bellman and Moore, and Fisher and Wacker, are hardly a par with the rest of the show. In the opening act Miss Alice Leslie's impersonation of a little girl singing a song is very melodious, but this is not the only feature of the specialty worthy of notice. The so-called comedy sketch of Bellman and Moore is likewise presented in an equally humorous manner. The performers themselves are not without ability, but they seem unable to get hold of a suitable partner. The last evening's audience was so large that the show, which they had had a sketch that was pretty poor, but their act this evening was all that is probable. The would-be writer of the play, their attempt to sing entirely, for both have good voices. Fisher and Wacker are also singers, well known to the audience, which is of the Tyrolean style (they are Tyrolean warblers), is too childish to appeal to an American audience, but the music pictures, which conclude the entertainment, are attractive.

The German Play at English's.

The third of the series of Teutonic plays being presented in this city under the auspices of the newly organized German Theater Society of Indianapolis, was enacted at English's last night before a large audience made up of the representative German residents of the Hoosier capital. The Odeon Stock Company from St. Louis was again the visiting combination, this company having made its debut in the city on the occasion of its first visit here about a month ago, when the bright comedy, "Two Happy Days," was the attraction. Last night's offering was another play in the lighter vein—a musical farce entitled "Fyritz-Kyritz," which proved to be the most amusing entertainment of the series so far.

The company of German players from St. Louis commands admiration. Every member of the organization is a talented actor, and the play, which appears to make little difference to the company whether the bill be a serious drama or a mirth-provoking farce, is presented in an equally meritorious fashion. The Odeon organization has become immensely popular among the residents of St. Louis, and no wonder. The two performances given in Indianapolis by the company have been in every way successful. Last evening's audience was delighted, and the applause was frequent and very enthusiastic. The many bright and original characters, and the fact that the play is additionally attractive, and it was something of a surprise to have the songs and choruses so well interpreted by players who give most of their attention to purely dramatic productions rather than to musical specialties.

"Fyritz-Kyritz" tells a laughable story of a number of complications brought about by a few absent-minded characters at a wayside inn in Germany. A company of good villagers from the town of Fyritz is on its way to a festival, and the company of guests from the town of Kyritz is making its temporary headquarters at the same place. The old-fashioned expedient of mistaken identity is brought into play, causing no end of trouble for the characters, and the play is made additionally attractive, and it was something of a surprise to have the songs and choruses so well interpreted by players who give most of their attention to purely dramatic productions rather than to musical specialties.

HOME DRESSMAKING HINTS.

By MARY MANTON.

Long shoulder effects always are becoming to young girls and are seen in the latest models for old waists as well as frocks and coats. This stylish shirtwaist includes a novel yoke collar that gives the desired drooping line and also a narrow vest effect at the front. As illustrated it is made of white mercerized veining and is unlined, but all waisting materials are appropriate and the fitted foundation can be used whenever desirable. At the neck is a fancy stock and deep pointed cuffs finish the sleeves. When a plainer waist is desired

THE SECRET OF POLICIELLINE.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 11.—Europe's comedy success, "The Secret of Policielline," is in presentation on any stage in English here tonight at the Duquesne Theater. The story is a simple one of French home life. The comedy is clever and was highly appreciated by the large audience present. W. H. Thompson, who featured in the production, is a well known actor and a leading feature of the burlesque. On the whole, the show is as good as it was last season, but there are no new features worthy of mention.

ORPHAN CHILDREN AT HOMES BECOME FEWER

Report of Board of Charities Shows Increase in Number Cared for by the State Last Year.

Reports made to the Board of State Charities by the forty-six orphan's homes in the State supported wholly or in part by public funds, show that on Oct. 31 there were in those institutions 1,337 children, a decrease of twenty-eight from the population on the same day of the preceding year.

During the year 1,133 children were admitted to the homes, of whom 37 came in for the first time and 301 were readmitted; 1,176 were withdrawn, of whom 675 were placed in family homes, 237 were returned to their parents, ninety-three were transferred to other institutions, twenty-six became orphans, eight ran away and thirty-seven died. Of the 1,337 children in the homes on the last day of the year, 291, or 21 per cent, were boys. More than half the children are between the ages of five and ten years.

At the county poor asylums on the same date there were only twenty-three children. Four orphan's homes were under three years of age. These figures become significant when it is remembered that a few years ago there were nearly three hundred children in the poor asylums.

Four orphan's homes, those in Henderson, Howard and Madison counties, in Henderson, Howard and Madison counties, in the colored orphan's home in Gibson county, were closed during the year.

Schools Closed to Honor Gordon.

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 11.—State School Commissioner W. B. Merritt, of Georgia, issued orders today that in all schools in the State under his jurisdiction regular work shall be suspended on Thursday during the funeral of the late Senator John B. Gordon, and that in the place of such work, suitable memorial exercises shall be held.

Musical Farce at the Park.

In George M. Cohan's musical farce, "The Governor's Son," the Park has one of the most successful entertainments of its season—and one of the best. The piece itself is not of exceptional merit, as it is merely a merry hodge-podge of jokes, funny situations, musical numbers and dances, but the interpreting company is far better than the average musical comedy organization to be seen on the popular-price circuits.

"The Governor's Son" is an elaboration of the vaudeville sketch that was used for two or three years by the Four Cohans when they were the stars of the Behman Vaudeville Combination. It has been changed from a short farce of twenty-five minutes' duration into a three-act musical piece, and although it is lacking in coherence at times, it is a good framework on which to hang amusing specialties. There are no problems, no intricacies, no connections to worry about. The watchword seems to be "something doing all the time," and the workers in the company obey instructions to the letter. Songs, choruses, dances, marches, gags, air performance and an array of specialties are farcely followed each other in rapid succession, and the result is an entertainment which, while not novel or original, has no dual moments.

The piece is one of the best staged musical shows ever offered at the Park. The chorus girls are pretty costumed and the entire handling of the stage, both in groupings, scenery and every detail, shows that
