

The Call on the Militia

The Governor had another interview with the President and Secretary of War last night. It is understood that the President has agreed to accept 65,000 militia, for three months, as guards only to be furnished immediately.

By the Washington dispatches to the Cincinnati Gazette of yesterday. There should be no misapprehension in regard to the duty expected of the one hundred day men. Governor Morton, according to his proclamation, "offered to raise for the service of the General Government twenty thousand men, for the period of one hundred days, to perform such military service as may be required of them in any State."

We do not make these remarks to discourage any one from volunteering under Governor Morton's call. Our only object is to prevent deception or misapprehension in regard to the service expected under the call, so that there may be no dissatisfaction and grumbling after being mustered. Let every man who volunteers do so intelligently, and then he will have the heart and will to cheerfully and earnestly perform every duty and submit to every privation required of him.

The Garfield Forgery

The Cincinnati Gazette publishes the substance of the statement of Mr. Hays, pronouncing the letters purporting to be from Messrs. Davis and Eckels forgeries, and remarks: "It appears by the fact that Rankin was heard from at Bragg's headquarters, that the letters were duly honored."

True Eloquence

The following truly eloquent passage is from the speech of Hon. George H. Pendleton, of Ohio, on freedom of speech in Congress.

Nervousness in Washington - Rebel Movements

The Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer, writing under date of the 21st, gives the following glowing rumors at the capital in reference to rebel movements, and states that they cause considerable uneasiness in Administration circles:

A gentleman who professes to know as much of Administration secrets as any one, says the trouble is an apprehension that Washington is not safe from rebel operations. That the President has received information that a fleet of iron-clad rams and gunboats of the most approved structure, is ready to come out of the James river, and is not only to destroy Washington, but to capture Philadelphia, New York and Boston.

That is one of the reasons assigned for the panic now pervading the Administration circles. A new feature is to be given to the contest, and that which has given to Federal arms all that it has acquired in the war, is to be contested on the seas and rivers with the same stubbornness that has marked the strife on land.

Another reason assigned for the disturbance is that the war has already made preparations for a forward movement, and intends to march on Washington before Gen. Grant gets his army in fighting trim. Whatever the cause, certain it is that so much trepidation has not been felt in Washington since the first battle of Bull Run, as now experienced by Mr. Lincoln & Co.

We copy the following from the New York German-American, a newspaper which represents the radical German sentiment of the country, and although decidedly anti-Administration, it is radical Republican in its political sentiments. With this explanation the significance of the following strictures upon the policy and character of the men in power will be fully appreciated:

One of our contemporaries, Wilkes' Spirit, a few days ago, published an alarming article on a new outbreak of the secession sympathizers in this city. As an indication of the threatening condition of affairs, it quoted a paragraph from the Metropolitan Record, a Catholic weekly, which enjoys the confidence of the city government to the fullest extent, and may be considered, therefore, as the representative paper of the Council and the Mayor.

The following is an extract from a private letter from a gentleman in Cincinnati to a friend in this city. It gives a rational and probably very correct account of the affair: Cincinnati, April 18, 1864.

How Republicans Carry Elections - Force and Fraud in Delaware

As Delaware is a little State, and as rights, whether State or individual, are of very little importance now-a-days, the method by which WILLIAM CANNON was made Governor did not excite much attention. We propose to show our citizens just what is in store for them if the present Administration is continued in power, in order simply to teach them to behave themselves with gentle self-respect and to eat the leek without making more grimaces than are absolutely necessary.

We shall not quote one Democratic witness, but only Republicans, on oath. Governor CANNON appeared before a committee of the Legislature. We address a specimen of his frankness and truth:

Q. Do you know at whose solicitation troops were brought into the State to be here on the day of the general election? A. From facts and reasonable grounds, of which I knew from responsible men in Baltimore and other parts, and the secessionists in Maryland and Democrats in Delaware had threatened to use force to prevent the election.

Q. Will you state who were the responsible men in Baltimore and other parts, to whom you allude, and from whom you received the information upon which you acted? A. Their names are not on my mind now. I do not recollect their names. I had satisfactory information that Curtis W. Jacobs had threatened to come over from Maryland and I believe he did come over on the 4th of November, to deter the Union men from voting on that day.

Q. Do you know whether any person other than yourself made the election? A. I do not recollect of myself or of any other person. I do not recollect of myself or of any other person. I do not recollect of myself or of any other person.

Q. Do you know whether any person other than yourself made the election? A. I do not recollect of myself or of any other person. I do not recollect of myself or of any other person.

Q. Do you know whether any person other than yourself made the election? A. I do not recollect of myself or of any other person. I do not recollect of myself or of any other person.
