Review of the Markets.

THURSDAY MORNING, October 8, 1857.

COTTON....The Exchange market continues without movement, but a few buyers were enabled to come forward yesterday, and some of the sales were on a basis of about 15½c for Middling, though generally at irregular prices. We also hear of about 2000 bales sold on Tuesday. The market is yet too unsettled to admit of general quotations which are still omitted.

TOBACCO....We did not hear of a sale.
