

Democratic Address

We publish elsewhere an address, dated yesterday, signed by several hundred of the Democratic citizens of New Orleans, recommending their political brethren to abstain from attending the meeting held at the Convention Hall yesterday evening, and to abstain from any further participation in the contemplated election. As we have published the address in the "Democratic meeting" in Odd Fellows' Hall, and as we do not deem it extended notice is now demanded at our hands.

We shall have something to say on this topic hereafter, as we make it a point to attend faithfully to all matters of public interest. We might and we probably do so now, but the overworked state of our columns absolutely precludes comments or arguments of any length. We are positively forced by the views of the business community, to postpone subjects from time to time we would gladly pay attention to. It is true we would gladly pay attention to it. It is true we would gladly pay attention to it.

THE VANDERBILT.—Our American Cousins' visit to our city last night, and passed off with great éclat, exciting the raptures of the auditory with fearful violence. More we have no space to say, unless it is that we think it is bound to have a run. The house was very large.

THE AMERICAN.—The March Juvenile also brought out "Our American Cousins" to a tolerable house, which was well entertained with the venison.

THE GREAT RESTORATIVE.—Fever and Ague, the most prevalent and painful disease that attacks the human race, in the Tropics and in the Southern States, has been for many years the subject of much inquiry and research. It is a disease which has been the cause of much suffering and death.

THE BARBER OF SEVILLE.—The Barber of Seville, which has been the subject of much inquiry and research. It is a disease which has been the cause of much suffering and death.
