New Orleans Daily Crescent.

Some are born great, some achieve greatness, and some are greatness thrust upon them. The 'nirya-mo-ode' had with a prophetic view to the persons of this age and this country—the patent factory of great men. Not a year, scarcely a month, passes but some political or other eruption occurs, and from the popular and heated emotion, the masses into the arena of public life are 'great men' at once—for in this age and country nobility is greatness, so it is not the nobility of rank, but the nobility of spirit.

It is anticipated that the Convention which is to meet here in May, will be largely attended—and that much good will flow from its deliberations. It will be composed of the flower of Southern chivalry and Southern intellect, and under such circumstances it would be strange, indeed, if its deliberations failed to exert an influence most salutary and keep alive a spirit favorable to patriotism.

Several States have already appointed delegates to the proposed convention; and from what we have seen, we infer that it will be above par. As yet no movement looking to the appointment of delegates has taken place in Louisiana. It has been the custom, heretofore, for the Governor to appoint on the part of the State, the Mayor on the part of New Orleans, and the Mayors of the respective towns to do the same thing on behalf of the corporations over which they preside.

There is some contrary of opinion in regard to the propriety of holding such annual conventions. For our part we can see no objection to them. No harm, certainly, can grow out of a yearly convocation of respectable and honorable Southerners. Hence, we have been somewhat surprised at the course of several of our contemporaries. Not much surprised, however; for we are too wide awake to be greatly astonished at anything that occurs now-a-days.

We find the following in the Marksville (Ayoelle parish) paper of the 14th inst: In Town—Hon. John Slidell, the senior U. S. Senator from this State, is now in Marksville, accompanied by his wife and children. He is here on his visit for political purposes we cannot say, but suppose not, since both gentlemen are large land owners of this parish, and may have business requiring their presence here.

Paraphrase "political purposes" and land "purposes" may be very profitably combined; and we know of no gentleman better calculated to blend pleasure, profit and business, than the efficient, wide-awake and full-of-resources names named. They are "up-to-date" at all times and under all circumstances; and who think differently will be an outlier. He only has to attend to his business and affairs every two years, for he is too wise to neglect his own affairs, and so on and so forth.

The Richmond (Madison parish) Journal, in its issue of the 15th inst., formally bids the name of Major Andrew S. Heron, of the parish of East Baton Rouge, to the head of its editorial columns. It is an favorite candidate for next Governor. This is an event of considerable importance, as the Journal no doubt faithfully represents, in this particular, the views and wishes of a large majority of the people. It is a popular and wealthy paper. We therefore think it proper to publish the remarks made on the occasion by our contemporary; observing, en passant, without adopting the political positions presented, not belonging to that side of the party posture, that the State possesses few able and eloquent, and none more worthy and honorable citizens than Major Heron.

Major A. S. Heron.—The name of this distinguished Democrat will be found at the head of our paper today, as our choice for next Governor of Louisiana. We have done this without the knowledge or consent of Major Heron, but at the suggestion of a number of Democrats, and because we believe him to be the choice of a large majority of the people.

A long series of years the name of Heron has been a tower of strength in the Democratic camp. In every canvass his eloquent and manly voice has been heard in defense of the rights and liberties of the people. He has never been found in the thickest of the fight, one of the most able and fearless advocates of the rights of the people. He has always been a man of high character, and his name is a synonymy with those who wish to place their feet on high places to advance their own personal interests.

It is a pleasure to us to see the name of Major Heron in the list of candidates for next Governor. We are confident that he will be elected, and that he will be a great blessing to our State.

PLAN TO SUPPLY THE CITY WITH WATER.

NEW ORLEANS, April 18th, 1859. The Crescent—I perceive by a recent report of the Joint Committee of Streets and Landings of the Common Council, that they have not yet to say what quantity of water, has at last attracted the attention of that honorable body, as by a resolution lately adopted unanimously in the Upper Board, it appropriated the sum of $75,000 towards that object.

The above project is very nearly the one I expected to see adopted, and I am glad to see that it has been so. It is a project of great importance, and one which will do much to improve the city. It is a project which will do much to improve the city, and one which will do much to improve the city.

DOMESTIC INTELLIGENCE.

Savannah, April 21.—Charles Lamar, and a party of gentlemen, sailed today for Havana in the famous schooner Wanderer, which Mr. Lamar has recently purchased. Domestic Markets. SAVANNAH, April 21.—The cotton market closed dull. There has been very little doing today.

Local Intelligence.

THE WEATHER has taken another remarkable change. The sultry atmosphere of Thursday and Thursday night bringing out fine, partial, and the lightest of light clothing, was followed during the night by rain, and yesterday morning with a dull, a strong cold wind brought on warm clothing, and in the cool, sun shined brightly, and the sun was again on the rise; and when night came, people were running around in heavy clothing. As we write, the sky is bright and clear, but the wind will change to blow.

GOOD FERRY was largely observed; the Courts, banks and public office being generally closed, and many people remaining behind. The religious observance of the day appeared to be observed everywhere; the Catholic churches, in particular, being crowded with worshippers. A SIGHT IN THE CITY has been reported, yesterday of the calling out of the forces of Bonaparte and Perdic's forces. "Who was the man who was seen and Perdic's forces?" "Who was the man who was seen and Perdic's forces?" "Who was the man who was seen and Perdic's forces?"

THE PROPRIETOR OF THE NORTH BRICK HOUSES, at the corner of Basone and Perdido streets, has gone to sea, to obtain his support in doing what he has done frequently, if not regularly, for many years past, to wit: keeping the streets open at midnight, in violation of the city ordinance. His bar-keeper being arrested and taken before Recorder Summers for the violation, he went to Court to see about it, when he also was arrested and put under bonds to appear for examination on the charge of contravening the ordinance. He applied to the Third District Court for an injunction to stay the proceedings, and as the same injunction had been granted in a similar case, a writ was granted for an alleged false and illegal arrest.

A MURDER was perpetrated on board the steam boat "Telegraph," on Thursday, which was reported by the Captain to the Recorder. The murderer was a man named W. H. Harris, a free colored servant of the boat, who had been employed as a water boy by the boat. He was delivered to the Second District police, and by the officers of the boat, but by some of the passengers who had taken him in charge. From the investigation by the Recorder, it appears that Harris was the murderer, and that he was on the boat on the morning of the murder. He was on the boat on the morning of the murder, and he was on the boat on the morning of the murder.
