NEW ORLEANS DAILY CRESCENT.

PUBLISHED EVERY DAY, SUNDAY EXCEPTED, BY J. O. NIXON, AT No. 70 CAMP STREET.

VOLUME XIII. TUESDAY MORNING, MARCH 6, 1860. NUMBER 1.

New Orleans Daily Crescent.

TUESDAY MORNING, MARCH 6, 1860.

THE CRESCENT.

With the issue of to-day we begin the publication of the thirteenth annual volume of the NEW ORLEANS DAILY CRESCENT, and we will not feign the modesty of hesitating to express on this occasion the pride we feel in what the paper is. It is before the reader and it speaks for itself, so far as the crowded columns of its wide sheet may testify to its appreciation by the business community. For its circulation far and wide, as a journal of popular reading, the jar and clatter of the new and fast press, which we were compelled to purchase last fall to meet the increased demands of subscribers, speaks in practical tones each livelong night, as it rushes with all the speed which steam can give it through its prescribed task.

True to a signification of its title, the "Crescent" has been steadily growing in all its departments of business, is growing, and will keep on growing, if the efforts of the future are justified by such results as those of the past are, for it has become what it is. We can ask for no speedier ratio of constantly increasing prosperity than the steady and rapid progress which it has maintained during the later past. That is getting ahead fast enough. As the last volume commenced under the happiest auspices of progress, so does this which is begun to-day, and we shall be more than satisfied if a year hence we find that the Crescent has added as many to the lists of its friends, patrons and readers, as we can boast to-day that it has during the twelve months past. We expect, however, to be vastly "more than satisfied," for during the winter our "institution" has been putting on an accelerated progress which has fairly outrun all reasonable calculation. Let it go ahead, though, and we will strive to keep pace with its headway career by endeavoring to make it worthy of its extended popularity and expanded business.

TALK ON 'CHANGE.

It was rather quiet on the flags of the Carondelet yesterday. The Africa's advices were commented on, but as they were only of two days later date, there was very little feeling evinced regarding them. Later advices are now due by the Nova Scotian of the 22d February. There is some talk that the political aspect of Europe is far from satisfactory. There is no telling what a week or even a day may bring forth. If Emperor Napoleon feels inclined for another fight, there will be excuses for it. Some folks talk that he does not care a sous about the peace of Europe any more than to secure the stability of his own Empire. Everything may appear to be very peaceable on the European continent, but we should much prefer to learn of many questions now apparently open, as being in a course of settlement. However, no one in particular on the flags of Tchoupitoulas, Poydras and New Levee streets care a pound of bacon about the Nephew of my Uncle, or any other ruler in Europe. On the great levee there was considerable briskness yesterday, irrespective of foreign affairs. The gimlet rangers were actively employed, and do not appear to care the value of a three cent piece for ship loads of intelligence from the other side of the Atlantic. They are aware that all the saccharine is good for what they now hold it. They are not watching for the smoke of every steamer coming across the ocean to know whether they must rise or decline in their figures. The talk is, that the receipts of sugar and molasses are tolerable free for a half-crop year, attended by a most extraordinary frost in the middle of November. The big book will be out in a few days. As we place some confidence in the book statement—much more than we do in book learning—it is hoped that our several parish officers, who make returns every year, will take more pains the present year in making up returns of the crop. Monsieur Champonier's statements and returns are considered as the standard for the sugar interest.

There is from time to time complaints—giving rise to a good deal of talk—regarding port charges in this good city of ours. As regards port charges, they are complained of everywhere. The talk is, however, that the pilots of the port and district of New Orleans, located at the Balize, are doing about as well as most pilots, although they have to live in a low, marshy place, well and bountifully supplied with musquitoes and other luxuries. The climate, however, is very mild, and from the figures below, we think that piloting must be a very good business, as only one-half of the earnings are required to meet expenses. We are at a loss to know whether there are thirty-eight pilots or eleven who receive this profit. However, we are pretty well satisfied in our own mind that pilots generally earn their money, but we are decidedly given to talking against all monopolies.

Receipts and Expenses from January, 1859, to December, 1859, of the Louisiana Pilots Association.

Thirty-eight Pilots belong to this Association, and they own the following property:

Six pilot boats and six nettens.

They employ regularly, viz:

1 Book-keeper, at $125 per month	$1,500
1 Physician, at $150 per month	1,800
1 Carpenter, at $90 per month	1,080
2 Watchmen, at $45 and $40 per month	1,020
35 Men for boats, etc., at $20 and board, averaged at	12,600
10 Negroes, hired at $20 and board, average	3,600
Incidental expenses, etc., etc.	33,376
	$55,376

We would remark that though thirty-eight Pilots belong to this Association, from the returns of the Master and Wardens it appears that only eleven have complied with the 4th section of the statute of 1857, c. 88, in 1859, and one in 1858, requiring bond to be furnished subject to the approval of the Master and Wardens.

The following figures give the number of vessels as having passed inward and outward for the calendar year of 1859, which have paid pilotage in conformity to law, including vessels of all classes:

December	159	112
Total	1394	1303

The following figures denote the tax on commerce for quarantine regulations, and if there has ever been a case of yellow fever prevented by our quarantine regulations, we should be glad to have it pointed out. The expenses of the quarantine establishment are, it will be observed, paid by taxes and assessment on vessels.

The Mississippi Station is at Fort Jackson, or in the bend of the old Fort St. Philip reach.

The receipts or fees for the year 1859 were for vessels visited and boarded at the different stations, viz:

Atchafalaya Station	87	842
Rigolets	126	1,365

We have several new cases to report. On Saturday, a mad dog was killed on Goodchildren street, near St. Anthony. Before being killed, he bit two valuable dogs belonging to a Mr. Gonzales. Mr. Gonzales being satisfied that the biting dog was mad, took his gun, and though it cost him tears to do so, killed his two pets. The dog was killed by a Spaniard whose name we did not learn. He came out with a double-barrel gun, and shot once at the dog. Believing that he had not hit the dog, he fired the other barrel; but the barrel unfortunately exploded, and shattered one of his hands in a shocking manner. The dog soon fell, and it was found that the first shot had killed him.

On Sunday, in the same vicinity, a mad dog was shot at but missed, and escaped in the direction of the swamp. The same day, another mad dog ran along Greatmen street, his mouth foaming. A man drew his revolver to shoot at him; but just then the dog made a dash at him, upon which he ran into a house without shooting, and the dog escaped.

Yesterday morning, a mad dog was shot at the corner of Craps and Desire streets. He had bitten quite a number of other dogs.

There are two neighborhoods in the Third District where the mad dogs lately have started; far down toward the Barracks, and around the vicinity of the Fillmore School. The alarm is so great that some people have stopped their children from going to school, for fear of mad dogs on the way.

It is impossible to describe the panic which these animals create, as they fly along the street, rushing at every dog or other living thing they meet. Women rush screaming for their children, jerk them into the houses, and close the doors and windows; men get out of the way without loss of time; the cry of "mad dog" is ten times as alarming as that of fire.

Most of the dogs killed so far have only been killed after a long chase by men, with clubs and guns, either on foot or on horseback. The madness of the dogs down town, we think, calls for some special action on the part of the Common Council.

THE FRIGATE BROOKLYN.—In our yesterday's report of the Firemen's procession, we mentioned the miniature man-of-war which was perched upon the machine of Brooklyn Fire Company, of Algiers, and mentioned that said man-of-war let off a firecracker salute as it passed the Crescent office. We were mistaken in one particular. The members of Brooklyn Fire Company, though they go to fires, don't deal in fire-crackers. We were never close enough to the little ship to see how its guns were fixed; but we are now credibly informed that the shooting was not the popping of fire-crackers, but the bona-fide powder and blank cartridge discharges of little brass guns not much bigger than toothpicks. How the mischief such guns on such a ship can be made to fire separate broadsides, without a man on board, is more than we can at present comprehend. We shall take an early opportunity of finding out, however, by inviting ourselves to take dinner with the officers of the Brooklyn, the first time they have a "spread" in the Captain's cabin of their little ship! Yes, we shall!

A BATCH OF BUSINESS FOR RECORDER LONG.—New business opened heavy upon Recorder Long yesterday. It has been many a day since the Old Third offered as many new cases in one day. The following complaints were made, and accused parties arraigned yesterday:

Henry Wiegand, charged by Deputy Coroner Soraparu with the murder of his wife Margaretta, by fracturing her skull with a hammer at their residence, No. 421 Craps street, on the 15th ult. Remanded to prison to await examination.

Charles Carragay, charged with violently beating Jacob Grater and shooting at him several times with a revolver, on Sunday night, on the premises of Mr. Barth, corner of Moreau and Mandeville streets; also charged by G. Barth with entering his house in his absence, and firing a pistol in the house and back yard, to the great danger of the lives of his family. Bail given in both cases.

Charles Chase, John Kennedy and Jack Fiel, charged with larceny and receiving stolen property; the two first-named disposing of a raft of timber, with ropes, crowbars, crosscut saws, axes, files, cant-hooks, bolts, spikes and provisions; the whole valued at about $400, and the property of Wm. S. Sawyer, of McDonoville; and Fiel, charged with receiving the tools and a portion of the timber after it was stolen. Chase and Kennedy not arrested; but Fiel arrested, and out on bail.

Elizabeth Daily, charged with perjury in swearing falsely against Wm. H. Deno, in a recent case before Recorder Long, in which case he was defendant. Bail given to appear.

Juan Ramirez, alias Gutierrez, charged with stealing a $30 silver watch and chain from Robert Kelland, on board the ship Arctic, on the 27th ult.; charged also with stealing a $35 silver watch and chain from Henry Cook, on the 1st instant, on board the ship James Montgomery; both the complainants being cotton-screwers, and their watches stolen from their bundles of clothes between decks whilst they were working in the hold. Sent to prison in default of $1000 bail.

Bernard Laughlin, charged with stealing Henry Delmar's skiff, on the river, between Congress and Elmira streets. Sent to prison in default of bail.

Mr. Blaise, charged with thrashing Francis Lewis and his wife, on Saturday evening, in their room on Marigny street. Bail given.

P. McVoy, charged with beating his wife, at the corner of Enghien and Greatmen streets. Warrant out.

A person not named, charged with being the owner of a dog which bit Evariste Salza on Saturday, at the corner of Love and Marigny streets. Warrant out.

And a lot of complaints of insults, abuse, threats, etc.

THE INQUEST IN THE GALCERAN AND O'REILLY CASE.—The third day's inquest into the poisoning of Miss E. M. O'Reilly took place before Coroner Beach at his office last evening. The following witness was examined:

Thos. K. Adams—I am Chief of Police. I received a note from Coroner Beach, stating that he had so far progressed in his investigations into the cause of the death of Miss O'Reilly, as to justify the arrest of Joseph Galceran, and requesting me to cause the arrest to be made. I ordered Corporal Clarke to make the arrest. Some two or three hours afterward, Clarke came to my office to report to me that he had not succeeded in finding Galceran, but was still after him. Just at this time, and before Clark had left my office, two men came in and desired to speak with me. One announced himself as the brother or brother-in-law of Miss O'Reilly. He said he desired me to keep the fact of Miss O'Reilly's pregnancy from the public papers; that her family was respectable, and desired to keep her pregnancy a secret; saying at the same time that if he had known that she was pregnant, he would himself have thrown her into the river or have blown her brains out, before her disgrace should have been made known. At this time the other man spoke, and said that if he had known that Miss O'Reilly was pregnant he would have killed her himself; that it should never have been known. I asked him if he was a connection of her's. The brother answered no, but that he was a friend of the family. I asked them if no one connected with her ever suspected that she was in the family way. They both answered no. Galceran, (for it proved to be him) said again that if he had suspected it, he would have killed her himself. At this time, Corporal Clarke whispered to me that this man answered the description given him of Galceran.

I then asked the brother what the other man's name was. He answered Galceran. I asked, is it Joseph Galceran? He said, yes. I then ordered Clarke to lock him up, which he did. The next day, I think, after the arrest of Galceran, a man whose face was very familiar to me, said to me, on the street, that he thought he could find the place where Galceran purchased the poison. I asked him to do so if possible and let me know. I was very busy; and presuming that I should see him again, did not ask his name or address. Since then I have never seen him, although I have made every effort to find him. I had previously seen him nearly every day, in the vicinity of my office, and should readily know him should I ever see him again. I saw Galceran in the Parish Prison after his commitment. He asked me when the Coroner was to commence this investigation; I answered, as soon as he got his testimony ready. He asked me what the Coroner was waiting to prove. I told him the Coroner expected to prove where he had purchased the poison. He knowingly said that the Coroner would have to wait forever before he could find that out. It was a matter of reflection with me, after I left the prison, what interpretation to put upon his remark; whether he meant that, as he had never purchased poison, it could not be discovered, or whether he had purchased it so secretly that we could never discover it. His manner suggested a doubt in my mind, as to the interpretation to be put on his language. I never sought any interview with Galceran; all conversations with him were sought by himself. When I ordered his arrest, he said nothing, but went immediately with the officer, and expressed no surprise.

The Coroner and jurors waited an hour or more for Dr. Stone and another witness, who had been duly notified to appear; and as they did not appear, the inquest was continued to 12 o'clock to-day, the Coroner promising to have the witnesses present, by aid of the police, if necessary.

From Nicaragua.

Advices from Grenada are to the 28th of January, and from San Juan del Sur to the 3d of February. There was a large assemblage of Transit route speculators in the capital, but it is hinted that the Martinez Government was not really sincere in its desire to grant a right of way. The official organ of the Cabinet had hinted that all parties should fuse into one grand company—a proposition entirely impracticable. It was said that England proposed to make a railroad, under the Wyke convention, from Blewfields river, on the Atlantic, to Realejo, on the Pacific. Mr. F. Reid had discovered some very profitable mines of gold and silver in the department of Chontales. Commodore Vanderbilt is reported to have secured a transit concession, paying $100,000 and a tax of $1 20 for each passenger. A couple of American gentlemen were about to be married to Nicaraguan ladies of rank. The Mora party in Costa Rica was completely dispersed for the present.

PLANTING IN MISSISSIPPI.—The Woodville Gazette, of Saturday last, says:

Our exchanges of Mississippi speak in glowing terms of the season as favorable, in a high degree, to the farming community. The ground breaks up beautifully, and vegetation bursts out in rich luxuriance. The planters are all at work on the new crop.
