LET THE SOUTH BE UNITED. A correspondent of the Delta, writing from Washington, says: I am glad to announce that even General Scott has been induced to use courteous measures towards the South. He has written the Southern States stand united. This I heard from his own lips.

That the South will be united, eventually, there can be no manner of doubt. The only trouble is that some of the States have gone about secession in a dilatory and hesitating manner, instead of acting promptly, and consummating the act of secession at the very earliest possible moment.

Arkansas and Virginia, and probably other States, have made the machinery of secession so cumbersome, and of such slow action, that it may not be the 4th of March before these States will be prepared to unite with the others in the Southern Confederacy.

That this will be unfortunate, in many respects, is plain enough. Gen. Scott has shown a wisdom in the declaration that it would be absurd to attempt to coerce the united South. He might have gone farther, if he chose, and said that it would be equally absurd to attempt to coerce towards a single State, Kentucky, Maryland, and Georgia, whose States, as any one else, that war upon a single Southern State by the Federal Government would immediately unite the South as one man.

That we must interpret this declaration as an abandonment of the policy of coercion altogether. When Gen. Scott abandons it, it falls to the ground; for Scott is really the President, acting vicariously for the Old Public Functionary, who being wholly unequal to the occasion, seems to have been entirely "squeaked out."

But still, this does not obviate the inconvenience of a divided South. Not only because a united South would secure us, as Gen. Scott says, against any attempt at coercion, but for many other and conclusive reasons. It is important that we combine together. In this view of the case, the tardy movements of some of the States are to be regretted; for, everybody will admit that though the Southern States will, sooner or later, all come together, by an irresistible law of political attraction, it is yet of the highest importance that the confederacy be established at the earliest period of time possible.

Fort Jackson.--Letter from Capt. Bradford. The Fort Jackson, Jan. 23, 1861. Editor of Crescent: The steamer Empire Parish arrived at this port last night with supplies for my troops, orders, etc., and brought, besides, three packages of your paper, of the 17th, 18th, and 19th. I thank you for your courtesy and thoughtfulness.

It is in an isolated position here, and since our arrival on the 10th, we have had nothing from New Orleans except one or two telegraphic cables. Your paper gives us all the news, and my officers join me in thanks to you for sending it.

If anything interesting occurs I will telegraph you, and, if admissible, give you a letter in detail. For the present, my command is in excellent health, and laboriously engaged in cleaning and strapping up the post for permanent occupation by the United States troops. Capt. Angers, with the Second Company of Louisiana Infantry, arrived by the Empire Parish, and relieved Lieutenant Hyams and a detachment of my men in charge of Fort St. Philip.

Please allow me to repeat my thanks to you for your attention, and believe me, Respectfully yours, JOHN B. FLOYD, Secretary at War.

From the Pacific. PORT KENNEDY, Jan. 18.--The Pony Express passed here at 1 o'clock in the morning, on the 17th, but in consequence of a heavy snowstorm, which prostrated the wires, has been unable to transmit the news till now.

The steamer Empire Parish, which sailed on the 10th, carrying 210 passengers and 100,000 in treasure, among the passengers was the Governor of Oregon, on his way to Mexico, to take the position of American Minister, also Senator Smith, of Oregon, and Col. John C. Fremont.

Business in San Francisco dull, and an unexpected stringency in the money market, which has retarded the closing of banks on Monday. Money is scarce, and the rate of interest is high. In many cases high rates of interest were paid. An examination of the movements of treasure during the last two months, which are abundant, shows the gradual lightening of the money market.

In November the amount of treasure received from the country was $3,281,951; in the same month the export was $4,386,968. It will be perceived therefore that the net result of the month of December by $1,105,017. This amount, however, is not diminished, but not materially, by the imports of treasure from Mexico, etc.

The Pony Express, with St. Louis date telegraphed to Port Kennedy the 17th inst., arrived at San Francisco on the 21st. About 120 letters have been sent from California eastward by Pony Express, and continue to increase.

The Legislature met on Monday, the 6th of January. It is now claimed that the Douglas Democrats lack life of a majority over all others in the Legislature, and great difficulty in electing a U. S. Senator is anticipated.

San Francisco was thrown into an unusual excitement on New Year's day by the killing of Saml. M. Newell, editor of the Democratic Standard, in Placer county, by Horace Smith, a lawyer of some position in the same county. Newell is charged with the murder of Smith, and is held in custody in San Francisco, in company with his wife's brother, John Newell, who is charged with the murder of Newell. He is held in custody in Sacramento. He made no resistance, and was taken to the city on the 21st.

Another tragic story occurred at Sacramento the same day. A man named Wm. Berry, who had been shot by a man named J. R. Boyce, an old and highly respected citizen, in a quarrel, was taken to the city on the 21st.

FROM WESTERN HANDEL.--Denver City, Jan. 15. The telegraph published yesterday created a good deal of excitement. Col. Boyd, Indian Agent, has been appointed to the position of Indian Agent at Fort Collins. The treaty negotiations with the Indians are being pushed with vigor, and the winter quarters of the Denver tribe have been fixed.

Denver City, Jan. 15.--About thirty carts full of wool are still running in the mountains and neighborhood of the city. Several hundred sheep have been driven in the Flatie districts. They are supplied with water from the Hydraulic Company's ditches, and may they make good wages where hereafter wool would not pay.

A pottery manufactory will commence operations in a short time near this city. Mr. J. V. Wainwright, of this city, has been appointed to the position of Indian Agent at Fort Collins. The treaty negotiations with the Indians are being pushed with vigor, and the winter quarters of the Denver tribe have been fixed.

THE CHAMPION OF THE WORLD.--There will be a contest at the State Fair, for a trial of the celebrated GREAT PATENT SEWING MACHINES, the only one which will make a stitch in a minute, and will sew on any fabric.
