GENERAL D. B. TWIGGS.

At his own request, this true patrice and distinguished soldier has twen relieved from the active outer of his important consmiand. That this should be so is alloe a source of regret to the public and the General. The people wish his services—the country freeds his services—he is surfous to serve publ, and dis for both. If aced be, but, unfortunately, physical incapacity greents. His head is clear, his brain active, and his patriotism as ferrent as of yore, but, as fairmated above, the disabilities of disease preventing that personal and active at tention which he deemed necessary to the requirements of the occasion, he saided to be relieved. His notices will be duly appreciated by his fellow-clisens, and his conduct correspondingly honored. The whighlened dispatch from the Acting Secretary of War nieds to explanation. cott's First Regiment Louisiana Cavalry

This copy of calvalpy is now aimed ready to march for the seat of swar, fully armed, equipped and mounted, and we take pride in expressing on belief that none equal to it has yet-been raised in the Confederate service. The privates of this regiment are men of good seed position, who do not volunteer from any considerations of pay, confinement or petty amolties; but from a sense of duty to their cannity, and to be shalffulfons. The getting up of this carpic has been done without a dollar sepace to the Government, although between $40,000 and $309,000 has been been een expended upon the This encomous and was raised raised, appropriating thousands of dollars for their sequences and string out.

But this has all been done in the country. The city of New Orleans has not had, as yet, any show in this crack Carairy Regiment. She is to have a show, however, and one, too, peculiarly suited to the genins of her people. For it is proposed to attach to the regiment three guns, two 12-pound howitsers, and one nifed cannon, the expenses attending which it is hoped the citizens of New Orleans will bear. This battery is to be gotten up with a special eye to celerity of movement—will be made light, and the carriages in section, so that they can be taken apart and packed on males, offer, mountains and through broken or mever acountry. The appendage of this light artillery to the regiment will greatly add to its strength, and importance in a country like that in which it is meaded to act, and enable it to serve the Confederacy in a manner perfectly satisfactory to themselves and their briends at home.

In the equipping and fitting out of the artiflery, it is expected that the people of New Orleans will display an equal degree of generosity with the people of the country. We know their habitual generosity and have seen so many evidences of the country, and have seen so many evidences of the country in the cartiflery is the content of the country.

people of the country. We know their habitual generoaity and have seen so many evidences of their desire to maintain the high reputation of the city abread and at home, that we are satisfied that the will be done and done, too, in a must create able style, quickly and well. It could herally be expacted that New Orleans could vie with the country parishes in the efficiency of her cavalry; but in artillery sine considers hereeff second to moleculity in the world. The idea, therefore, to incorporate a small artillery corps with Scottle Regioner, must be particularly acceptants to give the netropolis of the State an equal chance with the country in this great offering of the citizens of seropoints of the crase an equal reasons with an unity in this great offering of the cilizens on State to the Covernment. An advertisement another colomb, to which we refer the reader was the names of several prominent citizens with each countributions for the purpose of equipment to artillery attached to the First Regimentalism. SANTA ROSA.

The brilliant and dashing exploit at Santa Rosa island is one of the best things that has happened since the beginning of the war. For some time past the Yankees have been concerhappened since the baginning of the war. For some time past the Yankees have been concentrating troops and munitions of war at that point. Four Pekens not being large enough to hold them. The probability is that they designed making the island a sort of depet for everything needed for their swinter operations along the Gulf coast—a place at which their vessels might fit out for marrading expeditions, and retire to in case of accident or running short of applies. It was important to as to prevent this, if possible, and gallantly has it been done. According to the felegraphic accounts published yesterday and to-day, we have borned and destroyed everything the Vankees had there outside of the Forf, taken a large number of prisoners, and driven off the rascals who constituted the famous rowdy regiment of Billy Wilson. And we did it all with only one thousand men. The enemy's encampment, we suppose, was beyond the range of the going of the Fort; or it may be that the Fort kept silent for fear of injuring their own men more than ours. We rather think now that we are even with them, and something ahead, comparing this bold dash of ones with their achievement of burning the dry dock and the schooms Judah.

The Yankeer, discregarding all the rules of cirilachievement of burning the dry dock and the schooner Judah.

The Yankees, disregarding all the rules of civilized war, took captire, so the account says, a Confederate Heutenat and twelve men bearing a flag of trace. This is the first instance of the sort that has occurred since the war began, and, indeed, is the first we seer heard of anywhere. It is a BE flustration of Yankee meanness, duplicity, and ignorance of the laws of war and of honor, and will what the appetites of our brave soldlers at Porssoola for still more daring deeds when another opportunity occurs for punishing the cowardly reseals.

Our only regret is that we did not captive the leader of this band of out-throats, thever and lay zarond, the famous Billy Wilson himself. The achievement would have been complete if this graceless rowdy could have been ended to our stready large memageria of captive Yankees. We see that the flestness of foot which served his brettern so well at Manasses was illustrated on this occasion by the great warrior, and that be field in coveradly precipitation to his den in the Fort. But we will, perhaps, get him yet. A man that is born to be hanged will never be drowned.

The Hon, Henry Wilson, one of the Senators from Massachusetts in "the old concern," has been lately made the recipient of a sword, formally presented to him at "the hub of the universe,"

The Hon. Henry Wison, one of the Senarors from Massachusetts in "the old concern," has been lately made the recipient of a sword, formally presented to him at "the hab of the aniverse," otherwise called Boston, by Mr. Winchrop, in the presence of thousands of admiring spectators. Having been formerly a General of Massachusetts militis, he feels his martial ardon now stirred within him by the salarams of the war, and has raised a regiment whereof he has been chosen Colonel. A sword is given him, and a stand of colors, and the brave warrior now goes forth to battle for his country (provided he don't run.)

It is related of Wison that in the masterly advance of the Federal army from Bull Run to Washington, as Artemas Ward calls it, on the 21st July, he fost his carriage and had to take it about but stampted to get upon a wagon, from which he was taked off three times by the indignant driver. It vaim he protested his name and station, but in the harry and confusion of that pell-mell retreat there was no respect of persons, and Senators had to heel it as well as the commensest soldier. Wilson arrived in Washington has next day, dusty and travel-statued, having passed the night, as is supposed, in washington has next day, dusty and travel-statued, having passed the night, as is explained to the earth.

But it is refreshing to see that at leax one of the Abolition politicians takes the field, oven though he should leave it in the presence of the effenty. Those in the North who have brought on the war have been the last to take a hand in it, while in the South the politicians were the first to go forth to battle. Wilson, by virtue of his millim tide, was accounted a great warrior in Washington, serving on the military committee in the Senate, and warring the success abundine so personal cowardice, and bravery on the field of fight. Perhaps no main in the Senate has submittee to meally to repeated insults, or exhibited fower of the qualities of genome maked that this same Wilson, who may not be commended in the same man repeated insults, or exhibited tower of the qualities of gazuline manhood than this same Wilson, who now proposes to come down South to whip the paople that he is afraid of individually, however he may be when hacked up by his fellow cobbiers of Boston and Lynn.

We had not supposed, however, that Robert C. Winthrop had fallen so low as to be playing second dadle to this impudent upstart and parvene, and presenting him with swords and flags. Mr. Winthrop is a gentleman, with the odication and tastes of a gentleman—but we suppose he too has been of a gentleman, with the defication and fastes of a gentleman-bit we suppose he too has been compelled to go with the tushing tide, and, like Beyrett, purchase personal security by ministering to the passions of the mob. But, let Gen. Wilson come along. We have just without the regiment of Billy Wilson at Santa Ross, and we can perform the same operation for all the other Wilsons that will give us acchance. that will give us aschance,

TALK ON CHANGE.

FALK ON CHANGE.

For three days past the habitues of the flags have been somewhat exercised on the issue of the exemply papers; and no half column of legraphic dispatches appearing. The great evil of ramors and unrelable dispatches is, it is hoped ouring itself. The williant attack on the Hassians on Santa Rosa Island was talked of freely, and much joy was expressed at the sciences for legal. But this engagement is supposed to have some connection with Fort Pickens. The Hessian can be gallantly captured and destroyed was located welver miles from Fort Pickens, being opposite to Penascola. Then, the further talk was about the Hassian synadron at the mount of the river. That It's increasing there is no doubt. Moreover, it is supposed the Saward programme is intended to be carried out. That a port of entry and collection of revenue is about to be established at the nead of the passes, where foreign wessels can arrive and foreign inschandise be impurited, duties collected and the vessels allowed to come to the city, discharge cargoes and tute cargoes of cation to Europe. There was considerable talk about the Managess and the return of the Ivy. The Managess and the return of the Ivy. The Managess went down stream yeaterday, and the Ivy followed, or was to follow. We expect to hear of something more than a regatta from the month of the river in a few days. The following account of the Ivy's trip to the Passes, from which she returned, was farmished by arrattaché of the Navy:

The Confederate steamer Ivy, Commander Jos. Fry, had a test of her rifle gun at the head of the Passes, too engagement was intended. She found there the Federal steamer Bichmond, of sixteen grows, par study was to the satisfaction of the Order the Posterial Steamer Bichmond, of sixteen grows, par study was a supposed war, and the Water position of the Bichmond was such as to draw the five of the Ivy and the Water Witch. The Ivy five ten guns to the satisfaction of the commander while the Rohmond returned the fire and then 50 opened, when about forty guns were discharged by the canny. Many falling short, while their rifler, yield the properties as stated, but the Ivy having performed her mission as to instructions, returned to her anchorage. In a lew days we may head something.
