THE DIFFERENCE.

The difference between a war conducted by a civilized nation, and one conducted by an uncivilized nation, and one conducted by an uncivilized nation, as Illustrated by a report which came to us yesterday by selegraph. We are told that a Federal steamer, on Friday last, threw one hundred that forty shells into the town of Urbanna, situated on the Rappahannock river in Virgir's, severely ddanaging the old cheech of the willage and the private dreellings of the inhabitants.

It so happened that in our last war with Great Britain the exemp's floot went up this same cirier, carrying a large force of men, and landing them at this very village and at other villages on the banks of the atream. But churches and private holses, were searedly and religiously respected. They burnt public buildings only—tobacco warehockes, court-houses, and as forth—but fouched not a private dwelling or a charch.

It remains for the Vandals of the North, the an age seppoach to be more refined and civilized, to engage in the sacrifications bulkness of burning down the temples of religion where three or four generations of people have worshipped, and of disturbing, with the lot missiles of war, the repage of the charchyard beneath whose soil the forerathers of the bandyard beneath whose soil the forerathers of the hamlet—not "rade" forefathers, but the best and the bravest of the Old Dominion—were for more than a century been sleeping. These are also the Christian people who terrify the women and children of a peaceful and sociaded town by setting fire to their houses, and driving them from the homes and the freedise that they love.

Nor is this an isolated case. When the Faderal forces under McDowell entered Centreville, before the battle of Manasses, they broke into the churc's at that place and descretated its wells with rule and insuling carleatures and obscene interlylike, before the battle of Manasses, they broke into the churc's at that place and descretade its wells with rule and insuling carleatures and obscene interlylike, before th orthern army is a reflex of the morality ( orthern society, we hope—indeed we know—th outh will never desire to listen to its teachings.

SOUTHERN UNIONISM.

The New York Times says:

The New York Times says:

When the war commenced, no same, well-informed man hoped for the success of our arms, unless upon the basis of a Loison electuant in the Sautiern Saires, witch would become developed the same of the sautiern Saires, witch would become developed. The armies have not advanced, and probably the Times is walling for this for the "Union electent" in the South to be "developed." It it will believe in the existence of such a thing, it git to argo that the saltence of such a thing, it git to try the same of the same of the same of the saltence of the such as the saltence of such as the saltence of when it does, has invariably to "devance, or, when it does, has invariably to "devance of the Federal army. More Union from have been changed into rebelly the invasion of our territory than by all the arguments that could be addressed to their reason. Here is where the North makes a great mistake, footiably sapposing that Southern men cau be frightened by the army into deing that which they would not otherwise the Mothantant the salte of Matter and the salte of th duntarily.

We should think it is about time that this alk a Union party in the South, kept down is a mi-nority of rebols, had ceased. The trick is blayed out. It is for rideclose to talk about. The New York Times, for the sake of its own regulation for good sense, ought to leave such stall as that to people like Lincoln, who either have not sense enough to know better, or, knowing better, have no scruples about Iging about it.

TALE ON CHANGE.

Yesterday was a fine day for the usual congregations on the flags. But the congregations on the flags. But the congregations on the flags. But the congregations and crowds on the grand row were how set. On the grand boulevard Canat there was only a moderate sprinkling from the numerous boeles—a regresentation of the varied interests of our companity. Even the great post-citice neighborhood was greatly debiasant in the numerous crowds which generally hover about that locality. Many years ago, say thirty or thirty-five, when the post-citice department was under the control of Return J. Meigs and John Mcl.san, there was assistant on derived from a cassal interview with the you collies authorities. Deen under the administration of Amos Kondall there was some pleasure in coagregating around the corner of Royal and Biavilio, and subsequently on the corner of Royal and Canal, awaiting the opening and distributing of the post-office department, so far as New Orleans is concerned. There are a good many inquiries rigarding the cois that is paid into the post-office of this city. Where does it go: The post-office of this city. Where does it go: The post-office of this city. there has been much date of the opening of stite; but we ask for information what constitutes e opening of a port! Is it that a squadron of ritish armed vessels should lay outside of the Baze, and oppose any frustration of English vessels ntering the river and coming to the city? Our uthorities, unfortunately, give no encouragement entering the river and coming to the city? Our authorities, unfortunately, give no encouragement to run the blockade, merely that certain kinds of goods and merchandise will pay a given profit, and this great profit is to come out of the people and consumers in general. We, however, do not allow our customer that would be willing to buy a carge of cutton, even at 10 or 12 cents per lb., in recurn for his merchandise, the privilege of doing so. We peremptorily say, you shall not have a pound of cotton until your government recognizes us as an independent nation—when such a recognizion was a findependent nation—when such a recognizion will no no firther towards. when such a recognition will go no further towards the raising of the blockade than an edict of the

Is it not absert to attach conditions of this ma-ture to our would-be consumers! In fact, by the embarge act it cannot be called anything else. We are demanding of the European powers that they shall quasily fight our battles. We want almost every kind and description of commodi-ties—bagging, rope, salt, crockeryware, and mu-nitions of war of all kinds, fron, blankols, we offen goods of every description—and, yet, many and many officens say recognize us and break the blockade, or, in other words, fight our battles. many officens say recognize us and break the blockade, or, in other words, fight our battles we will go a little further in support of our views. Floor, from Spain, can be delivered, via Havann, on our levee at 85 to 80 per barrel, such as we ourselves paid yesterday 814 for. Will be non-exportationists say that we should be inhibited from encouraging shipments of this necessary article to be paid for in cotton? We have not space to extend our remarks on this all-absorbing question. It must not be overlooked the It must not be overlooked, that during the remains the so dependent, that during the present ventury there has been a space of time when Eng and did not receive a bale of cotton from "h Inited States, say for three years, yet, she weath red the inbibition.
