WILLIAMS, COCONINO COUNTY, ARIZONA. THURSDAY, NOV. 2, 1916

Number 49

J. D. DUNN, DEMOCRAT HAS NO OPPOSITION

After one year and eight months serving as truant and probation officer of the city of Flagstaff, J. D. Dunn was elected to the office of county assessor by a majority of two hundred and eighty-six votes (286), and has served the people of the county as assessor for one term and is now asking for another term without any opposition.

And he respectfully solicits the votes of each and every voter of the county, and if elected he will continue to serve the people in the future as he has in the past.

When elected assessor of Coconino county the total valuation of property, not including county and state property, was for the year 1914—$16,775,513.72, including state and county property, $17,237,617.95; 1915—$16,975,766.17, including state and county property, $17,497,327.25; 1916—$17,529,979.58, including state and county property, $17,740,517.00, or a total increase of $502,900.05.

Total expense including salary of assessor and deputy and office supplies and etc., 1914, $5,130.59; 1915, $4,391.56, or $729.08 less in 1915 than 1914.

"As the report of the clerk of the board of supervisors will not be out until the first of the year it will be impossible for me to give this years expense," said Mr. Dunn.

Mr. Dunn was born in 1875 on a cotton farm in Sunflower county, Mississippi. His father died when he was five years old.

Being the only boy he soon experienced the responsibility of helping his mother care for the family of six, which he did faithfully until the children were all grown and married.

At the age of twenty-one he began working in a general store where he served successfully for six years, after which he purchased a farm and handled timber as a side issue.

Having contracted typhoid fever in 1909, he was advised by his doctor to come west and he selected Arizona.

He was married at the age of twenty-two and has a fine little family living in Flagstaff.

Since coming to Arizona he has worked for the Great Western Copper Company, at Courtland; the Flagstaff Lumber Manufacturing Company at Flagstaff; and at present is faithfully discharging the duties of county assessor, and now comes before the voters of Coconino county for reelection to the office of assessor and if elected, will do his best to discharge the duties of the office properly.

He believes the assessor should see every taxpayer personally regarding his property.

DAN J. CRONIN TO BE REELECTED

Dan J. Cronin, the present county recorder who is a candidate for reelection on the democratic ticket, was born in Cincinnati, Ohio, and has been a resident of Flagstaff for twelve years.

He is holding his first political office and for efficiency has demonstrated that he has no superiors.

During all the time he has been in the office of recorder he has faithfully performed the duties of his office and has a large circle of friends who are loyally supporting him in his present race and who will stand by him to the end.

Mr. Cronin is a young man,

HUGH CAMPBELL HAS NO OPPOSITION

Everybody knows Hugh Campbell.

He is the democratic candidate for reelection to the state senate from Coconino county.

Mr. Campbell was a member of the last legislature and no republican cared to oppose him this time, consequently he has easy sailing and his reelection on November 7th is an assured fact.

He was born in Nova Scotia and came to Arizona many years ago. He is engaged in the sheep business and is well known as one of Coconino county's leading citizens and one of Arizona's leading citizens for that matter.

Mr. Campbell, promises if elected, to give the people of this county a business-like administration and to represent this county in the legislature as it should be.

Having lived in Flagstaff for some time he is fully alive to the needs of the Northern Arizona Normal School and is in a position to do some big things for that school.

As we have said before, Mr. Campbell's election is conceded for various reasons, the principal of which is that he has no opposition.

HARRY EMBACH FOR REPRESENTATIVE

Harry Embach, democratic candidate for the lower house of the state legislature, was born in Creek Nation, Oklahoma, (old Indian Territory) on September 17, 1887.

He resided here until he went away to school in 1900, attending Northwestern University in Chicago three years.

He worked in the east in the banking business until 1905 when he came to Arizona and went to work for the Prescott National Bank. He came up to Flagstaff and worked for awhile for Babbitt Brothers, and then went back to Prescott and worked with the Prescott National Bank for another two years.

Finally the pine clad hills of Coconino county called him back to this section and he engaged in the cow business. He is secretary of the Coconino County Cattlegrowers Association, and this is his first time in politics.

"If elected I intend to represent the people of Coconino county to the best of my ability," said Mr. Embach. Also being a democrat I hope to do a good deal more than a republican could from this county for the legislature will be democratic."

Mr. Embach knows every foot of Coconino county, having punched cows all over this section of the state.

man of good habits, and a man who gives the right kind of service. His office is conducted neatly and systematically and "good service" is his motto.

Not only has Mr. Cronin hundreds of good friends in Coconino county, but also throughout the state, people who know him to be an excellent official.

An evidence of his popularity was shown at the primary election in September when he polled the largest vote of any man running for state or county office. The voters literally flocked to him on that date and when the ballots were counted it was shown that they approved of his splendid record and that they want him back in office for another term.

Mr. Cronin will appreciate your vote, whether you are a democrat, republican, socialist or prohibitionist. His campaign cards carry the wording, "my best reference is my record in office."

CHAS. T. WOOLFOLK FOR SUPERVISOR

Charley Woolfolk.

That's the way Charles T. Woolfolk, democratic candidate for reelection to membership on the county board of supervisors, is best known to his many friends.

The name "Charley Woolfolk" carries great weight in Coconino county and the fact alone that he wants the office is enough to cause the average voter to declare that he's going to vote for Woolfolk.

Mr. Woolfolk was born in Mississippi and has been in Arizona about twenty-two years, practically every day of which time he has spent in Coconino county.

He was educated at the University of Mississippi and when he first came to Arizona he worked in the mines in the southern part of the state. Later he engaged in the sheep business, the vocation that he now follows.

"Not any man has made any better record in office than Mr. Woolfolk" said a local citizen. "He has made a splendid supervisor and is the right man for membership on the board."

Mr. Woolfolk is always alive to the needs of the people of this county. He is competent, energetic, and is always on the job, never shirking his duties for one moment.

It is generally conceded throughout the county that Mr. Woolfolk's reelection is a certainty, as besides getting the democratic vote, he will be supported by many republicans.

FRED HOLDEN FOR SUPERVISOR

Mr. T. F. (Fred) Holden, one of the democratic nominees for county supervisor, has lived in this and Yavapai county continuously since 1881.

He has been in the livestock business for eighteen years and paid taxes to Coconino county since its creation. He has never held an elective county office.

He has been in nearly every county in the state and in that way has been in a position to observe the administration of affairs in the different counties as well as in his own county.

He is a good roads enthusiast, and stands for not only good state highways but also good roads for the benefit of the stock raiser and rancher in all parts of the county.

"These men are big taxpayers," he says and are entitled to every consideration as regards good roads for the hauling of supplies and produce."

"I stand for honesty and efficiency in the handling of all county monies. I believe in economy without niggardliness.

"I have my own views with regard to the upbuilding and future prosperity of our county and while not a radical, I do not approve of following altogether the old set lines of county administration, simply because they are old set lines.

"In other words I believe in progress in county as well as in other affairs.

MISS FRANCIS MAKES FINE RECORD IN OFFICE

In seeking reelection for the office of county superintendent of schools, Miss Lenore Francis goes before the voters with a record hard to excel.

During her first term in office, three new school districts have been organized and schools established to meet the need of the growing population.

She has tried to raise the standard of the schools and put rural school education on a basis with city schools.

Three new buildings have been erected and a fourth is in course of construction. All plans used have been endorsed highly by Mr. C. O. Case, state superintendent of public instruction. Better lighting, ventilation, and sanitation have been the principal features.

School supplies have been purchased by competitive bid system at less expense to the boards.

State Examiner Dave Johnson sent in a splendid report on the records of the office, cost of supervision, and saving in district expense. All vouchers have been carefully itemized and O. K.'d by the state.

Mr. Davis, deputy examiner for Mr. Case, stated that Miss Francis' records are the best kept and most efficient in the state.

The rural school specialist, Mrs. Cook, sent out by the United States Department of Education, made a special mention of the installation of Smith heaters in rural schools. She claims these to be less expensive, less complicated, and to give entire satisfaction.

If all office holders would perform their duty as splendidly as Miss Francis has, no one could make any complaint.

DICKINSON CAME TO ARIZONA IN '75

W. G. (Bill) Dickinson, was born in the state of Missouri, came to the Territory of Arizona, overland, not on the cushions of a Pullman, or even a day coach of a railroad, but in a very commodious and comfortable vehicle, known in those good old days as a "Prairie Schooner," and landed on the banks of the Verde river, on the 16th day of August 1875.

He spent his boyhood days on a farm with his parents, and upon attaining the age of manhood, he entered into the stock business and continued actively in that industry, until five years ago, when he accepted the position of Undersheriff, under the administration of Sheriff T. E. Pulliam, serving in that capacity three years.

At the primary election held during the month of September, 1914, he was chosen as the democratic candidate for the office of sheriff, and was elected at the general election held during the month of November, 1914, for the term ending January 1, 1917.

And at the primary election held on September 12th, 1916, he was again nominated by the democrats for the office of Sheriff of Coconino county, and requests the support of the citizens of the county, upon the record he has made in the conduct of affairs in that office during the past two years.

A strict enforcement of the laws, will still be his policy, if elected to fulfill the duties of the office of sheriff, for the next two years.

Free Dance After Rally

The democrats will give a free dance after the rally at Williams, Nov. 4.

JUDGE ROSS REMAINS AT HIS POST OF DUTY

Believing his duties at the capitol to be of paramount importance, Chief Justice Henry D. Ross has declined an invitation to accompany the democratic state candidates on their campaign tour and has elected to remain in Phoenix "on the job."

Asked recently to give his reasons why he does not wish to actively enter the campaign, Judge Ross issued the following statement:

"I am not going to make a campaign for two reasons for the office of judge of the supreme court:

First—My time is not my own. It belongs to the people. I am their servant and as long as their business demands my attention I cannot, and do my duty, take it myself or use it for any other purpose. There are cases pending in the supreme court ready for argument and submission.

"It is more important to private litigants and the public that these cases be taken up and decided, than that I should be running around over the state shaking hands and making political speeches in the interest of my reelection.

The judges duties are personal. He cannot act through deputies or agents as executive and ministerial officers may. No one can act for the judge. Therefore if he is not on the job the public interest must be neglected. From now until election I shall be at my office discharging its duties to the best of my ability.

"Second—Since statehood, until now, no candidate for judge of the supreme court has actively participated in pre-election campaigns. The republican and democratic candidates have uniformly refused to campaign with their party associates, and this without any previous understanding but out of a sense of propriety of keeping the judiciary out of political controversy.

"Such high class lawyers as Judge Kent, Judge Doe, Thomas Armstrong and Walter Bennett have been honored by the republican party as its nominees and none of them ever actively participated in the party campaigns. I had hoped this settled but unwritten law would continue the rule in Arizona and so far as I am concerned it shall be observed. To the extent that it lies in my power, I am ready, willing and anxious to keep the election of our judges out of politics."

WHY YOU SHOULD VOTE FOR MR. ACKER

Mr. S. S. Acker, democratic candidate for reelection to the office of county treasurer, gives a few reasons why he asks for your vote at the coming election November 7th.

First—He claims he has been the right man in the right place.

Second—It is a well known fact of law that one can hold the office of treasurer but two terms and he assures you that he can give better service the second term.

Third—Chairman Charles R. Howe of the State Tax Commission made the statement that only one county had collected a larger per cent of taxes for the year 1915, 98 2-3 per cent of the taxes of Coconino county were collected and but for two large assessments it would have been over 99 per cent.

Fourth—He claims that not-

CHARLES C. JONES FOR COUNTY ATT'Y

Mr. Charles C. Jones who is a candidate on the democratic ticket for county attorney of this county was born in Flagstaff and has lived here all his life.

He is a graduate of the Law Department of the State University of Colorado, and passed the State Bar examination of Arizona in a class of seventeen members, and is licensed to practice in all the courts of Arizona.

Since his admission to the bar he has been associated with his father J. E. Jones in the practice of law for the past three years. Mr. Jones is a well read lawyer and stands high in his chosen profession. He is seeking the office of county attorney upon his qualifications and fitness for this position, and if elected, he promises an honest, faithful and conscientious discharge of his duties.

Mr. Jones is a young man, full of vim, energy, and thoroughly equipped in every way for this office, and his many friends throughout the county are staying with him as they have faith and confidence in his ability, integrity and honesty.

The office is an important one, and one which requires a knowledge of the law, and close attention to its enforcement. If the voters of Coconino county elect Charles C. Jones their county attorney, they will find in him a young man full of courage, who will devote his entire time, energy, and efforts in protecting the rights of the tax payers.

In voting for him, the voter is casting a vote for a young man who has grown up here among them, and whose ambition will be to give his fellow citizens and tax payers a good, honest, efficient and faithful service.

Charles C. Jones will protect each and every citizen alike, and do equal justice to all, so a vote for him means a vote for an honest, economical, and faithful county government so far as within his power. He will never betray any trust reposed in him by the people among whom he has been raised, and all he can promise is to do his duty, giving to each and all alike a fair and conscientious consideration in all matters which might come before him.

Don't fail to vote for Charles C. Jones, your own native born boy for county attorney on November 7th.

withstanding the semi-annual payment of taxes which makes much more work he has run the treasurer's office for less expense than it has been run in previous years as the yearly reports will show.

Fifth—He went to Prescott and adjusted the transient herd tax with the treasurer and tax collector of Yavapai county by which this county will receive nearly two thousand dollars transient herd tax for the years 1915 1916.

Sixth—He claims to be always public spirited expending over three hundred dollars of his own money and a month's time working against the act known as the Prescott Railway Subsidy on which you are now paying interest on one hundred fifty nine thousands dollars.

Seventh—He claims he has saved the county several hundred dollars by giving personal bonds which under the law he could ask the county to pay.

He takes this occasion to thank you for the liberal support you gave him two years ago and hopes to receive the same and more at the coming election.
