

WORK OF IND. CONGRESS
FOR AUG. AND SEPT.

Work of the Arizona Industrial Congress during the months of August and September is reviewed in a statement on its accomplishments just issued by the organization.

As in past months, the review is featured by reports of further progress in the movement to increase the use of Arizona products, but other activities of a constructive nature also are covered. Among these are:

Sending a traffic expert to Chicago to attend an Interstate Commerce Commission hearing on rail and water rates to the southwest proposed by the Southern Pacific system. If granted, these rates will give Arizona points a rail and water rate from New York practically equal to the all-rail rate from Chicago.

Supporting the Arizona Wool Growers Association in efforts to obtain a more economical movement of sheep from northern sections to southern feeding districts. To eliminate difficulties involved in driving the sheep over trails, the Santa Fe was requested by the sheepmen to allow rates which would make movement by rail possible. The Santa Fe has published rates for a round-trip movement of sheep which will give a reduction of 20 per cent over present rates. The Wool Growers have accepted the new rate tentatively to give this plan of moving sheep a trial.

Calling attention of architects and builders to new construction projects, and also calling attention to the possibility of using Arizona products in construction. The Santa Fe and Arizona Eastern railroads gave every consideration to Arizona contractors in calling for bids for their new union station in Phoenix. School boards also have favored home architects and contractors in letting contracts for new buildings.

Giving support to the Arizona Cattle Growers Association in working out plans for a co-operative system of cattle feeding. As an experiment, H. G. Boice, president of the Cattle Growers Association, has shipped some 1,500 head of feeder cattle into the Salt River Valley, where they have been taken over by Fred Tait, president of the Maricopa County Farm Bureau, and others. When fattened the cattle will be sold to the Arizona Packing company. Close figures on feeding costs and profits will be kept, preliminary to endeavoring to effect an arrangement between cattlemen, farmers and the packing plant for cattle fattening on a large scale next year.

Collecting data from experts on the problems of load and speed regulation and maintenance to be considered in the "Preservation of Highways". This data was used in a series of newspaper articles to call attention to the points involved in preserving the state highway system at minimum expense.

Answering many inquiries in regard to the resources, industries and possibilities of Arizona. A number of inquiries were referred to chambers of commerce in various parts of the state.

The report on accomplishments also points out that the annual meeting of the Industrial Congress will be held December 16 in Phoenix. Mention also is made of the "All-Arizona" program planned for the state fair.

The latest development in the "Use Arizona Products" campaign covered in the report is the success of the Coconino County Farm Bureau Potato Growers' Association in arranging with all wholesale distributors of the Salt River Valley for the exclusive handling of Coconino potatoes in the valley this winter. The Congress gave all possible assistance in furthering this co-operation between growers and dealers. Other "Use Arizona Products" activities are listed as follows:

Large increase in the demand for brooms manufactured in Arizona. More large orders from big concerns of the state for Arizona lumber. Further progress in interesting the public in Arizona wheat flour as a result of baking demonstration being conducted over the state by the extension service of the University of Arizona.

HAPPENINGS AT RED LAKE

Providing the farmers of Red Lake can be supplied with sacks, they will finish their potato harvest next week. The black productive soil is not satisfied with a yield of fifty or sixty sacks per acre but is giving forth its Rurals, Peachblow and Cobblers to the tune of one hundred and a hundred fifteen, which has put a smile of "wonder" on the face of the Red Lakers, a "wondering as to where they will find the people to eat them. Eaters who are able to pay in accordance with the farmers' requirements, which although conservatively handled, has a great many leaks.

More farmers are turning wistful eyes to beans as a remedy for an over crowded potato market, realizing that they are much more safely kept until they are needed. And too, the life they put into the soil for a rotation crop has appealed to many. They are a crop that adapts itself to the valley, less labor at harvest, equally as little through the growing season, with a greater net production. The failures with a bean crop are no more than with others, farmers here claiming that as yet, there has been no year that beans would have failed with proper care.

The voters of the district will feast mentally and otherwise, Friday and Saturday evenings. As the "Silver Tongues" will rend the air about the School House with their (well you know). All voters are cordially welcomed, but should you prefer to be "crushed" by the massive "old Elephant", come Friday night, and to you that glory in the "heels" of the "Mule," why come Saturday evening, and if you "can" courage to try both, come, for each will be of interest.

Owing to large crops and need of all available help, school has called a halt until the farmers can come to their own again.

The High School students organized a club known as "La Reina de Clubs" with the teachers as honorary members. The purpose of the club is for encouragement of use of the Spanish language. The initial meeting was a decided success, an interesting program being rendered followed by a social time.

PASS NIGHT ON O'BRIEN FLAT

Dr. E. A. Miller, E. J. Nordyke, J. W. Lee and G. H. Spellmire, after attending a Rotary Club meeting at Flagstaff, Tuesday evening, left hlythely in Dr. Miller's limousine for their domiciles in dear old Williams. After an hectic night spent on O'Brien's flats trying to find out what in heck was the matter with the dummed thing, they threw up their hands and sent an S. O. S. to Charlie Button.

Along about six in the morning, Charlie Heiser picked up our erstwhile Town Clerk and towed him into some comfortable sleeping quarters at Flagstaff. If it hadn't been for the confounded chambermaid who insisted on rousing him out at 7 a. m. in order to make the bed, Jerrie wouldn't have had to spend the whole day explaining why he looked so sleepy headed.

AMOS A. BETTS GIVES INSPIRING SPEECH

Before one of the most enthusiastic meetings that the city of Globe has ever witnessed, Amos A. Betts, candidate for re-election as Corporation Commissioner, held his audience spell-bound on Saturday night with a startling array of facts and figures of vital interest to every citizen in the state. The most important subject of his discussion was the famous "Three Cent Fare Case", the passage of which will mean the actual saving of a million dollars a year to the people of Arizona. Mr. Betts said: "I am not employing a hypothetical figure when I tell you that the success of my efforts in connection with this case will keep a million dollars in the pockets of the people of Arizona that would otherwise be spent for fares. This case, upon which I have been working for the past several years, comes up for its oral argument before the International Commerce Commission in either December or January. My contention here is that Arizona is entitled to the same basic passenger rates as those enjoyed in other states of the Union, particularly in the Middle West and in the East. If I succeed in convincing the Commission with the data, statistics and facts that I have compiled from my own knowledge and experience of traffic matters, our passenger rates in Arizona will have a general reduction averaging one and two-tenths cents a mile less than the present rate. From the figures taken of the average annual expenditure for passenger fares in this state, this reduction amounts to a million dollars. I have developed this case to a point where I am confident of its successful accomplishment, and I am soliciting re-election so that I can carry this and other pending measures to a successful conclusion for the taxpayers and citizens of my state, whom I am conscientiously serving." Mr. Betts went on to draw his audience's attention to the fact that the foregoing case was only one of the many traffic matters vitally affecting every citizen of this State which required a sound, thorough knowledge and experience with railroad matters, since these hearings and contests represented competitive debates between experts in this particular field. In concluding his discussion Mr. Betts stirred his audience with the following statement of his non-partisan attitude: "The office of Corporation Commissioner, to which I am seeking re-election, is and should be, as much divorced from party politics as it could possibly be. It is just as essential that the candidate for election as Corporation Commissioner be weighed entirely and solely upon his qualifications and training for that office as the selection of a Judge for the Supreme Court." Mr. Betts has been unable to cover all of the itinerary that has been planned for him on account of the press of work and important cases upon which he is now working, and his appearance in Globe was only made possible upon arrangements of very short preparation. He will speak in several other cities of the State within the next few days, notice of which will be published by the Press.

M. C. Smith was a Williams visitor this week. He reports that Mrs. Smith and the children are all well and enjoying life on their Glendale ranch very much except when he is away and leaves the 39 cows for the boys and Mrs. Smith to milk.

GO AFTER BEAR HIDES RE-TURN WITH BARE HANDS

C. E. Ratcliff, L. B. Morgan and "Irish" McTavish departed Sunday, October 15 for a week's hunt in Sycamore canyon. They went armed for bear and hoped to shoot a good sized grizzly both with camera and gun. They were disappointed in this however, for the canyon had already been visited by some dozens of hunting parties and they found no trace of bear.

It is related of McTavish that he started out at 8 a. m. one day carrying a canteen that contained nothing but water. He did not return to camp until sundown but declared that he was not lost. He did admit having "Seen the Snakes" for several hours and all because of that canteen. He says that they were all rattlers and that they completely surrounded him and demanded that he surrender the canteen, which he did (after it was empty). But when he asked for the can to take it back and refill it the reptiles declined and it was several hours before he could get free from them—hence his delay in reaching camp.

They succeeded in bringing Greece (grease) and Turkey together and got a very agreeable settlement, and that was more than Lloyd George succeeded in doing. This was the greatest triumph of the trip, altho they did bag a bob cat also. Mr. Ratcliff was delighted with the way his pup trailed and treed this cat.

The hunters found that the great problem of the Sycamore is the same as that of Williams—water. The canyon was dry from top to bottom as far as they could discover. At one old cabin which is noted for its good water, they found only a dry hole that might have contained water at one time. They hunted about with panned tongues in search of other water but without success until they ran onto a cowboy and inquired of him as to where they might find water. He told them to go back to the cabin and look ten feet to one side of the dry hole. They did so and found what seemed to them the finest water they ever drank. The old cabin was equipped with a spacious fireplace which they proceeded to fill with a roaring wood fire. After the cold blustering wind outside, the homely old cabin with its leaping fire surely felt fine.

The big disappointment of the trip was in not finding any bear. Mr. Ratcliff had taken along three traps big enough to hold an elephant and, was hoping to get a close-up of a live grizzly.

The men returned this week Tuesday.

MASSEY—HOOD

Miss Opal Massey and Mr. D. M. Hood were married Monday afternoon at Flagstaff. Mrs. Hood worked in the telephone office before her marriage and is a very popular and lovable young lady. Mr. Hood is a member of the firm of Hood and Humphrey, Tailors. He is an enterprising young man and sure to make good in his chosen calling.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Burton drove them back to Williams after the knot was tied. All of them had dinner at the Massey ranch west of town. The bride and groom have the best wishes and congratulations of their many friends.

Mr. N. A. Lister who has been visiting his sister, Mrs. Harry Dial, left Monday for his home in Duncan, Oklahoma.

Invitations are issued for a smart dance at the Parish House Friday evening with Miss Aphra Anderson and Miss Pauline Jones as hostesses.

Mr. S. M. Snyder and Mr. Charles Whitfield returned Sunday from Bear Springs where they spent a most beneficial vacation in hunting—as the more robust appearance of the once weary men and the fat sides of the game bag vouch for.

With the autumn season and its consequent harvesting and hunting as an inception, the managing force of Babbitt Bros. has produced a cleverly handsome display window which is invoking much favorable comment from the tiniest youngsters who gaze hungry eyed at the six foot loaf of French bread, to the farmers who smile with pride upon the splendid specimens of their county's agricultural products (the ribbon winners of the Red Lake Fair). On the face of the sportsman, is a look of anticipation as he views, in another section of that bountiful window, all the paraphernalia needed to bag just such a buck as mounted in the pines at the windows near.

Postmaster F. O. Polson held a clerk's examination in his office last Friday and the most successful of the three young men contestants will be appointed to a clerkship in the office. The new rating of our local post office, requires one male clerk on the force and the examination was held to meet this requirement. Miss Helen Stark will retain her present position in the office.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Klock had a narrow escape from very serious injury and possible death last Thursday. They were driving their car to California. When descending the hill the Ty-rod of the steering gear broke and Mr. Klock was powerless to control the car. It went off the road and turned over five times. Mrs. Klock was thrown from the car but escaped with painful injuries. Mr. Klock was held in by the steering wheel and escaped injury. On Thursday of this week, Mr. and Mrs. Klock again set out for California in their car.
