Hon. Hovey Johnson's Valedictory.

Mr. President—May I be excused for addressing for a moment or two the ordinary business of the Senate by a few words personal to myself? Having agreed to accept a public trust abroad committed to me by the president, with the approval of the Senate, I am about to resign my seat in this body.

Having been a member for nearly six years, and contracted friendships which have been a constant source of pleasure, and which I shall ever value, I cannot retire without the deepest regret.

In both periods, questions of the greatest importance, involving the powers of the government and the reserved rights of the States, have been discussed in this chamber with a solicitude to uphold the government in all its rightful authority, and to restore the entire country to its wonted prosperity.

It is not at all probable that I shall again be a member of the Senate, and it oppresses me to think that I may never, after I leave the country, have the pleasure of seeing again its members.

When I return from my embassy I trust and believe there will be an enduring peace between ourselves and the other nations of the world, and this I am sure can be secured by a firm and scrupulous maintenance of our own rights and a scrupulous regard for the rights of others.
