THE SUNDAY CRESCENT.—The Sunday Crescent, in all respects, is a paper which we offer as creditable to the literature and journalistic enterprise of New Orleans.

The Weekly Crescent, issued every Saturday morning, contains the news of the week by telegraph and mail, with interesting local events, with a miscellany of literary contributions original and selected, and with the latest financial and commercial intelligence.

The Republican thinks that if property holders band together to avoid paying taxes, tenants will band together to avoid paying rent. But why? Does it follow that people will refuse to pay their honest debts, because other people refuse to be cheated and plundered by a fraudulent and intrusive government?

The Republican finding that the Democratic vote in the State will reach 80,000 now insists that the unhappy Radicals were driven to the polls like black sheep by ferocious bands of Democrats and forced to vote for Seymour.

Some of our contemporaries persist that there is no Cuban movement in this country, and others just as pertinaciously maintain that there is. It is very sure that, if such a movement is on foot, those who have it in hand have, thus far, kept their secret more successfully than their predecessors in such enterprises.

MARK SMITH'S BENEFIT.—This cultivated, gifted and elegant genteel comedian, advertises his farewell benefit and his last appearance in New Orleans, this season, at the St. Charles Theatre, next Monday evening.

But all this we are told by the Boston merchant, before referred to, is to be changed, "now that Grant is elected." "The North," he says, now means business South, by the infusion of capital and emigration.

We understand that Mrs. M. S. Whitaker, the popular authoress of "Albert Hastings," has another novel ready for the press, entitled "Atala; or, Passed Away."

THE SOUTH OPEN TO THE NORTH.

A letter to the Richmond Enquirer and Examiner from a Boston merchant, who professes to express a prevailing sentiment among the commercial classes of New England, contains these noteworthy passages:

Now that Grant is elected, all the fears the North may have entertained about the South vanish, and a purpose will develop itself wholly friendly and of an encouraging nature. The North now means business South, by the infusion of capital and emigration.

Let us trust that the writer is not mistaken in supposing that the election of Grant has dissipated whatever fears may have existed at the South, of a nature prejudicial to the interests of either section or of both.

Nevertheless, the letter from the Boston merchant above quoted would seem to indicate that the election of Grant has in some degree opened many thousand minds in the North, heretofore darkened by prejudice and suspicion, to a more trustful and cheerful view of the position and estimation of Northern men in the South.

To suppose that so profound an abhorrence would be felt for a man merely because he came from the North, or from any foreign country, to reside in the South, is simply preposterous. Such a thing is morally impossible.

Some of our contemporaries persist that there is no Cuban movement in this country, and others just as pertinaciously maintain that there is. It is very sure that, if such a movement is on foot, those who have it in hand have, thus far, kept their secret more successfully than their predecessors in such enterprises.

THE CITY FINANCES.

Our statement of the city finances, yesterday, has had a very beneficial effect on the public mind. People perceive, from the facts, that our condition is by no means desperate, and that, in order to get through our difficulties, and to re-establish our credit, it is necessary only to take some action which will solve the city money problem.

There can be no doubt that the city of New Orleans is perfectly able to redeem her credit and to pay her debt. It is plain, from the statement published by us yesterday, that the amount of our obligations compared with the value of our taxable property is not so great now as when the city was consolidated, and, at that time, city bonds sold at a premium.

We deeply regret the death of Thomas E. Adams, one of our dearest friends, and one of the best and most energetic citizens of New Orleans. Col. Adams has been unwell for some months, but neither he nor his family and friends had any idea that his powerful frame was shaken to such a degree as to excite fears as to the result.

The Western Radical papers say that Congress must have nothing to do with the vote of Louisiana—must not recognize it—must reject it as an unclean and entirely too Democratic thing. But what about Sypher and Sheldon? How are those self-sacrificing and "trouty loil" patriots to get their mileage and salaries if Congress does not recognize the vote of Louisiana—at least in part.

Large numbers of ballots were deposited by the Memphis negroes in the lamp-post letter-boxes. The Avalanche thinks that Grant was probably elected postmaster general.

D. K. Whitaker, Esq., formerly editor of the Southern Quarterly Review, proposes to publish, by subscription, a work now ready for the press, entitled, "A glimpse at America a Hundred Years Ago; or, the Life, Times, Contemporaries and Correspondence of Nathaniel Whitaker, D.D., pastor of the Tabernacle church, Salem, Mass., together with an account of his mission to Great Britain in 1766-7-8, in furtherance of the civilization and christianization of the North American Indians, resulting in the establishment, in 1770, of Dartmouth College, in Hanover, N. H. Hæc omnia meminisse juvabit."

The Earl of Dartmouth, Lord Shaftsbury, Sir John Thornton, Rev. Drs. Stennett, Gibbons and Whitefield, George the Third, Sir William Johnson, Governor Wentworth, of New Hampshire, and the clergy of all denominations in Great Britain and America co-operated in this movement, which was prosecuted a hundred years ago with as much enthusiasm in both hemispheres, as the equalization of the Africans now is in the United States.

"LEAVES OF THOUGHT."—We have from Gresham, 92 Camp street, a small, neat volume, entitled "Leaves of Thought," by the late J. Mead, of this city. A great part of it is occupied with a series of interesting sketches, under the general head of "Memory Types of New Orleans;" which, together with a series of descriptive poems, render it a very readable volume, especially to those who like to dwell upon the peculiarities and antiquities of this city.

THE NEW ORLEANS COTTON CIRCULAR AND MERCHANTS' AND BROKERS' PRICE CURRENT.—Owing to the constantly increasing demand for the above we now strike off a large edition for transient subscribers, and are prepared to fill all orders without cards, up to the close of business on the respective days of publication, viz: Wednesdays and Saturdays.

HEAVY AND SERVE HARDWARE.—The attention of our readers is called to the advertisement of Messrs. J. S. Atkins & Son, wholesale and retail dealers in hardware, 236 Tchoupitoulas street. Their card appears in our advertising columns this morning, and as will be seen, their stock is very large and varied, comprehending everything in this line, while their prices are as reasonable as any house in the city.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—Ah! what a thrilling and yet a painful sensation one experiences in seeing that fair, delicately-formed girl, Miss Tourneur, singing about in mid air, fifty feet above the stage, sustaining herself by previous position upon the narrow bar of the trapeze only by the movements of her feet; and when the trapeze from swinging directly back and forth changes its motion to a rotary one, it is difficult to conceive how the daring child can, without even grasping the ropes, maintain her position for a single moment.

AMER'S MEN-GIRL AND CIRCUS.—To-day at 8 o'clock the men-girl will be thrown open for a public performance, at which, doubtless, hundreds of little ones, freed from the restraints of school, will revel in the contemplation of Louella Watson's equestrian and acrobatic feats. The former occasion offers an excellent opportunity for ladies and children to attend the theater unobscured, and to see this thrilling scene.

MARRIED: On Thursday evening, Nov. 12, at St. Paul's Church, by the Rev. W. F. Adams, Mr. WILLIAM F. HEALY to Miss MARY B. ANDREY, both of this city. No cards.

BATON ROUGE, November 4, 1868. L. H. Brossard, for thirty years a Sugar Maker under the old system of open kettles, takes pleasure in informing the citizens of this adjoining Parish that he has just taken of a small crop of Sugar at the plantation of Mr. William Denham, of this parish. The No. 4 FACTOR MILLS, and the No. 5 COOK'S EVAPORATOR, used by Messrs. TIGGS & BODLEY & CO., New Orleans, were in this instance, and proved to be not only equal, but superior to all that has been used for them.

SUGAR PLANTERS WILL notice that the COOK'S EVAPORATOR and VICTOR CANE MILL can be fully relied upon to take off a Sugar crop. The No. 5 VICTOR MILL and No. 7 COOPER EVAPORATOR can be relied upon to take off 75 acres of the best cane. The statement of Mr. Brossard, one of the best Sugar Makers on the coast, fully bears this fact.
