AMUSEMENTS THIS EVENING.

ST. CHARLES—Engagement of Miss Fanny B. Price—'The Girl of the Year'.

THE $3,000,000 CITY BOND ORDINANCE.

The mayor yesterday signed the ordinance which provides for the issuance of $3,000,000 by the city. It will be seen that the provisions of the bill demand within ten days an election to be held by the people to express their assent or dissent from the bill.

The Republican wants to know what has become of the 66,000 Republicans who voted for the so-called Constitution in April last, and of the 34,000 more or less, who voted for Grant. The Republican asks this question as evidence of our statement that there is no other party in this State than the Democratic party.

A writer in the Republican speaks of the negroes as "scoundrels." Pray don't insult an unfortunate class who are unable to defend themselves by assimilating them with the few white renegades who have joined the enemies of their State and their race.

The standing army of the United States consists of 43,741, exclusive of 4340 belonging to the engineer corps and other special arms of the service.

MISS FANNY B. PRICE.—Among the pleasures now at command of our theater-going public is the engagement at the St. Charles of Miss Fanny B. Price, a young lady who, although she has only this season made her debut before a New Orleans audience, has gained an enviable and well-merited distinction in other parts of the country.

Last night Miss Fanny B. Price appeared again in her favorite character of Fanchon in the well known play of that name. It is scarcely necessary to repeat the praise which we have already ungrudgingly bestowed upon this promising young actress. There is a naturalness and easy grace about this young lady's acting which absolutely disarm criticism.

The Albany Evening Journal says: There is a charm and power about this young lady that surprises us. How one so young has so thoroughly mastered the different phases of the human heart, we cannot conceive, nor can we tell how such a spirit of relief as she possesses after her long life in so slight a form.

The Memphis Ledger says: Miss Price's benefit last night drew a very large audience, whose enthusiasm for the gifted tragedienne rendered the occasion little less than an ovation. Miss Price's performance was a triumph, as a whole, it surpassed any other portrayal of the character we have ever witnessed.

THE CUBANS AND CARPET-BAGGERY.

The argument that Cuba should continue in unconditional adhesion to Spain, rather than take a tangent which would probably expose her to the peril of political and social reconstruction under the abominations and horrors of American carpet-bagbery, is quite plausible, but also very superficial. To be sure, if the Cubans were certain of obtaining under the Spanish government all the reforms and all the guarantees which are essential to their welfare and safety, there might be sufficient reason why they should prefer those indisputable advantages to the speculative benefits of separation. But no such certainty exists, and in the nature of things it cannot exist. It is impossible for the Cubans, geographically situated as they are, to be merged, as an integral element, into the aggregate mass of the Spanish nation.

It is perfectly idle to imagine that adhesion to Spain will improve the position of the Cubans with reference to the contingency of slave emancipation. The great danger is that the Spanish government, with characteristic bigotry, will refuse to liberate the island politically, refuse to part with it under negotiation, and at last, rather than let it pass from its clutches as a valuable possession, will precipitate emancipation in the form most adapted to inflict agricultural and commercial ruin and to place this island, along with Hayti and Jamaica, in the domains of an American Africa.

For the rest, it is to be remembered that the annexation of Cuba to the United States, whether as the result of Cuban revolution or of amicable negotiation with Spain, would present the island in a wholly different attitude towards the federal government from that occupied by the South at the close of the late war. The South was a conqueror, and could stipulate no terms with respect to slavery or any other important question. But the Cubans, if both prudent and resolute, can name in a large measure their own conditions. Much of the hardship suffered by the South was inspired by vengeance. There would be no such motive to influence federal policy in relation to Cuba. Moreover, the interest of the great West would weigh at once on the side of the Cubans, as it must ultimately weigh on the side of the Southern people. These combined interests could at length defy hostility in any shape, and Cuba, sitting at the southern extremity of the Mississippi valley, would form one of the brightest gems in the crown of the most splendid commercial empire which the world has seen.

Sombody writing in the Republican says that the carpet-bagger "is the immigrant, the embodiment of enterprise." Which is very true. But there are various kinds of immigrants and various kinds of enterprise. For instance, the persons who are understood to leave their country for their country's good, are just as well understood to be anything rather than desirable accessions to the population of the country to which they emigrate. Nor is the enterprise of Old Pagan, or of Jack Sheppard generally considered to be very valuable to the community in which such vocations are pursued.

The sub-treasury balance yesterday was $4,000,000.

Gold closed in New York yesterday at 134 1/2.

The following is a list of the passengers on board steamship United States, to arrive from New York: J. M. Houchaw, J. L. Robbins, Mrs. Kelley and daughter, Mrs. J. Derrick, J. Derrick, Louise Bender, Mrs. M. J. Arnold, Mrs. J. E. Gardner, Mrs. E. M. Crosby, W. Henry Wall, John Murteth, James Lawrence, Mrs. E. Monroe and two children, and four in the steerage.

The Bee yesterday morning published an article in the local column of its French side, severely censuring the city council for its action in adopting the ordinance providing for a tax of one-fourth of one per cent, to meet the interest on the bonds to be issued for the redemption of city money.

It has not been shown that the present council has been extravagant; but, on the contrary, we feel assured that the retrenchments introduced by the present administration will compare very favorably with the first half year's expenditures of the late administration. We, therefore, do not see that an administration ought to be condemned for laying a tax to arrest a debt that is increasing daily and can only be extinguished by payment. But, furthermore, we contend that no retrenchment can be effectual until the depreciated city currency is displaced by one which passes everywhere; because, we cannot expect to find contractors, laborers or merchants sufficiently patriotic to pay out United States currency for their services, or for the merchandise of which they dispose to the city, in exchange for a currency worth forty per cent. less than its face.

Nor do we find many self-sacrificing, patriotic taxpayers, who promptly pay their taxes and licenses in United States currency. They prefer to buy up the city money at an immense discount and pay it into the city treasury at par. Now, if the city treasury receives no United States currency, he cannot pay it out, that is clear. He therefore pays out city money for the very simple reason that he has no other. Thus, the contractor who is willing to build a bridge or to clean the streets for ten thousand dollars, must base his bids upon the market value of the currency in which he expects to be paid, and must therefore bid seven thousand dollars in order to realize the price at which he was willing to do the work.

The hardware dealer who sells his nails at $6 a keg, must ask $11 to get his money back; and when the city notes are paid out at these rates, the annual expenditures are increased at least a half million of dollars. And yet this city money must be redeemed at par or repudiated; unless, indeed, the Bee proposes, that we should stop building bridges and repairing streets, which are used only by draymen, cabmen, cartmen and others, who pay $100,000 per annum for the privilege of running over them. These persons are compelled by law to pay up their licenses in January and February of each year, whereas the real estate tax payers are allowed eighteen months before suit can be brought against them. We trust that the Bee will reconsider its views of this matter and aid in securing the ratification of the bond and tax ordinance by the people.

THE LEVEES.—The following very important resolution has been adopted by the board of public works. Riparian proprietors will do well to consider the offer herein made, and to act on it to the extent of their means available for the purpose, if they have sufficient confidence in the disposition of the Legislature to do something for the benefit of the State:

Be it resolved, That whereas the amount of means available to the board of public works is not sufficient to pay for all the works on the levees that it is absolutely needed to close crevasses that will not only injure the country, but also have the washing away of existing levees that it will be understood that whenever a planter or planter's agent, in writing, to furnish the board with the name of the crevasse, and the name of the owner, and the name of the engineer, and constructed, if necessary, at the said planter's expense, and that the board will join in a petition and recommendation to the Legislature at its next session, to refund to said planter all such amounts as may have been properly expended.

VERY NEWS.—The late eruptions of Mount Vesuvius in Italy, Mount Hecla in Iceland; the terrible earthquake at St. Pierre, and the volcanic eruptions ever since then, are all put into the shade the most terrible records found either in history or tradition. Even the proverbial "hot sulphur springs" are getting alarmed. Prof. Volcanic of New Haven, begins to consider the earth a very unsafe place to stay on any longer, from the fact that the late volcanic manifestations have been so general in their character that there is no longer any doubt about the theory that all the volcanic eruptions of the globe, and the common origin in the central liquid parts of our globe, where the most intense heat prevails. In comparison to this interior liquid mass the crust of the earth is very thin, and the heat of the interior is so intense that it is not surprising that eruptions are caused by water getting into that central fire, where, after having been converted into steam by the heat, it exerts a most energetic pressure, and, having been changed into steam, at any moment blowing the whole ball to pieces. In fact, he compares our earth to a huge steam-boiler under extra high pressure.

The fire in store for our poor mortals is, in accordance with our learned professor, the same as that which befell the inhabitants of the planet once existing between Mars and Jupiter. This planet, about fifty times larger than the earth, was from such a cause, it is thought, blown into several hundred pieces; or these ninety-seven have been discovered by astronomers; they are called asteroids. The smaller ones are thus far too small to be seen with the telescope.

To the People THE SOUTHERN STATES.

NEW YORK, NOV. 13, 1896.

When the pure medicinal restorative, now so widely known as Wolfe's Scleridam Schnapp, was introduced into the world under the indorsement of four thousand leading members of the medical profession some twenty years ago, its proprietor was well aware that it could not wholly escape the penalty attached to all new and useful preparations. He, therefore, endeavored to invest it with the strongest possible safeguard against counterfeiters, and to render all attempts to imitate it difficult and dangerous.

These satisfactory credentials from professional men of the highest rank were published in a condensed form, and inclosed with each bottle of Schnapp, as one of the guarantees of its genuineness. Other precautions against fraud were also adopted: a patent was obtained for the article, the label was copyrighted, a false simile of the proprietor's autograph signature was attached to each label and cover, his name and that of the preparation were embossed on the bottles, and the cork was sealed with his private seal. No article had ever been sold in this country under the name of Schnapp prior to the introduction of Wolfe's Scleridam Aromatic Schnapp, in 1871, and the label was deposited, as his trade mark, in the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York during that year.

It might be supposed by persons unacquainted with the daring character of the pirates who prey upon the reputation of honorable merchants by vending deleterious trash under their name, that the protection so carefully thrown around these Schnapps would have precluded the introductions and sale of counterfeit articles. They seem, however, only to have stimulated the rapacity of impostors. The trade mark of the proprietor has been stolen; the indorsement which his Scleridam Aromatic Schnapp bore from the medical profession has been claimed by mendacious humbugs; his labels and bottles have been imitated, his advertisements paraphrased, his circulars copied, and worse than all, dishonest retailers, after slipping off the genuine contents of his bottles, have filled them up with common junk, the most deleterious of all liquors, and thus made his name and brand a cover for poison.

The public, the medical profession and the sick, for whom the Scleridam Aromatic Schnapp is prescribed as a remedy, are equally interested with the proprietor in the detection and suppression of these nefarious practices. The genuine article, manufactured at the establishment of the undersigned, in Scleridam, Holland, is distinguished by a barley of the finest quality, and flavored with an essential extract of the berry of the Italian Juniper, of unequalled purity. By a process unknown in the preparation of any other liquor, it is freed from every acrid and corrosive element.

Complaints have been received from the leading physicians and families in the Southern States of the sale of cheap imitations of the Scleridam Aromatic Schnapp in three markets, and travelers who are in the habit of using it as an antidote to the baneful influence of unwholesome river water, testify that cheap junk, put up in Scleridam bottles, is frequently palmed off upon the unwary. The agents of the undersigned have been requested to institute inquiries on the subject, and to forward to him the names of such parties as they may ascertain to be engaged in the atrocious system of deception. In conclusion, the undersigned would say that he has no personal quarrel with the hands of the same distinguished men of science in America, whose unswerving of the purity and medicinal excellence of the Scleridam Aromatic Schnapp; that he has expended many thousands of dollars in spreading it with guarantees and safeguards, and that he designed should protect the public and himself against fraudulent imitations; that he has shown it to be the only liquor in the world that can be uniformly depended upon as unadulterated; that he has challenged investigation, analysis, comparison, and experiment in all its forms; and from every ordeal it has emerged with honor, and from every ordeal it has emerged with triumph. He, therefore, feels it a duty he owes to his fellow-citizens generally, to the medical profession and the sick, to denounce and expose the characters who counterfeit these evidences of his fidelity, and to call upon the press and the public to aid him in his efforts to remedy so great an evil.

The following letters and certificates from the leading physicians and chemists of this city will prove to the reader that all goods sold by the undersigned are all they are represented to be: UDOLPHO WOLFE.

I feel bound to say that I regard your Schnapp as being in every respect pre-eminently pure and devoid of medicinal properties. At all events, it is the purest possible article of Holland, and its medicinal qualities, and as such may be safely prescribed by physicians. DAVID L. MOTT, M. D., Physiological Chemist, New York.

55 FINE STREET, NEW YORK, Nov. 21, 1896. UDOLPHO WOLFE, Esq., Present: Your letter of the 19th inst. has been received, and I have made a chemical examination of a sample of your Scleridam Schnapp, with the intent of determining if any foreign or injurious substances had been added to the simple distilled spirits. The examination has resulted in the conclusion that the sample contained no poisonous or harmful admixtures. I have been unable to discover any trace of the deleterious substances which are employed in the adulteration of liquors. I would not hesitate to recommend your Schnapp as an excellent and unobjectionable variety of liquor. Very respectfully yours, CHAS. A. SHELLEY, Chemist.

NEW YORK, 23rd CANAL STREET, Nov. 20, 1896. UDOLPHO WOLFE, Esq., Present: Dear Sir—I have submitted to chemical analysis two bottles of "Scleridam Schnapp," which I took from a fresh package in your bonded warehouse, and find, as before, that the spirituous liquor is free from injurious impurities or adulteration; that it has the marks of being aged and well recently prepared by mechanical admixture of alcohol and aromatics. Respectfully, FRED. F. MAYER, Chemist.

UDOLPHO WOLFE, Esq., New York, Tuesday, May 1. Dear Sir—The want of pure Water and Liquors from medicinal purposes has been long felt by the profession, and thousands of lives have been sacrificed by the use of adulterated articles. Deliberate care, and other of some of the best and most reliable in this country, are very rare in Europe, owing, in a great degree, to the fact that the adulteration of liquors is a profitable trade. I have tested the same at a time imported and a lid by you, including you, which you will enter under the name of Scleridam Schnapp, which we consider justly entitled to the high reputation it has acquired in this country, and from your long experience may be a foreign importer, your Bottled Wines and Liquors should meet with the same demand. We would recommend you to appoint some of the respectable and business men of the city as agents for the sale of your Scleridam Schnapp, where the profession can obtain the same which would be for medicinal purposes. We remain your obedient servants, VALENTINE MOTT, M. D., Professor of Surgery, Tufts Medical College, New York. J. M. CORNOCHAN, M. D., Professor of Clinical Surgery, Surgeon-in-Chief to the State Hospital, etc., No. 14 E. 11th Street.
