The New Orleans Crescent. THURSDAY MORNING, DECEMBER 31, 1908. NORTHERN AND WESTERN NEWS. The lumber regions in the northern parts of Wisconsin are infested by mice as if a plague of Egypt had come upon the country.

Washington, C. B., who is talked about so much and so unfavorably, in connection with recent affairs in Paraguay, is of the Washburn family, next younger than Eliza and Cadwallader. He early left his home in Maine, and settled in California, where he became an editor. He was engaged in political and personal quarrels in early life, and fought one or more duels there—one with B. F. Washington, a Virginian, wherein he was severely wounded in the hip, and another with Austin Smith, a son of Extra Billy Smith, of Virginia. These wounds have annoyed him very much down to the present time. He is in his forty-eighth year.

There is a family of five persons in New York who have three or four grown-up children to live in, and sixteen servants to wait on them. The house is no larger in the city, "owing to their houses being too small to accommodate the necessary servants."

A Salt Lake telegram says the Central Pacific railroad reached 471 miles east of Sacramento, on the 27th.

The Supreme Court of Massachusetts has decided that the enactment of the liquor license law last winter did not repeal the law known as the "liquor nuisance act," or the 6th section of the 8th chapter of the general statutes, which is as follows: All buildings, places, or tenements used for the production, sale, or possession of illegal liquors, shall be deemed common nuisances.

Forty thousand copies of the post-office battery lavished upon David Stevens, in Congress, the other day, are to be printed at the public cost.

General Sully sent a detachment of cavalry from Fort Harker on the 26th inst., to scour the upper valleys of the Solomon, Republican and Red rivers in Kansas, it being reported that the Indians have recently been in that region.

It seems that the hostility of Mr. James Fisk, Jr., to the law was not only motive, but was the cause of his extraordinary and outrageous arrest on Tuesday night, but that political malignity and partisan animosity also had a share in the discreditable transaction.

It is a curious case in which Mrs. Mary Greene, late of Topsham, on the ground that it was under the control of the spirit of Mrs. Green's deceased husband. A large number of communications, said to have been received from the spirit world, have been put into circulation.
