House Puts the Silver Fight Behind It, Only to Begin Another Bitter Fight.

WATCHDOG HOLMAN

Thinks the House Has Been Unusually Industrious.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—[Special.]—The acrimony engendered by the debate on silver and heightened by the prolonged delay on the contested election cases has had time to abate, and the acrimony which is to rise over the new silver bill, the agricultural bills and the measures reported by the committee on foreign affairs has not yet begun.

It is freely admitted by men of all parties that the relations of the government and the Indians are now as nearly satisfactory as in the nature of things they can ever become; that the true policy has been adopted, if there is a trustee policy, and that the management of Indian affairs is as free from fraud and scandal as at any time in our history.

Work for the House. This congress has now sat for six months, and the veteran Holman thinks it has done (at any rate, the House) about as much work as any in which he has acted.

The silver measure introduced by Mr. Meyer of Louisiana provides for the issue of $20 bonds at 3 per cent, redeemable at the end of five years, but even this much of a concession to the president's views is not favored by the free silver members.

The silver question. The silver measure introduced by Mr. Meyer of Louisiana provides for the issue of $20 bonds at 3 per cent, redeemable at the end of five years, but even this much of a concession to the president's views is not favored by the free silver members.

Cullerson on the Breckinridge Case. The Pollard-Breckinridge case had fairly worn out the interest of congressmen before it ended, and even the lawyers paid little attention to the legal points involved.

It is remarked as a singular fact that in the entire house there is but one member who is confident of Mr. Breckinridge's election, and he, strange to relate, is Judge Cullerson, chairman of the judiciary committee. He says: "The present onslaught on the colonel will be followed by a reaction. They will show that the money to run this girl's case was subscribed in New England (I am told by a man who ought to know this a rich Yankee woman sent $5,000 and telegraphed that if that was not enough to draw on her for more), and they will make a hurrah all over that district that a conspiracy was got up to ruin a gallant gentleman and soldier, a Kentucky orator who had been guilty of a grave offense, it is true, but who had tried every honorable means to atone for it without a public scandal. It is a plain case that that girl has had powerful backing, and they will make it out a regular Yankee persecution."

The Rank and File Know the True Issues.

To the Editor of the State Journal. DEAR SIR—Under the caption of "What is being said about the candidates" in the Capital we find there is manifest unfairness as to Mr. Hoch's candidacy, professedly being given to the republicans, while we of the rank and file who will do the voting, know the sentiment today in the state is by a large majority in favor of the Republican party following the lines as set forth by Hoch. We have nothing derogatory to say of Maj. Hoch's character, but we do have something against the political leeches that immediately begin to fasten on to his political body, many of whom, since Hoch's announcement, have loosened their holds and scampered away, only biding their time to again catch hold.

J. S. COXEY'S COUSIN.

The Celebrated Crank's Near Relative in Topeka Today.

HE TELLS INTERESTING THINGS About the Character of His New Famous Relation—Says Coxeys is Worth $250,000.

A cousin of J. S. Coxeys, the commander of the Commonwealth army, is in Topeka today, in the person of W. D. Coxeys, the press agent of Ringling Brothers' circus which will show here next month.

Mr. Coxeys is a pleasant gentleman with light gray eyes, a smooth face and good clothing. He has more the appearance of a minister than a near-relative to a famous crank. He talked entertainingly about his notorious relative.

"Our relation as I understand it, is that my grandfather and Coxeys' father were brothers. He is my father's first cousin. I know him and he has visited at my house in Massillon a great many times, but the last time was two years ago.

"Our family is an old English one and our characteristic has been conservatism. They have all been strict hard-shell Baptists, and Jerry, I think, has never known in our whole list of relatives. I really do not know what to think of his Commonwealth idea. It is visionary and can result in no good, and there is no telling how much bad may come from it. Kelly is a very able man, and he has been connected in any way with Coxeys' army, but if they all get there, even a few thousand of them, the results are liable to be disastrous. The prisons are not big enough to hold them, and the men will steal before they will starve.

"I asked Jerry's sister who lives in Philadelphia a few days ago what she thought of her brother's commonwealth idea, and she said, 'I think she has wheels.' He is the most remarkable member of our family. He had been associated with his father in business but a few years ago they had a quarrel and Jerry is now running the business alone. Carl Coxeys, Jerry's 15-year-old boy, is with him, and he is a very bright young fellow but passionately fond of adventure. He ran away to sea when he was 14 years old. He looks on the commonwealth army as a huge joke and sees in it a chance to add one more adventure to his already big list.

"Jerry has a fine home in Massillon. He is worth not less than $250,000, although many papers refer to him as a poor horse-trader. He did own a big stock-farm in Kentucky, but he sold it over a year ago at a big profit. He has about 140 horses at Massillon, and some of these are fine animals. His home is not luxurious, but furnished much above the average of the locality, and it is suggestive of refined tastes. He has a nice wife and family, and personally he is temperate in all things, and does not use liquor in any form. He was divorced from his first wife, but I don't know anything about the particulars of the case, and I do not wish to say anything about that."

Press Agent Coxeys is the author of "Yon Yonson" and several other plays. He says that while all of his productions in this direction have been successful, he has not been able to make money out of any of them. Mr. Coxeys says his regular position when not with the circus, is doing desk work on the Chicago Evening Journal.

NEWS OF KANSAS.

Masons Figuring on Buying Garfield University

For Aged Masons, Masons' Orphans and Widows.

OTHER STATE NEWS.

Annual Meeting of the Keeley League.

WICHITA, April 14.—"Yes, there has been a committee of Masons representing a state board, here the past day or so looking up a site for a Masonic home for aged Masons, Masons' orphans and widows," said George L. Pratt to a Beacon reporter.

"Have they decided on Wichita as the place to locate it?" "Not yet," was the reply. "Yesterday afternoon the state grand master, grand secretary and several other prominent Knights Templar were here and were driven over to the Garfield university. The building was thoroughly examined. It is an immense place, said to be the largest school building in the country, being 200x230 feet, with an auditorium in the center that will seat 3,500 people comfortably, and has already cost $200,000.

An agent of Mr. Harding, the owner of the building, is here from Boston for the purpose of making a proposition soon. Other propositions from other people for land or buildings will be received and the board of trade will be asked to make a proposal. The order has $125,000 for immediate use and as much more as may be necessary.

"The board desires a central location with good railroad facilities, and of course there are other places that will compete for the prize. Just where it will go is as yet undecided."

There are only a half-dozen of these Masonic homes in the United States. From a Mason it was learned that a committee of seventeen will locate this home, and that eleven out of the number are prepossessed in Wichita's favor, everything else being equal. The local committeemen are Pratt, McCall and Torrington.

LEASED DONIPHAN LAKE.

Atchison Fishing and Hunting Club to Beautify It For Its Use.

ATCHISON, April 14.—The Fishing and Hunting club which received a charter last week has given up the idea of leasing the Pass and leased Doniphann lake instead. A strip of land 40 feet wide extending along the borders of the lake has been secured and the club is looking for more. Tip Young is president and George Bryning is secretary and treasurer. The lake, which is about a quarter of a mile wide and two and a half miles long, will be made an ideal sportman's lake. It will be stocked with game fish.

Next winter it is proposed to cut down large trees and lay them on the ice, which in the spring will make splendid fishing holes.

Boat will be put on the lake and it is said a small steamer will be run for the benefit of members.

There is an excellent beach of clear white sand extending out into the lake as far as one can wade, and the bathing is unequalled.

The club intends in the course of time to erect a club house.

Some of the most substantial business men in the city are projectors of the plan and it is bound to be a success. The lake is one of the most beautiful sheets of water in Kansas.

MISSOURI RISING RAPIDLY.

It Has Come Up Three Feet Already—No Fears for the Bridge.

LEAVENWORTH, April 14.—The big rise in the river at Sioux City is beginning to assert itself at this point. It is higher now than any time this year and is still rapidly coming up. It rose three feet in twelve hours. Much of the dike is under water and between it and the east approach to the bridge there is a small sea.

The freshet is not expected to give the bridge people any great amount of trouble. The east approach is very strong and firm. On the other hand it is believed the rise will be a benefit in the way of building up the bar above and below.

ACTUALLY STARVING.

A Prominent New York Man Dies in Sight of Food.

WHY COULD THIS BE SO!

It Is Clearly Explained, and the Fearful Danger That is Hanging Over Other People Fully Revealed.

"Thousands of men and women in New York and throughout the land are starving although they have plenty of money to buy the best of food!"

"These startling words were recently uttered by a prominent physician, whose residence, situated in one of the best parts of Fifth avenue, is daily thronged with fashionable patients. He made the above remarkable statement to a reporter in the course of an interview.

"I say," he continued, "that they are starving to death—slowly, but surely. But the pity of it is that few of them realize it. Most of them eat plenty of food, often live in luxury, but still they remain thin and emaciated, appear to be consumptive. Why is it, do you ask? It is simply because the food they eat does them no good. Their systems do not assimilate it, or extract the proper amount of nourishment from it. No wonder they grow weak, pale, thin and puny. In plain English, they are starving to death although they are eating."

"I know a prominent man that is a true case-forming food, the essence of nourishment, a pure starch food. It is known as Paskola.

"What do you advise such people to do, doctor?" the reporter asked.

"I will tell you what they ought to do and what they ought not to do. What their need is a flesh-former. Scientific investigators have proved that a pure starch food is the only flesh-former which builds up the system and is instantly assimilated by weakened digestive organs. Taking advantage of this fact one of the greatest scientists the world has ever known devoted a lifetime to experiment and research. He at last obtained a true flesh-forming food, the essence of nourishment, a pure starch food. It is known as Paskola.

"This wonderful preparation is taken during the meals just as it is put up. Its immediate effect is to enter the system, directly assimilate, and to effect a true assimilative process, which is certainly the result of the extraction of every particle of nourishment from the food eaten, added to that imparted by Paskola. Unlike the cod-liver oil emulsions and other rancid, fatty mixtures, it can be enjoyed by people who have the weakest stomachs."

"You don't approve of fats, then, doctor?"

"By no means. Their use for gaining flesh and strength is a relic of barbarism. They give neither strength, flesh nor warmth. Millions of men, women, and children, who remember the delusive hopes of recovery they were led to indulge in by the advertisements of these fat and oil compounds or emulsions, and how their hopes faded into bitter disappointment. How can anyone expect to get well and strong by taking such food, sickening doses of oils and fats?"

"I will tell you another remarkable thing about Paskola," remarked the physician. "It is artificially digested, so that it is absorbed at once. It requires no digestion when it enters the stomach. In this way Paskola imparts strength to the weak, and makes thin, fragile persons plump and robust. There never has been anything like it for promptly relieving exhaustion and tired feelings. People who take Paskola are advised to weigh themselves when they commence taking it, to observe the effect on the weight produced after a short time. They will find their weight has greatly increased and their general health vastly improved. The progress of science is indeed wonderful, and in no way have I been so impressed with this fact as by this great discovery, Paskola, which is certainly the grandest thing for weak, thin, debilitated people that was ever brought out. I urge everyone who needs more healthy flesh, more sound vigor and strength, to try Paskola, and they will be astonished and gratified at its wonderful effect upon them."

A pamphlet giving full particulars respecting Paskola will be sent on application to the Pre-Digested Food Co., 30 Rendes street, New York City.

He further states that he is now incapacitated by ill health for any kind of work as the result of this treatment; that he cannot live long; and that he still has an appetite for liquor.
