Unless some action was taken by this government such as was now before the senate this country, he said, would soon be the dumping ground for the anarchists of the world.

Mr. Hill pointed out the difficulty of dealing fairly with the question and the danger of doing injustice to the harmless anarchists while protecting ourselves against the danger of anarchists. He asked Mr. Hill whether the bill would apply to undesirable persons already in the country and Mr. Hill replied it would.

MILITARY SURGEONS.

They Are Preparing for a National Convention at Washington.

The Association of Military Surgeons of the United States, an organization of rapidly growing influence and importance, is to hold its annual convention in the city of Washington on May 1-3, and its meetings will be attended by a brilliant coterie of men whose studies and researches have been devoted to the relief of human suffering of the most acute kind. Some of the surgeons of the army, the navy and the marine hospital service are members of the association, and it is expected that President Cleveland, as commander in chief of the army and navy, will attend the opening meeting.

It was only three years ago that the association was formed, and its original scope was not so broad as that of today. It was organized in Chicago by about 50 surgeons of the national guard of various states, at the suggestion of Surgeon General Senn of Illinois. Its object was then stated to be "the advancement of military and accidental surgery and all things pertaining to the health and welfare of the civilian soldiers," and the words "national guard" were then part of its name. Surgeons of the regular army, navy and marine service were only admitted as honorary members under the original constitution, but at the annual convention held in Chicago last year the name and constitution were both changed so as to admit them to active membership.

Dr. Senn, the virtual founder of the association, was elected president at its first meeting and has been annually re-elected. He is professor of surgery in Rush Medical college in Chicago and the author of surgical literature of great value to the profession. He takes an especial interest in military surgery, and the military school at Washington was founded through his efforts. He discovered a method of ascertaining whether or not the intestines have been penetrated by a gunshot wound in the abdomen, which is a practical contribution to operative surgery of inestimable worth.

Dr. Senn was born in Switzerland in 1844. His parents settled in Wisconsin during his childhood, and his early education was received at Fond du Lac. He graduated at the Chicago Medical college in 1868 and afterward studied in Europe, where he has since become a recognized surgical authority. He was for many years the chief surgeon at the Milwaukee hospital, and Governor Peck appointed him surgeon general of the Wisconsin national guard. After his removal to Chicago, about four years ago, Governor Altgeld appointed him surgeon general of the national guard of Illinois, with the rank of colonel.

MONEY AND MUSIC.

Millionaire John H. Flagler to Wed a Beautiful New York Contralto.

It looks as if an epidemic of matrimony had broken out among metropolitan millionaires. The latest case is brought to light by the announcement of the engagement of John H. Flagler, one of New York's multimillionaires, to Miss Alice Mandelick, the charming contralto of the choir of the fashionable Episcopal Church of the Ascension in Fifth avenue. The disparity in the ages and fortunes of the prospective bride and groom lends an unusual hue of romance to their courtship, and Mr. Flagler has the proud satisfaction of having triumphed where more than one younger man has failed.

Miss Mandelick's beauty, cleverness and engaging personality, aided by the charm of her delightful voice, have made her the object of a great deal of attention, and she has had the choice of more than one eligible suitor. She is an unusually handsome young woman, of the southern type of beauty, with large brown eyes, and the contour and coloring of her face are of the sort that artists admire and vainly strive to depict. She is about 23 years of age, and during the past year has been a favorite singer at concerts and musicales in New York.

Mr. Flagler, who is a widower, is about 50 years old. He is a cousin of Henry M. Flagler, the Standard Oil magnate, but is not connected with that concern. He is practically out of business, though he still retains an interest in the National Tube company, of which he was formerly president. Mr. Flagler was the founder of that corporation and is said to have made several millions of dollars out of it. He was also at one time interested in and president of the American Cotton Oil company.

Mr. Flagler, who is an enthusiastic yachtsman, is commander of the American Yacht club and owns the steam yacht Isoline. He is a member of many other swell New York clubs and a director of the Metropolitan Museum of Art. His daughter and only child, the Baroness Harden-Hickey, is the wife of the Frenchman who is trying to establish an independent principality on the island of Tiro.

Blood Poisoned After Typhoid Fever

A Marvelous Cure by Hood's After All Else Failed.

Mrs. Phebe L. Hill.

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.: 'Dear Sirs: Twenty-five years ago I had a bilious fever, and later it turned into typhoid fever, and for five weeks I lay like one dead, but at last I pulled through and got up around. I soon discovered on my left leg just above the knee a small brown spot about as big as a three-cent piece, which puffed up but did not hurt me or feel sore. I did not pay any attention to it until two years after, when it commenced to spread and have the appearance of a ring worm. It itched and burned and I commenced doctoring, but to no avail. I

And sometimes not even that. I could not sleep nights, and on account of the itching I scratched the spot until the blood would run. In hot weather my elbows and all my joints were just the same, and what I have suffered I cannot describe with a pen. Last February I tried a herb for the blood and it broke out in the worst form of a rash all over my body. I began my scratching, and scales would fall off. The sores continued to discharge and I longed to die. Finally my husband bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla and I had not taken more than half of it before I began to change for the better. I have had four bottles.
