Are there any northern states which the Democrats can carry?

The Democratic party is dead again. This time, perhaps, permanently.

EVERY time the country tries the Democratic party it wishes it hadn't.

POPULISM has won in only one state Hi, Nebraska. You're it; you're it!

It doesn't pay to deceive the people. The Democratic party is finding this out.

New York people are not the kind that make a mountain out of a mole hill.

It is easily understood now why Mr. Hill was so reluctant to accept the nomination.

Look what Dr. Parkhurst did. Such is the power of moral principle and backbone.

If the Democrats have carried anything, will some obliging person please telegraph it in.

JOHN GROVER CLEVELAND sits serenely contemplating the wreck of his party. He did it all himself.

We have a new man in the race for the presidency this morning. It is Levi P. Morton of Rhinebeck-on-the-Hudson.

DEMOCRATS are now wondering where to go to. Into the Republican party, of course. Everybody else is crowding in.

CHARLIE ELLIOTT's pole of 5,100 for Shawnee county was a little large, but the Shawnee G. O. P. went a long way toward reaching it.

THEY may defeat David B. Hill but they can't get him out of office entirely. He always manages to hold one office and sometimes two.

THE attention of Gov. Lewelling is called to the market report which may prove reassuring, but is firm, if everything else did break loose.

THE Democratic party is not much worse than any other, but it is such a hoodoo. It always has such exasperatingly bad luck. Poor old party.

A REPUBLICAN has probably been elected in Breckinridge's district. In the average Kentuckian's opinion this is something far worse than the amative colonel ever did.

THIS was the time for the Democratic teeter board to go down and the Republican end to go up; but it looks as if the Democratic party had been bounced clear off the board.

IN the dark hour just before this morning's dawn, a gray whiskered old man was seen trudging along hurriedly in the direction of a hardware store leading a cow. It was supposed to be Secretary Osborn after a Winchester.

ANOTHER bubble has burst. It is the one in Louisiana. The sugar planters all turned Republican and one southern state at least was to be taken out of the Democratic column, but last night Senator Blanchard wired to Washington the same old message which has done duty these many years: "Louisiana elects a solid Democratic delegation to congress."

THE RATIFICATION.

The Shawnee Republicans will celebrate Friday Night or Monday.

A big Republican ratification, one that will make that of last Saturday sink into insignificance, will be held by the Shawnee county Republicans either Friday or Monday night. The county central committee has not yet agreed upon the date, but it will probably not be Saturday as it generally extends far into Sunday morning. The ratification will be made one worthy of the victory. Those who don't like tin horns will have to leave town for one night.

IN WISCONSIN.

ANTIGO, Wis., Nov. 7.—This city gives for governor Uppham, Republican, 471.

SHEBOYGAN, Wis., Nov. 7.—Governor—Peck, Democratic, 1,212; Uppham, Republican, 1,211; Powell, Populist, 836. Populist gain 563, Democratic loss 1,269; Republican loss 143. Congressman Stewart, Republican, 599; Lynch, Democrat, 420; assemblyman, Laite, Republican, 529; McGovern, Democrat, 590.

OSHTO, Wis., Nov. 7.—For governor, Uppham, 541; Peck, 508; Republican gain 143. Congressman, assemblyman and entire county ticket elected.

MANITOWAC, Wis., Nov. 7.—Manitowac county will give Peck for governor 500 majority, and Wells, Democrat, for congress, 300 majority.

CLAIMS THE NEXT SENATE.

Chairman Babcock Thinks Republicans Will Organize the Next Senate.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Chairman Babcock, of the Republican congressional committee, claims that the Republicans will organize the next United States senate. While the returns are incomplete his information is the Tennessee legislature is Republican and will send a member of that party to succeed Mr. Harris.

A dispatch from Chairman Holton, of the North Carolina state committee, and Congressman Settle says: "We have carried the state if we can hold it."

SUSAN B. COMMENTS.

Gives Up the Fight and Leaves the State.

MRS. DIGGS HOPING A LITTLE.

Miss Anthony Says Equal Suffrage Can't Win Outside of Party Lines.

When a woman will she will and one of them was never known to give up anything after she had once undertaken it.

Mrs. Annie L. Diggs, Mrs. Carrie L. C. Catt and Miss Susan B. Anthony were all in Topeka during the time of the election and the three of them made a merry and distinguished party at the home of Mrs. Henry Hull at 216 West Eighth street.

A JOURNAL reporter found them all in the parlor there today quietly talking over the election, and still hopeful and determined.

"Well," said Miss Anthony, as the reporter entered the room, "do you want me to say we are thankful to you Republicans for the noble way in which you came to our aid? Put that down."

"We are," said Mrs. Diggs, "you know the entire state has not yet been heard from. We will admit that the news we have received is not encouraging, but we have great hopes of the country precincts."

"We will never give up till the very last vote is counted," declared Mrs. Catt. "The hope has been very much to give up easily. We have made the best fight we could, and if suffrage has not carried it is not our fault."

"We do not feel that the time has been lost, however," added Mrs. Diggs. "It has been an educational and progressive campaign so far as suffrage is concerned, and we have nothing to regret in our work. We depended on the laboring men and it seems they have forsaken us. If they have done that, they have refused to aid the best friends they have, and they will find it out, too."

"If you think we have given up the fight you are very much mistaken. We have gone into it to win, and we will work for it unceasingly until we do win. We will begin our next campaign immediately."

Mrs. Catt here nodded her head approvingly.

"I shall not be very much disappointed," said Miss Anthony, "because I have never at any time during the campaign allowed myself to expect too much. There is a chance that we have not lost, perhaps, but I am not very hopeful."

"The only thing for the Republicans to do now to sustain their reputation for truthfulness is to come out openly for us. They have said all through the campaign that they did not refuse to put it in their platform because they hated it. And now the right thing for Major Morrill to do, if he is elected, is to endorse it in his inaugural address and his first message to the legislature. Let him recommend that the amendment be voted on again and that the Republican party come to the aid of the noble women of Kansas."

"I have always known that no issue could win in any election outside of party lines."

"Suffrage in Kansas for this time was killed last June and the Republicans drove the last nail in its coffin. They refused to put it in their platform at Topeka then. We are simply holding the funeral now."

"But the resurrection, Miss Anthony," interposed Mrs. Diggs.

"Oh, certainly, there will be a resurrection. Two years from now we hope to have the Republicans on our side and then there will be a change."

Mrs. Diggs, Populist, sat silent.

Miss Anthony was compelled to leave to catch a train at this interesting point, and she took an affectionate farewell of her sisters in apparent defeat, but unflinching and undeterred.

"I am going to Beatrice, Neb.," she said, "where I will speak tonight before the annual state suffrage convention. After that I will go to Leavenworth for a day or two and then to Chicago to visit a short time in company with Mrs. Catt before I return to New York, where they have treated us as badly as they have here. I shall be back here sometime."

"I see it was stated in the press dispatches last night," said Mrs. Diggs, "that I had declared the suffrage amendment carried by 25,000 majority. I wish you would say that I have never for one moment said such a thing. In my most sanguine moments I have never thought we could possibly have a majority of over 6,000."

"I think," said Mrs. Catt, "that the new ballot is against us. There are still probably a good many voters who do not understand exactly how to vote it and probably a good many who neglected to look below the list of names for anything else."

"Our attention," continued Mrs. Diggs, "must now be turned, for the present, to other states. There will be three of them to look out for next year. They are Utah, Nevada and North Dakota, and we shall make a thorough fight in each of them. We shall also go into the south next time."

Mrs. Diggs will remain in Topeka till Monday at least, and if the amendment is really defeated she will stay till after the state suffrage convention, the date and place of which has not yet been decided on. After that she will go to Washington, D. C., to spend the winter.

Mrs. Catt will leave Topeka this afternoon, and will soon go to Chicago for the visit she and Miss Anthony are to make a friend there.

DAVID OVERMYER TALKS.

He Says Populism Has Been Annihilated.

David Overmyer, the Democratic candidate for governor, is satisfied with the election in Kansas so far as heard from. He said to a JOURNAL reporter today: "I did not anticipate such a light vote, but the vote is easily explained. The Democratic vote would have been one-third larger had it not been for the Martin defection, and one-third of the vote was thus taken away from us which alarmed the conservative Democrats who voted the Republican ticket in preference to seeing the Populists succeed."

"The Democrats who remained true have a feeling of perfect security. They did their duty. They fought the good fight, they kept the faith. Our organization is intact. We know the sheep from the goats."

"Then our organization defeated woman suffrage which is an abomination and a curse, and the same power will ul-
