NO. 625 KANSAS AVE.

POPULISM IS ALIVE.

Says Gov. Lewelling Who Returned to Town Today.

HE HAS NO PERSONAL REGRETS.

Says He Makes More Money Out of His Business Than the Governor's Salary Pays.

Gov. Lewelling returned this morning from Wichita where he has been since the day before the election. He seems in good spirits and said he felt extremely well except for a slight hoarseness.

"Of course I have regrets," said he in speaking of the election, "that it did not go the other way, but I am satisfied that the result was not the fault of the party or administration. Personally, I am the gainer by the defeat, because no poor man has any business in the office of governor. I wish the party had won because I feel sure that it would hasten the reforms that are bound to come—that must come."

"The result of the election in Kansas as well as elsewhere in the country is due to the general unrest. The people are dissatisfied with the existing conditions which could not be made worse and the people voted against the party in power. It was a rebuke to the Democratic party which came into power and which instead of redeeming its pledges continued the evils which the Republican party had fastened on the country.

"If the Democratic party had stayed with the Populists the ticket would have been elected by about the same plurality as in 1892. I am satisfied that the Populists have made inroads into the ranks of the Republicans and if the labor vote had supported the Populist ticket it would have been elected notwithstanding the defection of the Democratic vote. The Populist party will still be in politics in Kansas elsewhere in the country. This is proved by the large gains made outside of Kansas.

"It may be expected, now that the Populists have been defeated in Kansas, that the party will lose some of its adherents, but the fighting men of the organization will remain and keep up a warfare upon monopoly and Wall street and will ultimately restore the party to its original strength."

"Then you do not think that the Populist party will go to pieces?"
"It is nonsense to think that the Populist party will go to pieces and its forces drift back into the Republican and Democratic parties as it has sprung from the honest masses of the country for the purpose of breaking up the rule of those two parties forever."

"The Silver party which has sprung up in the mountain states cannot succeed on the one issue and if it gets aid from the Populists it must adopt some Populist principles.

"The object of the Populist party is not to put individuals into office, but to emancipate the people and it is not particular how it gets results so long as it gets them."

Speaking of himself the governor said that it has been said that the result of the election was rebuke to the administration. He denies this and claims that an analysis of the vote will show that though he was the chief object of the slanderous attacks, that he ran about 6,000 votes ahead of the ticket.

Referring to his own future he said that he will go back to his butter and egg business at Wichita. "For," said he, "it will make me about $3,000 a year, and that is better than the governor's salary, so I have no regrets from a financial point of view, though I was very anxious for party success."

GOING TO KANSAS CITY.

Secretary Osborn Will Remove There and Enter Business.

Secretary of State R. S. Osborn says he is going out of politics and will engage in business with headquarters in Kansas City. He says his family will remain in Topeka for several months, but his new business will compel him to make his headquarters in Kansas City from where he will travel in the southern states in the winter and in the northern states in the summer.

Speaking of his retirement from the political world Secretary Osborn said: "I am done with politics, done with public life. It is a thankless mission, and now that I am alone in years and have almost outlived my usefulness, I will devote my leisure to moderate money getting, if it be in me, and contentedly await the end of all flesh. I have not lost faith in the reform in which I have been engaged and in which I am still so much interested, for the emancipation of men and women is sure to come. But I confess that I have no part in the action of the people last Tuesday."

"It is proof that the great common masses must be ground down by the iron heel of the monopolies of the country and made slaves of by the money power before they will rise in the majesty of their strength and rights and throw off the shackles which have been put upon their backs for a quarter of a century, pleading with the people to save themselves, to rebel against the rule of corporations and money, to stand out as masters and not slaves; but, blind to their fate, they continue to submit to the rule of greed."

"Last Wednesday morning, when I read the election returns, unbidden came to my mind the scriptural thought, 'The ox knoweth his owner, and the ass his master's crib.' Under existing conditions there are but two paths open for the human kind: To be paupers or to be millionaires. The latter is almost closed. The wealth of the world is so nearly absorbed by a few that there is absolutely no hope for the toiling masses except in the ballot box, and if they neglect that much longer it, too, will be gone."

MISSED THE OPPORTUNITY.

J. Ellen Foster Made the Republican Men Made a Mistake.

J. Ellen Foster is in Topeka accompanied by her husband, Judge Foster, and they will remain in Topeka until Wednesday. At Newton Mrs. Foster was asked what she thought of the defeat of the suffrage amendment. She said:

"I haven't a word to say. I am too disappointed to say anything. You may quote me as saying that the men of Kansas did not know the day of their opportunity when they defeated the amendment."

"You may say right there for me," joined in the judge, "that it was the affliction of the suffrage amendment with the Populist party that defeated it."

"That shouldn't make any difference," replied Mrs. Foster. "The man that wouldn't vote for suffrage for the sake of principle hasn't the courage of his convictions. It may be defeated now, but it will triumph in the end. Why, the women saved Colorado last Tuesday. Governor Waite himself says that the reason he was defeated was because the women voted against him."

THINGS WOMEN SAY

Which They Ought Not to When They Talk Politics.

Some very ill-bred people come from Boston. At a recent party in this city, the wife of one of the state officials was present. Also a visiting lady from Boston.

The conversation drifted to political matters. The wife of the Populist official made some remarks which induced the Boston woman to raise her eyebrows and exclaim:

"Why, you must be a Populist."

"Why, yes, I am," replied the Topeka woman.

"Indeed," responded the Bostoness, looking her from head to foot, with unmannerly curiosity. "Why, I never saw one before." The Topeka woman turned slightly red, but said nothing. She might have retorted that Edward Bellamy, who is largely responsible for the whole Populist movement, lives in Boston.

HE IS A GOOD CATHOLIC.

"Charley's Aunt" Went to Church Several Times on Sunday.

The Charles Frohman company that was at the Grand Saturday night in "Charley's Aunt" was greeted by a good audience and those who saw it were well pleased. The audience was delighted with the piece and the work. John D. Murphy, as the bogus aunt, is the most pleasing actor of his kind that has visited Topeka this winter. Richard Bennett, who took the part of Jack Chesney, was good in it. The support generally was good.

The "Charley's Aunt" company is not only good on the stage, but off the stage as well. Its members religiously attended the various churches yesterday both morning and evening. The young Mr. Murphy who pleased the audience so much as the bogus aunt is a Catholic and observed Sunday strictly, attending all the services at the church of the Assumption. Mr. Murphy is a very pleasing young man, and is very much to be credited to his good sense and modesty, but has been engaged with some good companies in ordinary parts. This is the first time he has been advanced to the first part in a piece, and it looks very much as though he will make a success of it. The other members of the company are very nice people also. Richard C. Bennett, who played Jack Chesney, does not look to be more than twenty, although he is really twenty-five. He is also the stage manager. He and Ernest Lawson, the Spettigue, are football enthusiasts, and were spectators at the game in Topeka on Saturday night.

Charles Frohman who has twelve plays like this one on the road, is the youngest of the three Frohman brothers and began life as a newspaper reporter. He did not like the work and concluded he had rather be a theatrical manager like his brother. They help him and he finally got a start and put a show or two on the road himself. He has considerably more than thirty companies on the road with his twelve plays and they are all good companies and money makers. He has grown rich in the business although he has only been in it for thirty-eight years. There is another peculiar thing about Charles Frohman—peculiar for a showman, though he may have acquired it while in the newspaper business—and that is his extreme modesty. He has never had a picture taken of him and he never goes to print. He is rather short and plump and rather red faced and a little bald and wears a mustache that is a little gray and that's about all you can say about his appearance.

Theater goers are always interested in the theater and there was one in the box office of the Grand Saturday night. If you were there you will remember that the curtain was unusually slow in going up on the third act. The company and the house were settling up in the box office and there was some dispute in regard to the billing of the town. The play was held until the matter was settled. The house finally won the quarrel and the curtain went up.

The "Charley's Aunt" company plays at Manhattan tonight where it gets a guaranty. It will then head westward and be on the coast in a couple of weeks.

WAGES CUT 10 PER CENT.

Employees in a Milwaukee Factory Must Take Less.

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 12.—The employees of the trunk factory of Abel & Bach were much surprised this morning when their wages were cut from 5 to 10 per cent.

Mr. Bach admitted that his firm had reduced wages in spite of the advent of good times. Mr. Bach said that he was glad the Republicans were successful, but nevertheless he had reduced wages. "We are forced to do it because of a lack of work this winter," said Mr. Bach, "on account of a lack of work last summer or this fall."

Mr. Bach said the business was good all last summer and had been good during the early fall. "We ran the factory eleven hours a day," Mr. Bach said, "to fill orders and keep up with the demand."

If a Grocer Tells YOU or advertises that his canned fruits are all of the crop of '94 you may know he is a chump—or thinks you are. For several reasons: First, all good fruit canned in good syrup is better the second year than the first, just like old wine. Any honest groceryman who knows his business will tell you so if you don't already know it.

Secondly, last year's fruit the entire country over was much superior to fruit grown in '91.

Thirdly, you all know no groceryman sold all his last year's canned goods before this year's crop came in.

We are selling a high grade of canned goods at actual cost, because we are trying to get out of business.

THE CITY PAYS $12,000.

The Judiciary Committee Will Pay Decker, Mullins & Berry Material Claims.

The judiciary committee of the city council have decided to pay the "material claims" due to local and foreign firms from Decker, Mullins & Berry, on the construction of sewers 11 and 12. These claims amounted originally to more than $20,000, but some of them have been settled from time to time, leaving only about $12,000 due.

The claims which will be settled tonight will not be unconditionally paid. The amount of the respective claims will be advanced in order that the creditors may have the advantage of the use of their money, but in each case an assignment will be taken from the claimant for the amount against Decker, Mullins & Berry.

The large claims which will be settled tonight are:

The Laclede Fire Brick company of St. Louis, $7,000.

The Topeka Press Brick company, $1,500.

H. J. Adams, trustee for the Topeka Brick company, $1,100.

A. A. Feen of Leavenworth, $1,100.

These claims were due and should have been paid in 1893, over five years ago. There is no dispute that the claims are just, but the city has not felt at liberty to pay them until the courts had decided that point. Since Judge Benson has held that the material claimants have a lien on the city's sewer fund, it is believed that the council is doing a worthy act in settling the claims on the conditions named. In case that by and chance the courts should reverse its decision on this point and decide the claims are unjust, the assignment which the city holds against the contractors will insure the city from possible loss.

A Sedative.

A nervous little woman on entering a railway carriage caught sight of a passenger with a gun.

"Your gun isn't loaded, I hope, sir?"

Sportsman (facetiously)—"On the contrary, madam, but that makes no matter, I will insert a cork, and there will be no danger."

The lady was immediately pacified.—Epheuro Comique.

WHAT FOR THE POOR?

The Secretary of the Associated Charities Proposes Macadamizing the Streets.

Walter L. Ross, secretary of the Associated Charities writes lengthily to the JOURNAL, outlining his ideas as to what should be done for the poor of Topeka. He says:

"The question of how to take care of the poor and unemployed of Topeka during the present winter, in such a manner as to make the burden as light as possible upon the general public, while providing effectually against actual suffering by any person willing to render honest labor for his just share of the common bounties of the earth, and at the same time not foster a spirit of contented dependence on the part of the naturally indolent, is the most serious, and most deserving of thoughtful consideration of any that now confronts us."

Secretary Ross continues:

"The solution of the question is so simple there can be no excuse that it should remain unsolved another week.

"It presents itself, first, in the impaired streets of the western and wealthy portions of the city, which, during a great portion of the season, become an almost impassable quagmire to the fire department, in reaching a fire, and to the citizens, in driving to and from their homes.

"Second—In the abundance of rock at the county quarry, and the destitute unemployed labor of the city, sufficient to prepare it for use.

"Third—The association which is now being thoroughly organized upon a basis to most effectually utilize the first two conditions in such a manner as to be of incalculable value to the city and to every individual interest concerned.

"In a word, let one or more of the central thoroughfares be macadamized by public subscription; property owners along thereto contributing in proportion to the direct benefits which will naturally accrue, and the general public giving all that they feel they can, to a good cause; the fund placed in the hands of the Associated Charities and expended in the employment in this work of those who must otherwise be supported by public aid.

"Contributions to such a fund, if dispensed through the association, need not all be in cash, as no payment for labor would be made except in the form of the actual necessities of life; a dollar's worth of corn meal, flour, salt pork, etc., paying for a dollar's worth of labor, and so being a bodied applicant to the association could obtain more than he honestly worked for, thus obviating the great evils incident to ordinary charity work.

"Then let the vagrancy ordinance be rigidly enforced against all who will not avail themselves of this opportunity to work for their food, and with no more outlay or trouble than must be expended if the old plan be adhered to, and Topeka will have solved what has been a vexed question and self-perpetuating evil.

"This is not submitted as a theory but as a direct proposition to the people of Topeka, and a prompt response for or against it is solicited from every individual interested."
