Quite by accident, two Topeka girls have duplicate frocks this winter. They have been charged with owing one frock in for a fortnight and when turns wearing it but they discovered the charge recently by appearing in public each in her own gown.

Miss Maude Grimes gave a luncheon at the Topeka club today for Miss Gay Shepard of Kansas City who has been invited here for a fortnight. The others asked were Miss Eva Smith, Miss Isabel Smith, Miss Helen McClintock, Miss Edna Horst, Miss Jeannette Ware, Miss Dorothy Wilson and Miss Nellie Millsapugh. Red roses and red candles with red shades decorated the table. Miss Shepard leaves tonight for her home.

When a girl is about to entertain an out of town girl who is exceedingly tall she begins to be very polite to all the tall men she knows, for every tall girl hates to be seen about with a man shorter than herself. One visiting girl who comes here frequently and who is unusually tall says that the only fault she can find with Topeka is that there are so few men as tall as she.

The Ladies' Music club which is in charge of the local contributions to the fund for the American composer, Edward MacDowell, who is incurably ill with a mental malady, the result of years of overwork both in teaching and composition, has requested contributions from all the music clubs of Topeka and is pressing all the music teachers, vocal and instrumental, into service as assistants. It is expected that every music student in town will contribute to the fund. Many of them have already done so, as well as others who realize the importance of Mr. MacDowell's work for American music. It is needless to say that any one who wishes to give something toward this fund for the honor of Topeka, which with its many music teachers and students ought to contribute generously, will be more than welcome to do so. Any member of the Ladies' Music club will receive contributions. The officers are Miss Ellen Parkhurst, president, Mrs. Frank P. MacLennan, vice president, Mrs. S. J. Hodgins, treasurer and Miss Gertrude Tracy, secretary.

Mr. E. L. Copeland entertained the women employees of the treasurer's office of the Santa Fe at a supper at the Topeka club last night.

They make up of the S. R.'s because they publish so many trivial happenings. Still no S. R. considers at a "society item" when one man asks another to dinner, but the political reporter can get a top head on such an event, and make a story of the fact that Representative So-and-So of Somewhere was the guest of somebody at luncheon at the Blank club.

A nine year old boy who was a defeated candidate for a job as page in the house, returned to his regular business of selling popcorn and newspapers this morning. "I'm out of politics for good," he announced.

Leavenworth Post Invitations have been received from Mr. and Mrs. Guerdon Groves Parry of St. Joseph for the wedding reception of their daughter, Louise Ely, and Mr. Edward Andrew McGonigle, on the evening of Saturday, the 26th of January, at half after 6 o'clock. Cards are enclosed for the ceremony at 10 o'clock. Mr. McGonigle, Jr. will act as his brother's best man. Mr. McGonigle and his bride will take an extended wedding trip, which will include a month at Jamaica, and upon their return will be at home in the McGonigle cottage on Osage street.

Mrs. H. O. Garvey's paper, "The Man With the Flag," was one of the features of last evening's session of the annual meeting of the state association of agriculturists. Mrs. Garvey is in her happiest vein when speaking on a patriotic topic and patriotism is a note always emphasized in whatever she says or writes. "The Man With the Flag," that is the man with ideals, inspirations, convictions and the courage of them, in contradiction to the "Man With the Hoe," the mere plodder who never sees the light that "never was over land or sea," was the theme of Mrs. Garvey's theme and the highest of Mrs. Garvey's theme and the highest of especially brilliant eulogy of the "grand old flag."

The regular monthly meeting of the Kansas Authors' club was held last Wednesday evening at the home of Senator and Mrs. George P. Morgan on West Eighth street. The exercises were of a very interesting character and of a different tenor than the usual programme. The feature of the evening was a song and anecdote with the immortal Irish poet, Thomas Moore. Discussion of his life and works was interspersed with the song. A February meeting will be held at the same place and the annual banquet for this year will be held late in February. The next meeting of the Kansas Authors' club will be held on Friday evening at the home of Mrs. J. E. O'Hellus of Potwin Place on a dinner Thursday evening. Covers were laid for: Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Maddox, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Smith, Miss Nora, Miss Mildred Smith and Mr. Ralph Smith.

The Junior class of H. S. will have a party this evening at the home of Miss Hazel Grimes.

Clay Center District Miss Lena McKee entertained a few friends at dinner Tuesday in honor of Mr. Carruth of Topeka, first violin of the Steinberg orchestra. Mr. Carruth and Miss McKee were classmates in the Kansas university some years ago. After dinner the guest of honor played several beautiful pieces on a violin, among them the Traumerli, the Cavaleria Rusticana and the Miserere from Il Trovatore.

DANCING SCHOOL OR PARTY FROCK FOR SMALL GIRL.

The new idea of using sheer tucked bands of light-colored mull or organdie between rows of lace insertion as trimming for a white frock is shown in the little girl's dress here sketched. The model frock was of white wash chiffon, and was made with a square Dutch neck, below which was a wide cape collar of the wash chiffon and lace. The cape was edged with a two-inch ruffle of fine Valenciennes, above which were two rows of inch-wide insertion to match. Between these two rows of insertion about the edge of the collar, on the bottom of the skirt and around the neck were inserted tucked strips of pale blue wash chiffon, finely tucked. The little frock was tied about the waist with a pale blue ribbon sash, and the bottom of the skirt was finished by a ruffle of the two-inch edging lace.

BLOUSE OF TAFETA.

The illustration shows a smart blouse of chiffon taffeta, the model being in cream white, with a row of inset pieces of light blue velvet. The silk was laid in tucks on each side from the shoulders back and front, the edges of the silk outlining the rounded yoke in the back, and the tabbed fronts, being scalloped and embroidered in cream white silk. The vest and little back yoke were of the same allover lace, the upper part of the vest being finely tucked by hand. The ends of the scarfs in front were finished by silk tassels to match.
