Largest Steam Engine in the World

The 25,000 H. P. rolling mill engine installed in the Sharon, Pa., plant of the Carnegie Steel company, is the largest steam engine in the world and weighs 250 tons without foundation plates and flywheel. It is a horizontal twin-tandem engine, with one cylinder 42 inches in diameter and the other 70 inches in diameter. It operates at a speed of from 150 to 200 revolutions per minute.

Being used to operate the rolls in a steel mill, it has to be quickly reversed at the end of each run, and for this purpose the reversing mechanism is run by a small independent engine. Another small engine is used in operating the steam throttle valves, all of these units being under the control of the one engineer.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 2.—After an unbroken sleep for a period of 85 days Mrs. Beulah Hawkins, a patient at the county hospital awakened early today and asked for a drink of milk. Her return to consciousness was entirely unexpected and came several hours after she had been taken from the clinic room, where she was subjected to observation by members of the County Medical society. She was able to stand and had full control of all her faculties, although still weak.

BURTON LOOKS ON

Ex-Senator Greatly Interested in Tucker Case.

Has Had Frequent Conferences With Accused.

HOLD NIGHT SESSIONS

Case Will Be Rushed by the U. S. Court.

General Manager James A. Fleming Testifies.

J. R. Burton, who was formerly United States senator, but now editor of the Salina Union, has been in two night conferences with H. H. Tucker, Jr., of Uncle Sam Oil fame, presumably giving him advice and counsel. Whether Burton is being paid for his services is a matter of speculation. Tucker says that he has but one attorney, Albert Wilson, the man who is defending him in the present proceedings.

It is definitely known that Burton has been a very much interested spectator of the trial which has been on and that he has taken up the defense of Tucker in the editorial columns of his paper and also that he has conferred with Tucker at the Throop hotel where Tucker is stopping. Burton registered at both the Glenwood and the Throop while here, leaving the city from the latter hotel this morning. "I am after the grafters and he is one of them," said Tucker evasively answering the query of whether Burton had been talking with him about the present trial.

"Do you think so?" "Well, he has been training with these other fellows," said Tucker, intimating that Burton had his associates or former associates the men who are back of Tucker's present prosecution.

Even since his indictment and his consequent imprisonment at Ironton, Mo., Burton has felt very bitterly towards a number of federal judges and the present administration. In fact he has been embittered towards the entire federal judicial system. His personal feelings have therefore probably induced him to warmly champion Tucker in the latter's fight in the United States courts.

Night sessions of the court will be held from now on in addition to the day sessions in the morning and afternoon in order to rush the case to a conclusion as much as possible. Judge Amidon stated today that he had other engagements which would call him away about the middle of the next week. It would be necessary therefore for the jury to sit at from 8 o'clock until 10 o'clock every evening in order that the evidence might be all presented by the middle of next week.

James F. Fleming, general manager of the Uncle Sam Oil company, under the trusteeship of the court, said that the Uncle Sam Oil company can make money, barrels of it, that is if the three refineries at Tulsa, Okla., Atchison and Cherryvale, Kansas were running the whole year round at full capacity, refining 1,500 barrels daily the profits to the company net would be $245,000 yearly. He based these figures on what he figured was the profits from the Cherryvale refinery for five months running from November of last year to April of this and which he believed to be $10,000, this with a production of about one-third of the daily capacity. However Fleming's figures were based on a steady market for all of the products of the refineries and did not take in consideration any difficulty that might be encountered in disposing of them against stiff competition.

"Oil is a staple article just like flour, people must have it," said Fleming, arriving at his figure of ten thousand dollars profit he stated that he had based it on his own figures and those of the bookkeeper for the company. He could not state whether the depreciation had been counted off and reckoned in the cost of the oil from the Cherryvale refinery or not, neither did he know whether interest on the investment entered into the calculations, he thought however not.

"You closed down the Atchison refinery did you not?" "Yes, sir." "Yes, sir." "If you could make so much money out of refining why did you close it down?"

"Well, the trustee, Mr. Goebel and myself didn't know how long we were going to stay," said Fleming. He also stated that the company wanted to build up thoroughly its trade at the several points and for that reason it did not care to branch out extensively. He said that he had advised Mr. Goebel that the Tulsa refinery should be disposed of in reply to query.

"Why did you do that if it was earning or capable of earning $600 a day?"

He explained that though the refinery was well built, he thought it more economical to run the Atchison refinery than the one at Tulsa. That the $50,000 that might be received from the sale of the Tulsa plant would finish the pipe line for a two inch pipe from Alleville to Atchison and that with this completed the sale of the byproducts refined at Atchison could be disposed of more profitably at Atchison and would overcome profits that were able to be made at Tulsa, because Atchison had Missouri river rates and shipments from Cherryvale and Tulsa cost more and it was impossible to route them through as quickly as from Missouri river points. He said a good market existed for the byproducts in refining that a great deal of it is now shipped into these parts from Pittsburg, Pa., but that he would, he thought, be able to find a market and ship it up and down the Missouri river on barges. The byproducts might be sold, such as greases to Europe, but he didn't seem to be favorably impressed with the idea.

He admitted that the Joplin agency in Missouri had been closed down under the trusteeship because the agent in charge had been incompetent and also that when the trustee had taken charge the policy had been to close down a number of the agencies, concentrating their energies on a few and building up those particular branches. The number of agencies in active operation had been cut about in half since the trustee took charge. The $50 salary in addition to the commission on the oil had been cut out, the oil being sold to the agent and whatever he made from the sale of the oil was his. The highest grade oil was being sold at about 7 1/4 to 7 1/2 cents per gallon.

Though the appraisers, A. T. Lucas, Harry Richter and James A. Fleming, had appraised the total value of the company's holdings at $625,000, he considered them to be worth at their going value at about $200,000 additional. This would make the property worth $825,000 as his. Since the oil had not been produced from lot 42, the Indian Territory holdings of the company, said Fleming, to keep the refinery in operation he was planning without making a purchase of 5,000 barrels of oil.

"We had to purchase the 5,000 barrels because the wells weren't running. They were not in condition. They were stopped up with sand," said he. "Well, how much were you getting from them?"

"Lot 43 practically wasn't producing anything." In explanation why the wells hadn't been cleaned out, he stated, the trustee did not have money enough. Later he gave it that the wells produced all together probably 15,000 barrels since the appointment of a trustee.

He valued the lease on that lot at $150,000. "The lease has only been one-half developed. They claim they have got 150 feet of oil sand and oil in the lot. This lease being isolated, not being drained with other wells around, I should say our lease is worth $150,000." It was remarked that the lease had only seven years more to run.

MARCH RIGHT ON.

Topeka Will Have a Big State Fair.

Local Committee Is in No Wise Discouraged.

Topeka will have a state fair, and it will be a big one. Don't for a minute lose sight of the fact. The technical law point advanced by the county attorney that forbids the county commissioners from making the $25,000 levy for a permanent building for exhibition purposes is an unexpected incident, a drawback, if you will, but not an obstacle that cannot be successfully passed. The business men who have been working the past six weeks for the fair subscriptions, and the directors of the State Fair association are as emphatic as can be in their declarations that the fair will be held next fall. The board of the fair association, J. W. Robinson and H. A. Heath of the Commercial club, and President M. A. Low of the exposition company, were all interviewed today in regard to the fair and each one of these gentlemen was as enthusiastic as ever in his plans and predictions for the fair.

"A county building," said Mr. Robinson, "would have helped the appearance of the grounds and been much more desirable as a place for exhibits, but I have no doubt that a temporary building can be built that will serve the purpose almost as well. We may have to raise a little more money, but we are going right ahead with the fair as we have as though the levy had been made."

Secretary Foote of the Commercial club, in speaking of the state fair directors and members of the Commercial club would be held next week and definite plans adopted for the preparation of the grounds for the fair. He was not at all dismayed by County Attorney Schenck's adverse ruling on the levy. It is very likely that the matter will be brought to the attention of the supreme court at once, so that it will be secured not later than next week. It is still possible that the levy can yet be made. It is also probable that the county commissioners are very friendly to the fair, may find means to extend aid to the project. Mr. Heath was in favor of going ahead with the fair even if tents had to be used for the exhibits. It is likely, however, that temporary buildings will be erected for the exhibits. The material in these buildings can be used next year for the smaller buildings on the fair grounds. In case the county levy call upon the legislature next winter for an appropriation sufficient to put the fair grounds in good shape for the 1909 state fair. At least two large and permanent buildings will be built by that time, if the directors and promoters are well founded. In the meantime, the thing for Topeka people to do right now is to talk for and boost the state fair all the time.

CRACKED THE SAFE.

Robbers Used Seven Charges of Dynamite in Securing $600.

Tryon, Okla., May 2.—Five bank robbers entered the Farmers' State bank of Tryon early this morning and after demolishing the big safe with seven charges of dynamite, secured $600, and escaped.

It is believed that they live in the vicinity of Tryon and the officers are now scouring Lincoln county for some trace of them. They forced an entrance from the rear and while three of the gang remained on guard outside, the others entered and cracked the safe. The first explosion awakened a number of the citizens who turned out, but they were fired upon and kept at bay while six other charges were applied which wrecked the vault and enabled the robbers to get away with the money. A running fight followed in which a fusillade of shots were fired, but no trace was left behind.

HENRY CAN NET FISH.

Judge Dana Decides Silver Lake Is a Private Pond.

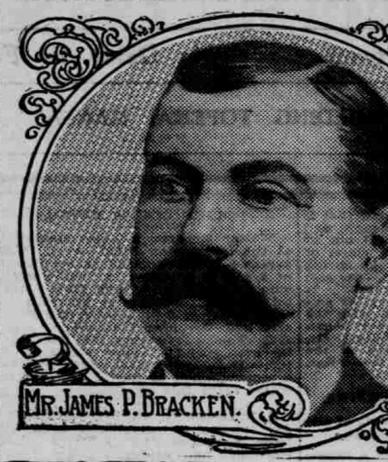

J. Henry can fish with a net, harpoon or any other tool, in his own lake. The district court has so ruled. This morning the case of the state against J. Henry, who was charged with taking fish from a net, was decided by Judge Dana. Last fall Mr. Henry, an old resident of Silver Lake, was arrested for netting catfish, carp and other piscatorial specimens, from the lake of Silver Lake. He was dragged into the court of Topeka and fined $5 and costs for the offense. He appealed. Monday of this week he was taken to district court for the offense, and the court took the case under advisement. Then the court and the sheriff repaired to Silver Lake in a buggy, and viewed the field of contention. The court discovered that Silver Lake cannot be called a public body of

Never Without Pe-ru-na in My House

So Writes Mr. C. G. Convers, Hot Springs, Arkansas.

There Are a Multitude of People in the United States Who Have Been Restored to Health By the Use of Pe-ru-na.

There are a multitude of people in the United States who have been restored to health by the use of Peruna. There is no use trying to deny this fact. As a rule, doctors dislike to admit it. There is now and then a courageous doctor who does admit it, however. In such cases Peruna is prescribed by the doctor himself. Even though the doctor suffers pecuniary loss by such a transaction his patient is benefited, which ought to be the doctor's chief concern. We do not claim that doctors generally prescribe Peruna. But we do claim whenever Peruna is intelligently prescribed it rarely disappoints either the doctor or patient.

MR. JAMES P. BRACKEN.

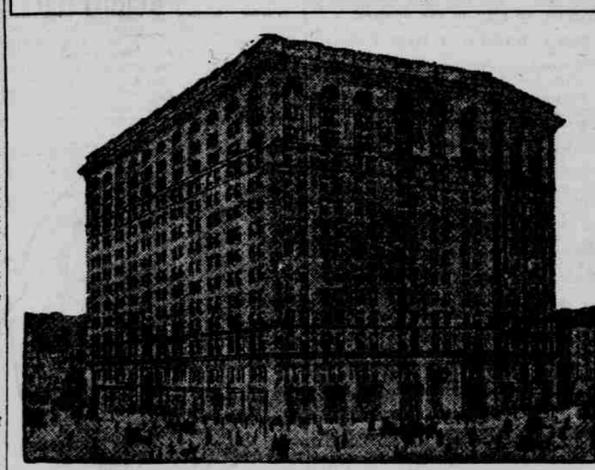

Nasal Catarrh and Indigestion. Mr. James P. Bracken, 610 Tenth Ave., New York City, N. Y., has occupied the office of Water Inspector of New York City for the past fifteen years. He carries on an extensive plumbing business at 610 10th Ave. He is Post Deputy of Grand Knights of Regina Cella Council Knights of Columbus, N. Y. He writes as follows: "For nearly a dozen years catarrh has bothered me in one form or another. I was troubled with nasal catarrh that had affected my stomach, which troubled me most in the morning. My appetite was poor, and I did not seem to relish my food. Indigestion bothered me at times, also. I was advised to take Peruna, and I took it as prescribed for a month when my cure was almost complete. Today there is not a trace of catarrh in my system, and I can say without hesitation that Peruna cured me."

Kidney Disease.

Mr. Samuel A. Paxton, 1118 Troost Ave., Kansas City, Mo., member I. O. O. F. and National Annuity Association, writes: "I am a well man today, thanks to your splendid medicine, Peruna. "I was troubled with catarrh and kidney disease of long standing when I first began using Peruna. I soon found I was getting better, and continued taking it for four months. It cleaned out the system, leaving me well and strong and feeling better than I have in years."

water, because it belongs to eight men, one of whom is Mr. Henry, the defendant. It is not a public body of water because it is not fed into the Kaw river but overflows into the lake only twice during their recollection. Therefore, says the court, Mr. Henry is not guilty of an offense. The law against netting fish carries the bald proviso: "Providing, that this act shall not be construed to affect persons taking fish from their own private lakes or ponds." Vive la Mr. Henry! He had to hurry, but he got his rights. He can take the mudcat, carp or other aqueous inhabitant from his own lake without fear of interference. Should he feel so inclined, he may chase the fish out on the bank and club them with a large club, and it is no one's business but his own.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

Word has been received in Topeka of the death of Mrs. Daniel Webb, a former resident of Topeka, which occurred at her home in Nortonville the latter part of last week. Mrs. Webb lived at 1315 Topeka avenue in 1903 and kept house for her son, Chas. J. Webb, at that time chief clerk for Division Superintendent C. T. McClellan of the Santa Fe railroad. Mrs. Webb was born in Portage county in 1830 and 24 years later married Daniel Webb at Logan, Ohio, removing shortly afterwards to Kansas which has been her home since that time. Mr. Charles Webb who now lives in Chicago came to Kansas for the funeral.

"I don't see why people should ridicule the new $10 gold piece," remarked Gunner. "I think it is a modest design." "I should say it is a modest design," laughed Guyer. "Why, even the eagle has trousers!" -Chicago News

Colds and Stomach Trouble.

Mr. C. G. Convers, Pres. Cold Storage Ice and Coal Co., Hot Springs, Ark., writes: "I am troubled with a very serious case of catarrh for a number of years. Having tried many prescriptions by good physicians, I found myself no better. "On the advice of a friend who had used Peruna with good results I purchased a bottle. The results were so good that I continued using it. Have, perhaps, in the last three years used dozen bottles, which have kept me from the trying troubles of catarrh. I am never without a bottle of Peruna in my house. "One always gets relief from colds and indigestion if you have Peruna."

Internal Catarrh.

Mr. Michael Rooney, 26 Fifth St., Watervliet, N. Y., writes: "I had known of Peruna years ago I should have been saved much suffering. Under carelessness and exposure in my younger years my system got into a very bad condition before I was aware of it. "My doctor thought that I had catarrh of the bladder and duly prescribed for me, but nothing did me any good. "My friends advised me to try Peruna, for which I am very thankful, as it has cured me in two months, and I am in perfect health."

Catarrh of the Head and Stomach.

Mr. Frank Richter, of 309 East 2nd St., Winona, Minn., writes: "I take pleasure in recommending Peruna for catarrh of the stomach. Peruna cured me, and I know it will cure any one else who suffers from this disease. My catarrh was principally located in my head and stomach. I tried many remedies without success. I read of Peruna in the papers, and five bottles cured me."
