For YOUR Most Careful Consideration

Now, if ever, is there a marvelous opportunity for the piano buyer, for Jenkins Eighteenth Annual Midsummer Sale is one of the biggest and most complete in their entire history of business. Mammoth, indeed, is it from every standpoint—price, quantity, variety, quality of the merchandise and range of selection. Every instrument offered has been reduced to the absolutely lowest possible figure, and nearly every one a saving of from $50 to $200 can be made. The new pianos, the used pianos, all alike are in the very best of condition. Every single used instrument included has been carefully repaired and refinished by our experts. The most highly skilled labor and the most modern equipment has been used. Days and days have been spent in getting ready for this big event, with the result that a near perfect piano as it is possible has been attained in every piano. You have more than 1,000 pianos to choose from, including such makes as the Steinway, Vose and Kurtzmann. But important as are the factors of quality and quantity, the absolute reliability, the perfect fairness of the Jenkins policy. Never do we over-represent the quality and quantity of our instruments. The truth regarding each we tell you without quibble or deception. We have one price for everybody, and this is always plainly marked on the piano. Even in our sale we are allowing monthly payments as low as $5.00.

MAN ON THE JOB

Accomplishment of New State Printer Reads Like Fiction.

Work Turned Out in a Month Seemingly Impossible.

PRESSES RUN NIGHT AND DAY

Inherited 410 Pieces of Work From Predecessor.

Has Kept 100 Men and Women Working Overtime.

When W. R. Smith came to Topeka from Columbus and took over the job of state printer July 1, he found that someone had slipped him a contract that would cause the average printer to jump off the bridge or turn on the gas. He found that when W. C. Austin retired as state printer and went back to his paper in Cottonwood Falls, he left 410 jobs booked and 115,000 school books to be delivered in six weeks.

That is one part of the story. The truth which makes fairy tales of fiction, shows that Smith has cleaned up the work and will deliver the school books on time—something no state department believed possible. The story of Smith's accomplishments have come from the state printing plant, but through state departments that have heard of the seemingly impossible feat performed by the new printer.

In a month the presses in the state printing plant have turned out more than three and a half million impressions. The big book presses alone have hammered away day and night. Result—2,962,100 impressions in thirty days—an accomplishment that would have kept the presses in the average newspaper office running day and night for 303 days, or an average working year. While the book presses were running capacity time and doing double shifts, the job presses worked 16 hours a day. In thirty days they registered 1,527,726 impressions. It would require the equipment of an average job office seven months to do this work.

The Work He Inherited. Even that is not the real story. The story which has found its way through the state departments is the manner in which Smith just "accidentally" inherited so much work. With the hundreds of jobs from state institutions and departments, Smith—a new man on the job—faced the necessity of printing the new geometry, the eighth grade classics and the new Kansas history in time for school delivery August 15.

W. C. Austin, retiring state printer, had posed as the bosom friend of the state school publication plan. But for some reason, the school books were hardly up to schedule. A total of 115,000 books scheduled for delivery besides the 1,500,000 school books.

That wasn't all. When Austin entered his second term as printer, there were 138 jobs booked. When he took over the work over to Smith, there were 410 jobs booked. Even that didn't tell the story. The state agricultural college had some 100 jobs which it desired printed. The state university wanted 50 jobs printed—all in addition to the 410 jobs scheduled and the school books which held the right of way on the big presses.

Smith has now been on the job a little more than a month. The new geometry is now printed. The eighth grade classics are printed and bound. Both jobs are virtually ready for delivery. Proofs of the new Kansas history have been read and the presses will this week begin printing the pages. In a few days the first of the new histories will be bound and ready for delivery. Preparation is now being made for handling the general statistics—a 15,000 state job—and all of the miscellaneous jobs are being delivered promptly.

Next year, possibly, Smith will meet the deficiency, care for the daily routine of work and take a few days' vacation. But it is doubtful. Just now 100 men and women are working overtime in the big printing plant.

FIGHT OVER BUCK

Parole Case Develops Into a Battle of Doctors.

An Adjourned Hearing Will Be Held Sept. 10.

Kansas legal and medical authorities may go to war in the fight before Governor Capper for a parole for Dr. G. W. Buck of Kiowa county, sent to the state penitentiary for wife murder. The governor stated today that the second chapter of the Buck case would be reviewed September 10. In the meantime both state attorneys and friends of Dr. Buck in the medical profession are preparing for a bitter fight.

Lawyers in the case spent most of today studying records and evidence in the case. John W. Davis of Greensburg, who is directing the main fight against the Buck parole, made one of the most forceful and effective arguments presented in a parole case in many months. He reviewed in an effective manner the evidence in the trial of the case and fought the arguments of medical authorities that Mrs. Buck might have died from natural causes. In his argument he produced a bottle of cyanide from which he claimed Mrs. Buck had been given the fatal poison.

Closing the argument against a parole, C. H. Bissett, county attorney of Kiowa county, produced a letter from Kentucky which charged in substance that Dr. Buck had been responsible for the death of a former wife by poisoning. The woman's life had been insured only a few days before her death and Buck is alleged to have collected some of the insurance before leaving the state. This matter, it was asserted today, would be entered upon more thoroughly in the September hearing.

Topeka Doctors Called.

Ben F. Endres, a Leavenworth lawyer and member of the legislature, appeared with Judge Day of Greensburg in urging a parole. They claimed that Mrs. Buck's death was due to natural causes as a result of her condition at the time. Drs. W. F. Bowen, L. H. Munn, J. C. McClintock of Topeka; and Dr. W. P. Callahan of Kingman, defended Buck's position from a medical standpoint. After listening to arguments for an entire half day, the governor stated that the hearing would be resumed September 10.

"The case promises to resolve itself into a fight among medical authorities in the state," said Endres today. "Much the same opinion was held by John W. Davis, representing the state. 'The people of Kiowa county don't want Buck paroled,' said the Greensburg lawyer. 'There isn't any doubt about the evidence in this case and a parole would be a miscarriage of justice. Yet there is every chance of a hard fight with medical men of the state over the case.'

Buck was convicted in May, 1911, for the murder of his wife in October, 1910. The case was affirmed by the supreme court and Buck has been in the state penitentiary a little less than three years. Applications for parole were denied by Governors Stubbs and Hodges. Now the case is up to Governor Capper.

POPE TO LEAVE ROME?

Germans and Austrians Urge Pontiff to Flee the Vatican.

Basle, August 6.—German and Austrian journals continue to urge the necessity of the pope's quitting Rome. They agree that the preferable shelter for him would be the Benedictine abbey of Einsiedeln near Zurich, where the Swiss government has discreetly advised his holiness he would find absolute security.

WANTS TO BUY A BOAT

Prisoner in County Jail Negotiates for $75,000 Craft.

Being in the county jail and facing four months confinement in a cell has not deterred Frank Warren from making plans for the future. This "honorable gentleman" he so designates himself in the prolific correspondence he has been carrying on—wants to buy a $75,000 boat from the Mathew Boat company, Port Clinton, Ohio. He has not said just what he wants to do with the craft when he gets it but he has a desire for such a boat and has been conducting negotiations, smuggling letters out of the jail, so as to be sure that he could buy the boat.

This morning Harvey Parsons, chief of police, turned over to Sheriff L. L. Kiene, a letter from the boat company. The letter says:

"We have been in receipt of letters from Hon. Frank Warren, 215 West Fifth st., your city. Mr. Warren has represented himself to be a man of wealth and states that he is interested in a boat at the cost of $75,000. We are informed from Bradstreet that this gentleman is now enjoying six months in jail. We would like to have this corroborated by you and would appreciate any information. Sheriff Kiene has informed the ship company that the address given by the 'Hon.' Frank Warren is identical with that of the county jail and that this gentleman is now enjoying six months in jail to 'work' in Topeka. Merchants out of pipes, cigars, cameras, shirt waists and other articles.

Frank Warren, with his mother and brother, John Warren, carried on extensive operations in Topeka. Mrs. Warren would represent herself as a woman of wealth and would buy articles on credit then her two sons would go out and sell the articles. The trio has operated in Kansas City, Wichita and Hutchinson, as well as in Topeka. Warren is a smooth 'con' artist and he is a very clever writer. Not only has he been negotiating for a $75,000 boat but he also has been writing to women's clubs over the state, asking them to become interested in his case.

BOYS' CAMP OPENS.

Annual Y. M. C. A. Outing Begins at Buffalo Mound.

The annual Central Y. M. C. A. boys' camp began today at Buffalo Mound, near Maple Hill, with twenty boys in attendance. Roland Sargent, secretary and director, together with William Bunton and Harry Jungk went out Thursday to get the camp in readiness. Bunton, who will be one of the camp leaders, has had experience at numerous similar camps. The camp will continue for two weeks. The boys will fish, row, swim, go on hikes, and indulge in games of all kinds. Incidentally there will be some camp work to be done. The camp fires will be a pleasant feature of the camp life.

This camp will be followed by the "Big Brother" camp which will be attended by fifty deserving boys who would not otherwise have an outing. There is enough money on hand to pay for 43 boys. An additional thirty or forty dollars is needed. Money should be paid to John R. Sargent, Jr., treasurer. It costs five dollars to send a boy to camp, but even smaller amounts will be accepted.

JOINS THE FACULTY.

Justice Marshall Will Teach in the Washburn Law School.

Announcement was made today that Justice John Marshall of the supreme court will handle the advance work in real property at the Washburn college law school. This will be a two-hour-a-week course throughout the entire school year. This is the hardest and most technical subject taught in the law school. He was previously taught by Dean W. R. Arthur, whose resignation was recently tendered. Justice Marshall is well fitted to teach the subject as he at one time was attorney for a mortgage concern. Judge A. W. Benson, in speaking of his qualifications, said today: "He made a special study of real property early in his practice and is regarded as one of the best authorities in the state on the subject. He is a well equipped lawyer in every way."

TAKING DADDY'S PLACE

Seven-Year-Old Son of Deceased Officer With Missouri Signal Corps.

Leavenworth, Kan., Aug. 6.—Dressed in the uniform of a non-commissioned officer and with the chevrons of a first sergeant on his sleeves, a 7-year-old boy is taking active part in the maneuvers of Company A, signal corps, Missouri National Guards, now encamped at Fort Leavenworth. The boy is Roy Jones, of Kansas City, a son of the late Elmer T. Jones, an electrical engineer and first lieutenant of the company, who was killed two months ago. He takes a regular part in the activities of the guardsmen.

"I'm trying to take Daddy's place," the youngster explained. The company is being instructed here by signal corps officers of the regular army. On its return to Kansas City the company, its ninety horses, two wagons and four cart teams will march overland, working on the way problems of warfare, just as though a general headquarters in the rear were awaiting information from the battle line.
