

VALUABLE AID ENDS WITH BANQUET

Wichita Woman Finds Great Relief From Many Troubles.

Suffered Five Years From a General Rundown of System.

CLAIMS BIG IMPROVEMENT

Declares One Bottle of Tanlac Brought Change in Condition.

Positive That Medicine Will Relieve Her of All Ailments.

Lon Hembree, who resided at 311 North Market street, Wichita, makes a very interesting statement regarding Tanlac, and what it did for his wife, Mrs. Rose Hembree. He said:

"My wife had been troubled for five years with stomach trouble and a general run down of the entire system. She had no appetite and what little she did eat caused her stomach to bloat and the gas that would form gave her great pain.

"Just before the Wichita fair I purchased a bottle of Tanlac. My wife took it and it made her feel much better than she had for many years. Like a great many people we neglected to get another bottle of Tanlac and delayed doing so until a few days ago.

"I am positive Tanlac will relieve my wife of her ailments as the first bottle brought about a great improvement in her condition in a very short time, and the only thing I regret is that I did not buy three bottles at the start."

Many more would be testifying to the great benefits they received from the Master Medicine Tanlac, but they, like Mrs. Hembree, neglected to take a full course of the medicine. Tanlac is not a mind worker, but it attacks, liver, kidney and catarrhal ailments it has proven to thousands that have tested it out, that it is most beneficial in combating these diseases.

Tanlac is now on sale in Topeka at the Tully-McFarland Drug store, where W. C. Pope, the "Tanlac Man," is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of the Master Medicine.

The Tanlac sells for $1.00 a bottle, three for $2.75 or six bottles for $5.00.

ANY WOMAN CAN SAVE $5 AN HOUR

Put gasoline and solvite in a wash boiler and dry clean everything.

Ever dry clean at home? Well, it's so easy, inexpensive and the results so pleasing you'll be surprised. Any woman can do it. Renew the brightness of ribbons, silks, satins, laces, yokes, silk shirtwaists, kid gloves and shoes, furs, neckties, children's coats, suits, caps, sweaters, organically and chiffon dresses, fancy vests, veils, woolen garments, net work, draperies, rugs, in fact any and everything that would be ruined with soap and water.

Get two ounces of solvite at any drug store and put it in two gallons of gasoline where it quickly dissolves. Then put in the goods to be cleaned, rub a little and out they come looking as bright and fresh as new. You will find nothing fades, shrinks or wrinkles, requires no pressing. Any woman can do five dollars' worth of home dry cleaning in a few moments and you can't make a mistake. Your grocer or any garage will supply the gasoline and the drug store will sell you two ounces of solvite which is simply a gasoline soap. Then a wash boiler or large dish pan completes your dry-cleaning outfit.—Advertisement.

WOMAN TRIES SUICIDE

British Court Ruled Against Her: Miss Kenealy Took Poison.

London, Nov. 19.—"My Lord, I told you you were trying a woman for her life: I have taken enough poison to kill five people," was the dramatic exclamation made by the well known novelist, Miss Annesley Kenealy, who lay prone upon the floor in a bottle, the contents of which she had just swallowed on hearing the court pronounce judgment against her.

Miss Kenealy immediately collapsed and was carried unconsciously to the emergency ward of the court house. Later she was removed to the hospital, where she recovered consciousness this afternoon. Doctors said she was out of danger. Miss Kenealy's suit, which had been before the court for damages against a wholesale book distributing firm for alleged false and malicious statements defamatory to her book, "The Mystery of the West End dressmaker," whose premises were described as a gambling den. Miss Kenealy averred that the action of the defendants deprived her of a livelihood, as publishers now refuse to accept her work.

Miss Kenealy and her sister, Arabella, are daughters of the late Edward V. H. Kenealy, who, in 1873, was the leading counsel for the claimant in the notorious Tichborne trial.

WON'T CHANGE ROUTE

Santa Fe Trail to Remain Same After Osage Meeting.

Osage City, Kan., Nov. 19.—Reports that the old Santa Fe trail route is to be changed are incorrect. There has been no meeting of the Osage City Saturday to arrange a new routing of the old Santa Fe trail. The meeting advertised is a good roads booster meeting for the whole county. There is no thought of an effort to change the old Santa Fe trail routing.

There has been a new road established and incorporated as the Capital City route from Topeka to Lebo, connecting the Golden Belt, old Santa Fe trail, new Santa Fe trail and Ozark trails; and not Topeka to Emporia. This is already a county road highway and connects with the Ozark trail south of Lebo.

The Saturday meeting is purely in the interest of good roads in this section of Kansas and has no other motive. One hundred Topeka boosters will come Saturday to take part in this big good roads day meeting.

ORCHID IN FULL BLOOM

A Rare Specimen May Be Seen at Gage Park.

An orchid in full bloom is the pride of M. M. Kline, florist at Gage park. The plant was given the city four years ago, but not until now has it ever bloomed, so Kline, who succeeded in getting the desired results, is naturally proud. The plant has two flowers in full bloom, and there are two buds.

Thousands of dollars have been paid for a single orchid of rare varieties. This is one of the best of the greenhouses is one of the best of the commercial varieties, but it is not so very common at that, as a dozen of the blossoms would be worth $25. The blossoms resemble those of a Star in the pulpit, but the supporting stem is at the side, instead of the bottom of the flower.

GREEK KING MUST ACT

Britain and France Watch Situation in Balkans.

Paris, Nov. 19.—King Constantine of Greece will be given but little more time to waver between friendship for Germany and the allies. Unless he decides in the allies' favor, speedy action will be taken, it is said. Not only is his present attitude regarded as dangerous to the Franco-British campaign in the East, but the disquieting reports of a Greco-Bulgarian agreement and of Rumania's possible entrance into the war as one of the Germanic allies have decided the Paris and London governments.

KAISER AND CHURCHILL IN OTHER DAYS

Emperor William and Winston Churchill at German army maneuvers.

This photograph was taken a few years ago when the former lord of the British admiralty was present at the German army maneuvers at the invitation of Emperor William. Churchill is going to the western front to join his regiment.

AFRICAN IRON WORKERS

Negroes on Dark Continent Originators of the Craft.

For a long time it has been suspected that the art of working iron began among the negroes in Africa. Now it is so well confirmed that there seems little doubt about it. Bronze was the first metal of which man availed himself. Just how that came about is uncertain. Copper and tin were abundant, but were of little value for weapons or cutting implements, when some one conceived the idea that by combining them a serviceable set of tools was easy.

It is believed that the idea may have come from Asia Minor, where the two metals are found in combination. All the weapons of the Homeric age were bronze, and steel swords and knives do not appear until about 700 or 800 years before the Christian era.

Archaeologists have come across specimens of iron in Egypt which have puzzled them. Recently in opening some graves in Nubia, the ancient Ethiopia, an iron spearhead was found in good condition. The grave dates from about 3400 B. C. and in any event was long before iron was known elsewhere.

This spearhead was discovered by an expedition of the University Museum, Philadelphia, which was excavating for ancient relics. It is now in the museum, and the astonishing thing is that it is precisely like the spearheads made by the natives in Africa today.

The native village blacksmith is an important personage. He is usually a wanderer, like the traveling tinker, but there seems to be a rather closely organized guild among them. The bellows are small and are worked generally by two men. They keep the fire hot. The smith often uses a stone for an anvil, and his hammers are very rude. Seeing these crude implements, one would never suppose it possible to accomplish much, but they turn out some really admirable work.

They work with considerable ceremony and are highly esteemed. Witchcraft enters into their ceremonies and the natives believe that only thus can good work be accomplished. The appearance of the blacksmith is the sign for ceremonial dances in the village. All join in. Dancing does not seem to enervate the natives and apparently takes the place of sleep. The African villages are kept so clean that the university explorers on their return were shocked at Philadelphia and New York. In Africa the chief is the head sweeper, and if everything is not as neat as a pin he is disposed and sometimes loses his head—not his official head, but his real one.

The native ironworkers of darkest Africa are fast disappearing, because traders are gradually entering the country and selling cheap wares, which puts the negro smith out of business. There still remains, however, a number of sections where the smith is a mighty man, even more respected than he of whom Longfellow sang.

The work of the native smith always begins with dancing, in which the image of the native god by the tribe is smelted, the ore is first offered to whom prayers or cutting implements, when some one conceived the idea that by combining them a serviceable set of tools was easy.
