ARMY'S REMOTE BRITISH LEADER

Hampshire was torpedoed off the Orkney Islands.

Bodies Float to Shore.

A later announcement from the admiralty said that the searching parties sent out in boats along the coast, had found only bodies of the drowned and one capsized boat.

There was still the faint hope that possibly some might have reached shore and proceeded inland in search of aid.

On account of the high sea, however, this was not considered likely, and the admiralty did not encourage the hope of any survivors being found.

Kitchener's Fated Staff.

Accompanying Earl Kitchener and his staff were:

Hugh James O'Brien, former counselor of the British embassy at Petrograd, and former minister at Sofia; O. A. Fitzgerald, Earl Kitchener's private military secretary; Brigadier General Ellershaw and Sir Frederick Donaldson.

The first question asked when the news of Kitchener's death was announced was:

"Who will succeed him?" The answer invariably was:

"Robertson, of course."

Sir William Robertson already had taken over the war secretary's duties temporarily when the secretary started on his ill-fated voyage.

On his return yesterday he had audiences with King George to report the activities on the British front.

The general has the highest confidence in the secretary. While he cannot become secretary of war unless he is raised to the peerage, a member of the house he is put at the head of the office with the understanding that the general, like Earl Kitchener, would have a free hand.

VALUABLE ATTEMPTS

BY H. L. RENNICK.

Chicago, June 6.—Determined on a program of Roosevelt or nothing, the radical Bull Moose today jumped square into the limelight with a challenge to conservative Progressives to do their worst.

The revolt progressed, however, and in March the governor of the Chinese provinces demanded the resignation of the premier, Li Yuan-shan, who was set for early in February of this year, but was postponed indefinitely owing to the extraordinary rapidity with which the revolt spread through southern China.

Several attempts were made upon the president's life and a bomb was discovered in the imperial palace.

WATCH MOOSEERS

Almost overshadowing the maneuvering among the Republicans today is the question of what the Progressive convention will do when it assembles tomorrow.

The Republican leaders regard it as charged with possibilities of the most potent sort.

On every hand they expect a tremendous demonstration for Colonel Roosevelt.

The movement for a delay in the Progressive convention, however, has been met by the Progressive leaders to have immediate action or at least not later than Thursday.

Victor Murdock, Hiram Johnson and about thirty others at a conference late last night came to a decision that the convention should be held in Chicago.

Colonel Roosevelt is expected to be reached in the regular order of business and that nothing less than a great victory would be necessary to prevent him from being elected.
