70 DAYS IN SEA OF MARMORA SICK SUBMARINE

Kipling Tells of Ravages and Repairs of "The Trade."

E-14 Had Hellish Time Among the Dardanelles Nets.

"PICKING" WAS VERY GOOD

Many Supply Ships Were Sunk During Long Cruise.

Rescued Enemies, However, Always Were Treated Well.

London, June 28.—Before we pick up the further adventures of the submarine E-14 and her partner, the E-11, here is what you might call "picking" an affair in the Sea of Marmora, which the E-13, Lieutenant Commander Bruce, put through quite on the old line.

Her main motors gave trouble from the first. She seemed a cripple for most of that trip. She sighted two small steamers, one towing two and the other three sailing vessels, making seven keels in all.

Morever, the crew—she had no boats—were all on deck in life belts. The E-13, which carried a lot of stores, ran alongside and told the first lieutenant to board her.

The steamer then threw a bomb at the E-13, which struck, but luckily did not explode, and opened fire on the boarding party with rifles and a concealed machine gun.

ROADS ARE READY

Expedition in Troop Movements Depends on Rail Lines.

That Is Statement of Gen. C. I. Martin Today.

Fort Riley, Kan., June 28.—The rapidity with which the Kansas National Guard is being mobilized in response to the orders today of Major Gen. Thomas H. Barry, commander of the Central department, is dependent entirely upon the railroad situation. That declaration was made by Charles K. Martin, adjutant general of the state, after press dispatches relating General Barry's orders had been read to him.

The Second infantry regiment can move as soon as the railroad equipment is ready. General Martin said.

Three special trains are in readiness to move the Second regiment of the Kansas National Guard from Fort Riley to El Paso, Texas. It was announced in the Santa Fe offices this morning. Approximately 1,300 men will go to the border in the movement.

These special trains probably will leave the fort Friday morning. It was understood here today. Troops will move over the Union Pacific from Fort Riley to McPherson and will proceed over the Santa Fe from that point by morning. Approximately 1,300 men will go to the border in the movement.

Reports from Fort Riley indicate that the guard will be sent to Eagle Pass. In that event the Second regiment would have to Eagle Pass from El Paso over the Southern Pacific.
