THE HUMAN SIDE

Bruno Lessing Writes of Second World Series Clash.

Fred Sober, So His Best Girl Enjoys Game.

PARK EXITS ARE SCARCE

But Cops Can Show You Way Out of Braves' Field.

Sitting Behind Human Elephant Flae Way to See Game.

BY BRUNO LESSING.
Boston, Oct. 10.—It looked like rain Monday afternoon, but it didn't rain, and I am very glad because I did not have to stay here another day, not that I have anything against Boston, but my shirts were giving out, and I'm tired of restaurant food and it's hot and muggy and I'd much rather be home.

I don't think much of the construction of the preceding sentence, but there were two girls in front of me at the ball game today and they talked like that and I've been thinking like that ever since.

The editor telegraphed me not to bother about the technical aspect of the game, but to devote myself to the human side of it. So, I gave away my press ticket because there's nothing human up in the press gallery, and bought a ticket for the grandstand.

Directly in front of me sat a man who looked about a yard wide. Every time anything happened on the ball field he would stand up and obstruct my view. Next to him were two girls. Their conversation was thoroughly human.

Fred on the Wagon.
The big man suddenly sprang to his feet and uttered a wild shout. The two girls looked at each other and giggled. For a while the thread of their discourse was broken. Then, "Fred hasn't drunk a drop for two weeks. He got so stewed at the last party that I said to him, 'Fred, I said, 'I know it's none of my business what a gentleman does, but if you're gonna drink like that, you ain't going to take me out any more.' He felt awful about it."

Presently I got up and walked down the aisle of the grandstand. Outside the stand I met a policeman, whom I asked to direct me to the nearest exit. He said there wasn't any, because all the exits were at the other end of the grounds. I tried to explain to him that no matter how far away the exits were, one must surely be a little nearer than another. I have an idea that he thought I was nuts. It may be he had some ground for this suspicion, because baseball always affects me oddly.

"My friend," I said, "I have here the ticket for a seat in the grandstand. Do you know anybody who would like to use it?"

"Lancey Some Guy."
He turned, and in a voice that resembled the roar of a bull, he cried: "You a shadowy corner of the concrete foundations of the stand emerged the biggest human being I had ever seen."

"Clancy," said the policeman, "this gent's got a ticket for you." Then he turned to me and said, "Clancy's the

FINDING A MARKET

Santa Fe Establishes Exchange for Benefit of Shippers.

Furnishes Information on the Best Place to Sell.

RESULTS IN BETTER PRICES

Prevents an Oversupply at Center of Consumption.

Plan is an Aid to Both Producers and Buyers.

Following a try-out this summer of a market information exchange, instituted under the government consular service, for fruit and vegetable shippers of Santa Fe territory, in thirteen states, the railroad has decided to make the exchange a permanent one. The exchange, of vast benefit to shippers and producers in placing their produce in markets where it is most needed, has been worked out by the freight department under supervision of headquarters in the general offices here. The plan was tried successfully in the Kaw Valley this summer during the potato shipping season.

The information exchange is carried on thru Santa Fe agents and freight men, in all market centers on the system. These men keep in close touch with the market conditions and report to headquarters regarding the demand for all kinds of fruit and vegetables in their cities. The general offices in turn distribute the information over the system to shippers who, with the aid of the intelligence, are able to avoid shipping to glutted markets where prices would be low. Information as to shipping conditions is furnished buyers in the market centers.

Began as an Experiment.
The plan, Santa Fe officials assert, was inaugurated as an experiment at first in an effort to find a way to marketize shipping from producer to markets. They assert it has been successful. Shippers who, in the past, were at the mercy of glutted markets, are enabled to ship where there is a demand, thereby commanding good prices.

Officials of the freight department of the road have been holding meetings over the system to acquaint shippers and producers with the plan. The freight men and producers. Meetings are now being held in the Arkansas valley and in the Kaw valley this fall and winter.

Shippers in Santa Fe territory in Kansas are receiving full benefit of the plan. Fruit growers will be able to obtain its benefits this fall. Next year the policy will be extended to all parts of the system where it was tried out this year.

MUST SOLVE PROBLEMS

Wilson Tells Young Men of Great Responsibilities to Come.

Jackson, Miss., Oct. 10.—Reading of a message from President Wilson was the feature of the annual convention of Young Men's Club of America here today. The president wrote:

"I would be very much gratified if, when the convention assembles, you would convey to the members of the convention my warmest greetings and express to them my feeling that the future business development of the world rests in large measure upon the shoulders of the young men of this generation. It will need imagination, vigor, vision and enterprise to deal with them and they should be dealt with and the young men of this generation would be preparing themselves in mind and purpose for a new era."

"It would be a great privilege if I could come to bear such a message in person. Since I cannot, I can only ask you to utter it for me and to assure the gentlemen assembled of my profound interest in the party they are to play in the future development of the great nation we love."

SHIFTS OFFENSIVE

French Open Attack South of River Somme.

Mysterious Secrecy on Terrific Battle for Lemberg.

London, Oct. 10.—Increased activity south of the river Somme is reported by the French war office. For some time the main efforts of the French and British have been made north of the river, but last night the artillery was unusually active on the front between Denicourt and Lihons.

This may be the prelude to another blow below in accordance with the French policy of swinging the attack back and forth from one side of the river to the other.

Altho the great battle in Volynia and Galicia apparently is continuing with the same ferocity that has marked the fighting since the new Russian offensive began, Petrograd reports that nothing of importance has occurred. Berlin is almost equally uncommunicative and few details are permitted to reach the outside world of this campaign which represents the supreme effort of the Russians this season to break the Austro-German line and capture Lemberg.

The Bulgarian war office acknowledges that Serbian troops have forced a passage of the Sava river in Greek Macedonia. It says the Serbians were subjected to a counter attack and that the fighting continues. According to the French war office, the Bulgarian counter attack failed and more Serbians are crossing the river.

TRY SHELL STORM

Italians Emulate Tactics of Ally Forces in France.

Milan, Oct. 10.—The Italian artillery is rivaling the prodigies of the allied artillery in France and Italy by increasing in power. There are notable examples since the capture of Oriziza, which was due to the large increase in the Italian batteries. According to reports from the Carso and the capture of lofty Alpine summits, like Dolierion, the Cima Cardinal and the peaks of the Alta due to the formidable tempest of Italian shells.

On Friday morning the atmosphere was ideal on the Avio range. The guns were active by 6 o'clock and by 9 the Austrian position was so well swept that the infantry and Alpine were able to attack. In an hour the summit of the Bosa Alta was in Italian possession.

Similar rapid effects, the atmosphere permitting, were obtained on the Carso. From observation points between Doberdo and San Martino the Italians can see the steady progress in the destruction of the Austrian trenches. The constant rain of shells makes advance posts untenable and tons of sandbags are hurled into the air, burying those who seek shelter behind them. The prisoners taken are dazed, deaf and dumb.

The News-Tribune of Vienna says Italian industry has succeeded in placing enormous supplies of guns and ammunition at the disposal of the army and that not only in the material field, but the methods also improved and the bombardments so intense, that they cover simultaneously the first defense, roads and communications, preventing the movement of reserves and often interrupting telephone and telegraph lines.

Urges "Parliamentary Government" and Its Publication is Suspended.

Amsterdam, Oct. 10.—The Berlin Vorwaerts incurred the most recent order for its suppression by advocating the appointment of a Reichstag committee for foreign affairs, according to Berlin dispatches in Sunday's issue. The Vorwaerts took up a request from several political quarters for the establishment of such a committee. The article recalled the attempt by the Socialist members of the Reichstag in 1905 to pass a measure which would have required the government to submit its foreign policy to the parliamentary majority. The debate on this proposal caused a widespread agitation throughout Germany.

Commenting on the present proposal the Vorwaerts said that it was adopted the antagonists of Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg would have an opportunity to say their piece. It added that the Reichstag would show what the Reichstag thinks of Germany's war aims. The article concluded:

"This again proves the necessity of Germany having a system of parliamentary government."

GROWS TOMATOES AND POTATOES ON THE SAME PLANT

State College, Pa., Oct. 10.—Eleven fully matured tomatoes and as many potatoes growing on a single plant in the vegetable gardens of the Pennsylvania state college marks the advent of the newest of freak plants in the vegetable world.

The experiment was conceived and carried out by C. E. Myers, professor of experimental vegetable growing at the college.

A potato was planted and on the stalk produced there was grafted a young tomato shoot. Tomato blossoms appeared and these developed into normal tomatoes. Under ground at the same time the potatoes grew and thrived.

UPHOLD U. S. RIGHT

Will Tolerate No Interference With Nation's Trade.

Hughes Makes Pledge Against British Blacklist.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 10.—Charles Evans Hughes has definitely pledged himself to elect to tolerate no foreign blacklisting of American traders and to tolerate no interference with American mails.

"We do not propose to tolerate any improper interference with American property, with American mails or with commercial intercourse," he declared. "No American who is exercising American rights shall be put on a blacklist by any foreign nation. We propose to protect American lives, American property and American trade according to our rights under international law."

Mr. Hughes made no direct reference to the newly developed situation. Earlier in the day he had authorized a statement that he did not wish to embarrass the administration in dealing with the new problem by publicly discussing it, but he reiterated with unusual emphasis his declaration for the "protection of American lives on land and on sea."

Peace With Honor.
"The administration asks for a vote of confidence," he said, "but its defenders cry out in protest when its record is critically examined. When its humiliating failure to safeguard American rights is held up to deserved condemnation it tries to escape by asserting that its conduct had no alternative but war; that to disprove its conduct is to favor war."

"This astounding assertion can not avert attention from the serious errors committed. We all desire peace, but we desire peace to be honorably guaranteed by correct policies. In the absence on known rights, by deserving and holding the esteem of the world. We have not been kept out of war; we have not enforced our rights; we have sacrificed our honor."

Life O'Wheat

—IS A—
HOME PRODUCT

Doubtless you remember the special interviews printed in the Daily Capital entitled "What Topeka Needs Most." It was almost the unanimous opinion of the men who gave out these interviews that Topeka's greatest need was a cereal mill producing a high grade breakfast food—that it was foolish to ship our fine wheat, the best in the world, to some northern or eastern point, have it made into a breakfast food there and then shipped back to us again. The governor has often expressed the same opinion.

Now that need has been filled—Topeka has a breakfast food of her own making of which she may well be proud—LIFE O' WHEAT.

But we're not asking you to try Life O' Wheat merely because it's a home product—we want you to try it because it's better, sweeter, more delicious and contains more food value than any other breakfast food you ever tasted—it's guaranteed to please you or your money refunded.
