The greatest coffee maker in the world

If he doesn't call you this it is your own fault

A million women can tell you that with them, the coffee problem is a thing of the past,—

—that every morning their coffee makes the whole breakfast seem entirely different, satisfying, starts the day right for all.

Like these women, you will need your search for the right coffee the moment he tastes Arbuckles'.

Make up your mind to begin today to give your husband the benefit of their experience. Give him a chance to call you the greatest coffee maker in the world. When you see how enthusiastic he is over the flavor of Arbuckles' you will know why it has solved the problem of over a million women — why it is by far the most popular coffee in America today!

Arbuckle Bros. have the largest coffee roasters in the world. Every day they roast enough coffee to supply your entire county for a week.

You'll Enjoy Life O'Wheat Better Than Any Other Breakfast Food You Ever Tasted

Because it's different—noticably different from other kinds—and better. It differs from the dead white color of similar breakfast foods in its rich golden brown tinge. This marking in color comes from the life cells of the wheat, the most vital part of each grain. This is an exclusive feature with Life O' Wheat. And it is from these life cells that Life O' Wheat derives its superior food value—its unusual amount of nutrition.

And that isn't all—it tastes better, richer, sweeter than others—you won't tire of it as you have of ordinary kinds.

But don't take our word for it—try it yourself. It is guaranteed to please you better than any breakfast food you ever tasted or your money refunded.

DID WILSON WIN LABOR VOTE? WHAT IS GOV. HUGHES' POLICY?

Issues of Both Sides of Campaign Argued in Brief. Hughes Attacks Wilson's Acts—What Would He Do?

Following are the first of a twin series of political articles by George G. Hill for Democracy. They are frankly partisan and sponsored by Mr. Creel and by Mr. Hill, respectively.

BY GEORGE G. HILL. (Written for the Republican National Committee.)

Has not President Wilson won the solid support of organized labor by his handling of the railway controversy and the 8-hour bill? When the Republican managers contend that Mr. Wilson has not won the support of labor do they not imply that organized labor is uncertain? These questions are asked so frequently that a reply is pertinent.

President Wilson has not won the solid support of organized labor by his course regarding the railway increase bill because: (1) There is no solid labor vote. Men who labor just as widely in their political opinions as any other class of men, so there is no solid labor vote.

(2) In the railway affair Mr. Wilson did nothing whatever to shorten the working day of railway employees, even the small percentage of the railway employees who were secured for the brotherhood men an increase of pay, estimated at from 20 to 25 per cent. For the great mass of railway employees he secured nothing whatever.

(3) By surrendering the principle of arbitration, Mr. Wilson established a precedent which is more than likely to work great injury to hundreds of thousands of union men whose organizations are not sufficiently united to win simply by strikes, altho they have in the past and would have continued to win justice, or a measure of justice, by arbitration. Every labor man knows that most of that which has been won, both as to better pay and improved conditions, has been won by arbitration. Every labor man knows that most of that which has been won, both as to better pay and improved conditions, has been won by arbitration.

When Mr. Wilson discarded the arbitration method of determining whether the brotherhood men were entitled to more pay, he paved the way for employers all over the country to discard it, and many able labor men, who are not sufficiently united to organize labor will suffer in the long run from the president's course.

Finally, regarding the fix of a specific wage increase for the brotherhood men, Mr. Wilson has paved the way for congress to fix by law the wages of all workers, and carriers with the inevitable accompaniment of compulsory service.

The answer to the second is that there is no solid labor vote, and that organized labor as a whole has anything to be grateful to Mr. Wilson for.

BY GEORGE CREEL. (Written for the Democratic National Committee.)

Woodrow Wilson stands for courage and achievement; Charles E. Hughes stands for evasion and criticism.

No citizen is in doubt as to the president's position on all the great questions of the day. What he has done is a matter of record; what he intends to do is set forth in simple, understandable English. What citizen is able to say that Mr. Hughes would have done or what he would do?

He quarrels meekly and persistently with every one of the great laws that Woodrow Wilson has driven thru. Currency and tariff legislation, income and inheritance taxes, workmen's compensation, shipping bill, rural credits, trade commission, and even the child labor law have been made the targets of his peevishness, but not once has he dared to say: "I will repeal them."

He attacks Wilson's Mexican policy, but when pressed for his own attitude, takes refuge in the coy statement: "I will be firm."

He does not scruple to make political capital out of the Lusitania's death, but will not say what he himself would have done.

Belgium figures in his speeches, but he declines to state whether or not he would have had the United States protect the navy bill, indorsed by Admiral Dewey as the "best ever passed," and the army bill alike receive his censure, but no human power is able to drag a word from him with regard to what he considers "adequate" preparedness.

His lips were sealed during the days when the eight hour bill was before congress. As leader of his party he sent no word to Republican senators and representatives advising them to vote against the measure, tho a filibuster could have depleted it. But before the ink was dry on the president's signature he burst out in noisy denunciation. Even so, he does not say: "I will repeal it."

Never was the issue so clear-cut between honesty and hypocrisy, between performance and protection as in this one hand stands a president who has given peace with honor, preparedness without militarism and prosperity with justice. On the other stands a candidate without an issue, without a principle, without a policy.

IT'S GARDNER NOW

Veteran Sox Third Sacker Last Year's Hero.

His Blow Gave Boston Club the Fourth Engagement.

BY DAMON RUNYON. Brooklyn, Oct. 12.—That old "kub-bam" of a hardworn bat meeting a baseball in a home run drive must by this time sound about as cheerful to the ears of Babe Marquard as a drum thumpin' a funeral march.

The world series career of the tall, thin, wiry necker-leatherer seems to be checked by these long damaging clouts.

The thudding impact of the club against the leather, the grind of shiny steel cleats biting into the gritty base line toward first, the momentary hush over the crowd and then the wild shout of jubilation mingled with the groans of despair—these things are as familiar to the willowy sidewheeler as the road to the clubhouse.

There was 1911—and Frank Baker. There was 1913—and Frank Baker. Now here is 1916—and Larry Gardner.

At Ebbsfield in Flatbush Wednesday afternoon the veteran third baseman of the Boston Red Sox hit a home run off Marquard with two men on the bases in the second inning of the fourth game of the world's championship struggle.

Blow Won Game. That blow swept aside a two-run lead which the Brooklyn Dodgers had secured over the American league champions in the first inning and put the Red Sox in front. They added three more runs in the next seven innings, but they did not need them.

The final score was 6 to 2 in favor of the Sox, giving them three games of the National league's one. The series moves here and thence back to Boston and Braves field today. If the Sox win again this afternoon the fight is over.

Leonard, whose baseball cognomen handle is "Dutch," pitched for the Red Sox Wednesday with Bill Carrigan, manager of the Boston club, behind the bat.

It had been rumored that Leonard's pitching arm was sore. He is one of the crack lefthanders of the league, and the fact that Carrigan withheld him from the first three games and started Shore, Ruth and Mays, seemed to be confirmation of the rumor.

After the first inning, however, Leonard pitched well. He allowed but three hits after that one wobbly period. About 20,000 fans saw the game.

Marquard Off Form. Babe Marquard, who was started over by dotting parents as Richard de Marquid, can have no excuses—or "alibis" the baseball folks call it—for his showing. He looked none better in the practice eye of the baseball "sharks" in the stand as he warmed up, judging from their comment, altho it must take a pretty keen eye to visualize a pitcher's form from that distance. "I don't think he can pitch up an alley today," remarked a wise man of the pastime as early as the first inning. "He doesn't seem to have that old hop on his fast one. He's monkeying with that slow ball."

A moment later Marquard fanned Clarence Walker right after striking out Harold Janvrin and the wise man shook his head.

"I guess I'm cockeyed," he said. "He must have something."

And certainly Marquard was the logical choice for Wilbert Robinson. He pitched a great game against the Red Sox in the opener Saturday, losing only because of flimsy support. He held two victories over the Red Sox in 1915, for Rubs got thru the world's series of that year without being beaten.

NAB CAR ROBBER GANG

Recovered $15,000 Loot, Stolen From American Express.

Cleveland, Oct. 12.—Three persons under arrest here on suspicion of being members of an organized band of car robbers which has been operating between Cleveland, Chicago and St. Louis for three years, were turned over to the federal authorities today on charges of violating the interstate commerce act.

Search is being made for the leader of the gang who is said to have been a prominent member of the famous Apaches of Paris.

The arrests here were made Tuesday night following a raid on downtown pools when loot valued at $15,000 was recovered. It was all part of goods stolen from American Express companies or the Chicago and St. Louis railroad during the last month.

POISON CANDY WEAPON

Dropped From Aeroplanes by Central Powers Is New Charge.

Petrograd, Oct. 12.—Poisoned sweets and garlic, infected with deadly bacilli were dropped by enemy flyers who attacked the Rumanian Black Sea port of Constanta, it was officially announced here today.

The war office allegation that the central powers have been guilty of a new form of "frightfulness" warfare, aroused intense indignation in official circles. The official statement did not disclose whether any children ate the infected and poisoned sweets.

BACK FOUR CENTURIES ARTHUR FILES SUIT

Sixteenth Century Modes Only Across Rio Grande From Twentieth.

El Paso, Tex., Oct. 12.—Delegates to the International Irrigation congress and International Soil-Products exposition, which will be held here beginning Saturday, will be given an opportunity to compare the modes of the sixteenth century which they will find in El Paso with the civilization of the sixteenth century which they will find in Juarez, Mexico, just across the narrow thread of the Rio Grande.

On the one side they will find the plowing life which is the dominant feature of up to date Americanism; on the other they will find men and women alive as they lived in Christ's time, but with different conditions of mud and straw; using crooked sticks for plows and bundles of brush for harrows, reaping their grain with sickles and threshing on earthen floors made of hardened mud over which herds of ponies or flocks of goats are kept in motion in order that their hard hooves may separate the grain from the chaff.

El Paso is practically the only city in the world where a traveler may find so different things in so close proximity. It is a foreign country where language, manners, customs, mode of dress and styles in architecture are so absolutely different from the American conceptions of those details of life.

ENGLAND INVESTIGATES INFLUENCE ON RACE OF WOMAN'S EMPLOYMENT

London, Oct. 12.—Is the great part that woman is playing in the labor of the nation affecting motherhood?

The answer to this query, agitating the interested conservation of the race, will be given as the result of a big investigation set on foot here today.

The investigation, which is authorized by the government, is being conducted by the Women's Industrial Council. On account of the future activity of women workers after the war, the probe is designed to point out what trades, newly acquired by women, are most injurious to motherhood. Recommendations for beneficial legislation in favor of the future of the race will then be made.

Our chief object is to approach industry from the angle of motherhood, both old and new, to find out whether the muscular action or the strains and stresses involved in certain processes have an effect on future child bearing of ordinary women workers," said Miss E. Taylor, head of the industrial council today.

Today's investigation is only one of many which will be launched in favor of England's future generations.

SUNKEN SHIP A MYTH

After Drastic Search, Admiral Believes Kingston Wasn't Torpedoed.

Washington, Oct. 12.—Admiral Gleaves, commanding the Atlantic destroyer squadron, believes the steamer Kingston, or Kingstonian, sunk by a German submarine, he reported officially to the navy department today.

In his opinion, Gleaves said, the name "Knudsen," one of the steamers sunk by a German submarine, he reported officially to the navy department today.

He believes all survivors have been accounted for, and has ordered the destroyer squadron back to Newport.
