

LET PEOPLE KNOW

Greater Publicity of National Affairs in Her Platform.

Woman Candidate for Congress Makes Busy Campaign.

Helena, Mont., Nov. 2.—"Let the people know what's going on. That's the keynote of my platform," Miss Jeanette Rankin, Republican candidate for representative in congress, said today.

Miss Rankin is making a whirlwind finish in her campaign thru Montana, speaking three times a day, while a dozen women are whooping it up for her in every town in the state.

"I'm going to win," asserted Miss Rankin, with Rooseveltian strenuousness, in a short breathing space between speeches. "I stand for national equal suffrage and I'll bring it before congress as soon as I arrive in the capital. I stand for child welfare. The government should take care of the children. I'm for greater publicity in congressional affairs, prohibition, farm loans and equal taxation."

Altho Miss Rankin is running on the Republican ticket, a great many women of other parties are fighting for her. They hail her as "the women's candidate."

Two years ago Miss Rankin led the equal suffrage battle in Montana. She has campaigned all over the east in interests of "Votes for Women." Good government leagues in all Montana towns have endorsed her. In addition to this, the women's clubs have thrown all their power into the fray in her behalf. Miss Rankin's campaign managers declared today she had the support of Henry Cabot Lodge, Elihu Root, Senator Cummins and of nearly all the big Republican leaders. Her opponents claim her political utterances are "rabid and so radical they are almost socialist."

BREAD IN KANSAS

Bakers Raising Prices in All Larger Cities of State.

Bakers in the larger Kansas cities practically have decided to discontinue the baking of five-cent loaves of bread, according to reports received here. The increase in the price of flour is the assigned reason for the action. In Topeka several of the leading bakeries do not make 5-cent loaves any more and a meeting of bakers has been scheduled to determine whether the 5-cent loaf would be abolished entirely or the price increased. In Wichita, it was reported that the bakers are charging 7 cents for the usual 5-cent loaf, to which three ounces has been added.

Within the last week the price of flour has advanced 40 cents a hundred in the wholesale market, according to millers here, the top price reaching $3.60. The retail price has jumped 20 cents this week, making the cost of a 45-pound sack reach $2.50.

Many of the leading bakers in the state have inaugurated the 15-cent loaf of bread, consisting of 23 ounces, to meet the exigencies of the flour increase, reports received here show.

A PETTIT INVENTION

Caelostadt Perfected by Astronomer at Washburn College.

Caelostadt is the name of an ingenious invention which is being perfected by Prof. Edison S. Pettit of Washburn college, in connection with his work on the total eclipse of the sun in 1918. Pettit by reason of his remarkable advance research concerning the future eclipse has been invited by the American Astronomical society to participate and aid in the observations which will principally be made at Denver, Colo.

The caelostadt is a mirror-lens to throw the image of the lens in correspond with the almost imperceptible movement of the sun during the time that the camera exposure is made. Thus an absolutely accurate image is secured.

The eclipse does not occur until 1918 but a vast amount of preliminary research work has been done by Prof. Pettit, which has been commended by astronomers all over the country. In making the charts of the path of the eclipse which he has sent different observatories. Prof. Pettit was assisted by Prof. Luther C. Tiltonson, of the department of engineering of Washburn college.

Previous to the occurrence of the eclipse Prof. Pettit will inaugurate a movement to get all amateur photographers of Kansas to take pictures of the eclipse. Often by some chance of timing or inadvertent correctness of exposure the efforts of some amateurs turn out better than the carefully made photographs of the astronomer.

800 MEETINGS IN A FINAL PLEA FOR STATE VOTE

Republicans and Democrats Arrange Big Gatherings.

No Section of State Will Be Spared Last Agony.

CLOSING HOURS OF CAMPAIGN

School House System To Be Adopted at Once.

Local Talent Will Take Care of Conditions Here.

Both Republicans and Democrats will resort to spectacular methods in the closing of the strenuous presidential campaign in this state. More than 800 meetings will be held in this state during the closing two days of the campaign. Both parties will probably resort to red fire and old time methods in an effort to arouse the voters and drive support to their party nominees.

Plans as outlined today by Charles H. Sessions, chairman of the Republican state committee, indicated the Republicans would hold between 400 and 500 meetings in the state next Saturday and Monday. The Democrats will probably hold between 300 and 400 meetings. Night meetings will feature the closing hours of the campaign, altho many towns will draw day speeches in the closing of the campaign.

In the final effort to round up the voters the old time schoolhouse campaign origin will be adopted. Every available state candidate and speaker has been called to the colors by state headquarters. There will be no national speakers in the state during the closing speaking days of the campaign. But the state speakers will work overtime. In addition to the speakers provided by the state committees, local speakers will fill dates in many schoolhouses and every local committee in Kansas has been urged by headquarters officials to resort to every spectacular effort to win votes in the closing hours of the fight.

State Republicans on Stump. This week the Republican state committee has more than sixty speakers in the field. The Democrats have more than thirty speakers on the stump. It is probable that not less than 100 campaign orators are this week working under directions from Topeka.

Added to these speakers the state committees have prevailed on county committees to enlist support and work of all local speakers. The final speaking days of the campaign will probably result in systematic campaigns of many counties by both parties. In many counties a dozen or more political meetings will be held next Saturday and Monday.

An old-time torchlight parade will feature a reception for George H. Hodges, former governor, at a meeting of Dickinson county Democrats in Abilene tonight. That is the opening wedge of the red fire campaign. The Democrats plan to resort to all manner of vote getting and enthusiasm provoking methods during the closing days of the campaign. The Republicans will be right with them.

Close Here Saturday. In Topeka the Democrats will hold their final big meeting Saturday night. Jerry Botkin will be the principal speaker. He has closed the Democratic campaign in Topeka during three successive campaigns. It is probable the Democrats will resort to the ancient methods of arousing the voters in advance of the meeting.

Monday night Topeka will celebrate the hour counting of Governor Capner and Mrs. W. A. McCarter. Both have been on the stump in the Kansas campaign during the last month. Both have done effective work for the Republican ticket and the party workers will finish the campaign with noise and red fire during the evening. Plans were discussed today for the explosion of fireworks and the banner meeting of the evening when the governor and Mrs. McCarter speak in the auditorium. Senator Charles Curtis will make his final speech of the campaign in Salina.
