

WOMEN WERE RESPONSIBLE FOR VOTE HERE

Female Ballots Gave Kansas to President Wilson.

Big a Surprise to Democrats as Jolt to Republicans.

THEY WERE GIVEN SUFFRAGE

G. O. P. Followers Presented Women With Their Rights.

And Women Thereby Returned Vote to the Bourbons.

It was a Republican legislature that gave Kansas women the suffrage amendment. This week it was the vote of Kansas women—their first vote as citizens—that gave Kansas to Wilson and the Democrats. It was the quiet, unannounced woman vote on the farms and in the big towns that cared nothing for party lines and traditions...

In the 1915 session of the state legislature, after many trials and failures, the women won the ballot thru the passage of the suffrage amendment.

Of course the mere men who voted in the 1912 election had a chance at the matter. But the men were as kindly and gracious as the legislative members and the suffrage amendment won in a walk.

All over the state Republican leaders rubbed their hands and chuckled to meet a redoubtable Republican majority in the state. There simply was no doubt about it. The Republican worker in the ward and the man high up in the big game, shook hands and patted each other on the back. It was a great victory for the great common people. Most of all it made Kansas safe and soundly and solidly Republican for all time to come.

No Doubt About It. There wasn't a question of a doubt that the women worked and voted as their husbands desired. They figured it all out for you. They explained that meek and timid and retiring woman would consult her husband or brother or father—who knew all about such things—and rather an idea as to just how to vote.

Portland, Me., Nov. 8.—Maine's plurality for Hughes stood at 4,821 early today, when returns had been received from all except eighty-one small precincts which have a total vote of only about 4,000. Hughes had 67,013 and Wilson 62,182 out of a total vote estimated at 129,000.

Boston, Nov. 8.—Massachusetts gave Charles E. Hughes a plurality of 21,000 over President Wilson. The Republicans also re-elected Governor McCall and Senator Lodge by larger pluralities than that given Hughes.

demcy to forgive the Republican senate for passing the suffrage resolution when it came over from the house. For the house had adopted the amendment at a ladies' night festival and resorted to the simple legislative process of passing the buck. The house and senate were not especially friendly that winter, at best. So it was great sport to check the wrath of the women to the senate and watch the solemn of the upper house kill the measure while the ladies writhed in anger and shed tears.

Senate Fooled Them. But the senate didn't do it. Instead a caucus agreement to vote against the resolution was defeated. On Friday the resolution was brought to the floor and the senate was invited to vote. The senate was invited to vote. The senate was invited to vote.

Why Did Capper Get 100,000 and Hughes Lose State?

Government Capper is the captain who deserted the ship. He is responsible for the loss of Kansas to Wilson. For his betrayal, he will suffer. This is the statement which Robert Stone, speaker of the house of representatives, made today when returns gave Kansas to Wilson. Stone's statement is scarcely a veiled threat of the fight which is to be made on Governor Capper in event he is a senatorial candidate in 1918.

Before all of the votes are canvassed, Stone has opened the way for the big row in Kansas politics two years hence. In a most cutting statement the Topeka lawyer today charged the governor with party treachery in order to win votes for himself.

He flitsy charges the governor with neglecting to aid any candidate or to talk national issues in the campaign. Now Stone points to the fact that the governor is safe and Kansas is nationally in the Democrat column.

The sensational Stone statement today is almost a direct result of the Topeka lawyer's recent fight for re-election, which he won. Stone was the victim of a bitter fight in the campaign because of his associations as an attorney for the Kansas Natural Gas company. Governor Capper's campaign speeches regarding the gas re-relationship were used in the campaign against Stone. It is because of this fact and the returns indicating a Kansas electoral vote for Wilson that Stone made his statement.

At the Governor's Door. Following reports from over the state to the effect that Kansas has given Governor Capper more than 100,000 plurality and beaten Hughes for president by 20,000, Stone picks up the burden and deposits it at the governor's door. The responsibility for a landslide to Wilson is placed on the governor's shoulders in Stone's statement. Selfish refusal to aid any one except himself is the charge which Stone makes in his statement.

The captain of a ship who, in the face of danger, deserts his vessel and leaves his crew to sink, is not to be pardoned. Stone's statement is a very interesting subject and the scenes are very sensational and exciting. The play includes five excellent acts, among which are found "Neluso & Hurley," who have an altogether different act from the rest of his kind. These two especially good looking people do not need to exert themselves to make the audience sit up and take notice, as they have a novelty of their own which in itself makes a big hit at every performance. It is an European offering dressed in Chinese costumes, and dainty dances adds considerable to the success of this clever duo.

At the Orpheum. A special arrangement has been made to have the Mary Pickford production, "Less Than the Dust" remain in Topeka for the Teachers' Association. Consequently those of Topeka who were unable to see the play will have the opportunity during the days of the association beginning tomorrow.

The music arranged specially for this production is agreeable and the credit for the well-organized orchestra and pleasing music is due Mr. F. Fein, director of the Orpheum musical organization.

"The Soul of Kura-San" is an excellent vehicle for Sessue Hayakawa. But the real purpose of this story by Charles Sarver does not stop at opportunities to the feature play. It also presented the producer with occasions to affect forceful drama and great pictorial beauty. "The Soul of Kura-San" is a drama turning about Japanese artist's determination for revenge upon the American who betrayed an allied woman for her own life. There is continuous interest here. Also there is real punch. —New York Mail.

Returns from 2,365 precincts give Reed, Democrat, for senator 294,580; Dickey, Republican, 279,405.

Hughes Also Claims New Hampshire. Manchester, N. H., Nov. 8.—Altho the Republican state committee had announced that Hughes would lead to be heard from Hughes had an unofficial plurality of 1,867, revised newspaper figures this afternoon show Hughes leading by 215 over Wilson with 11 small precincts out. Republican leaders said the unreported vote was a repetition of the error made in the 1912 election. Hughes would carry the state by 400.

Wilson 35,000 in Oklahoma. Oklahoma City, Nov. 8.—President Wilson's majority in Oklahoma was placed at 35,000 today by Democratic state leaders. While no late figures were available it was apparent Mr. Wilson's plurality would not be lowered by precincts still to be heard from.

The so-called fair election law amendment carried by a majority estimated from one and one-half to two to one.

New York, Nov. 8.—Charles E. Hughes awoke at 8 o'clock this morning after sleeping nearly seven hours, and a minute later was reading the newspapers and latest election dispatches from doubtful states. Chairman Willcox communicated with the nominee and declared related reports were reassuring.

Mr. Hughes adhered to his determination of last night to make no comment and issue a statement until the result was beyond doubt. He breakfasted with Mrs. Hughes and their three daughters. Newspapers were propped up in front of them all and the meal was frequently interrupted to read the latest reports from doubtful states.

Mr. Hughes was especially interested in returns from California, Minnesota, Nebraska and Missouri. Early advice to the nominee from party leaders were that the two last named states were in doubt with a steady Republican trend as returns came slowly in.

BY PERRY ARNOLD.

New York, Nov. 8.—President Wilson was making steady gains this afternoon in two states—Minnesota and California—carrying of either one of which will make his election certain.

Regarding these two as doubtful with New Hampshire, New Mexico and Oregon, United Press returns showed Wilson to have already acquired 256 votes in the electoral college. Hughes 238. The president, therefore, requires only ten votes for re-election.

At Democratic headquarters the president's managers, regarding the election as already won, turned attention to celebrating. A band was hired, Secretary McAdoo distributed brand new dimes as souvenirs and an impromptu parade past Republican headquarters to jeer at their opponents was carried out gleefully.

Claim New Hampshire by 350. At 2 o'clock Senator Hollis of New Hampshire informed Chairman McAdoo, United Press reporter, that an official but complete return from that state gave it to Wilson by 350 majority.

The Republicans were conceding nothing and sticking fast to their claims of Hughes's election.

The managers want for communication with Secretary Tumulty frequently during the morning but in the afternoon upon reassuring reports from his headquarters the president went out for a game of golf. Mrs. Wilson went with him.

At 2 o'clock Governor Hughes and Mrs. Hughes went for an automobile ride. The candidate was given a rousing cheer as he walked smiling to his machine at the curb.

Half Counted in North Dakota. Fargo, N. D., Nov. 8.—"North Dakota is undoubtedly in the Wilson column," the Forum, Republican headquarters, stated at 2 o'clock that the state ballots counted showed Wilson 22,791, Hughes 21,732. Farmers' Party-League candidates won 50 to 40.

Hughes Gaining; Wilson Leads. St. Paul, Nov. 8.—Returns from the rural districts shortly after noon today, gradually cut down President Wilson's lead over Hughes in Minnesota, 1,029 of the 3,024 precincts in the state giving Wilson 92,066, Hughes 83,144.

If Hughes can maintain his lead in the country districts the state will go to him by safe margin, it is estimated by Republican leaders. On the other hand, the Democratic leaders are claiming the state and feel confident Wilson will hold his own in the rural districts and increase his lead in the smaller cities of the state.
