

Today Is An Historic Day

When the wills of men work together in a great cause, they become more than men. They become a city, a state, a nation.

Topeka is more than a collection of lawyers and preachers, policemen and carpenters. It is more than a barracks or a camping place.

Topeka is a city.

Unless men who live together can unite their wills to do great works, they never make a city, tho the name of their dwelling place stand in black letters at the top of the census roll.

The strongest city is the one which is most united.

Leaders alone do not make an army. Leaders alone do not make a city.

Not even good soldiers make a good army. Not even good citizens make a great city.

The soldiers must be practiced in marching and fighting TOGETHER.

The citizens must be practiced in planning and working and giving TOGETHER.

Topeka has great leaders. Topeka has good citizens. Topeka will be a great city if the people can plan and work and give together.

You know who the leaders are. They may not hold political office. Something in their character gives them their place among their neighbors.

Those leaders are already backing the effort to make Topeka a greater city by giving it a greater college. The names of many of them are on the subscription list. The others will come. They do not have to be asked.

But this effort to make Topeka a greater city will fail unless we all think, and work and give together.

The Washburn campaign is one of the great opportunities that come in the lifetime of a city.

It is an opportunity to refresh the civic spirit of Topeka.

Topeka can gain from it something more precious than the four or five million dollars which Washburn will contribute to the prosperity of its citizens in the next five years. Topeka can gain something else as precious, even as the enlightened and inspired lives of the young men and women who will attend Washburn in the next five years.

That something is a renewal of civic consciousness and civic pride in all the men and women of Topeka.

Today is the day that Mayor Corwine has chosen for the demonstration of that consciousness and pride.

Today is the day when every citizen is asked to give some of his time and thought to the great institution that benefits every citizen.

Today is the day when the elected leaders of the city and state meet with the people to honor Washburn college.

Today is the day when the merchants and the money-lenders will close their shops, voluntarily cutting off the profitable business of one hour, to swell the crowd which honors Washburn college.

Today is the day when the old spirit of unity that belongs to the citizens of a great city as their birthright, whether they have been lucky in life or unlucky, will show itself in a great parade and a great public meeting.

Today is the day when Topeka will become a greater city than it was yesterday.

Today is the day when we will work and give TOGETHER.

LOW INCOME TAX

Big Decrease in Amounts Filed by Kansas Citizens.

Collector Says Mistake Not to File Tho Income Not Taxable.

Wichita, Kan., March 22.—Agricultural and business depression in 1921 has caused a big dent in Kansas income taxes.

In the year closing March 15, 1921, 160,000 returns were filed in this state. This year the number will not exceed 115,000. H. E. Motter, federal internal revenue collector for Kansas, estimates. By far the largest decrease is in the number of individual returns. They have fallen off from 87,200 to approximately 46,000.

Figures on the total amount of income tax to be paid by Kansas for 1921 will not be available for several weeks, according to Motter. Unofficial estimates from Washington place the total for the entire country at approximately 1 1/2 billion dollars as compared with 2 1/2 billion in 1920 and 3 1/2 billion in 1919.

Many farmers and business men are making a mistake by not filing returns even tho they have no taxable income," Motter declared. "They should have filed returns to establish 1921 losses for the purpose of offsetting possible profits in 1922. Of course, affidavit can be made as to 1921 losses but there is considerable red tape and the data may not be available to determine just what losses were last year."

Ten thousand Kansas married persons, it is estimated, to revenue authorities, will not pay an income tax this year that did last. This is because the exemption for married persons was increased from $2,000 to $2,500 in 1921 and the exemption for each child from $200 to $400. Returns must be filed, however, if the net income amounted to $2,000.

Brief extensions of time for filing 1921 returns have been granted to about two thousand persons because of illness or absence, Motter said. Tardy citizens not so excused must pay a penalty of 25 per cent for failure to file on or before March 15.

TO MAKE SURVEY OF FARMS

Farm Bureau Plans to Visit Every Farmer in Shawnee County.

A survey of all farms in Shawnee county will be made during the next two weeks, Ralph Searle, president of the farm bureau, has announced. The purpose of the survey will be to secure statistics on which to judge the year's activities, according to Searle.

Every farmer in the county will be visited, whether or not he is a member of the farm bureau, Searle said. Farmers will be asked to list the 1921 acreage of their various crops and the number of livestock on hand. It also is planned to find out what each farmer has for sale, what he considers his most profitable crop and what he considers his greatest farm problem. The farmer will be asked to give his views on economic and legislative problems.

News of Centuries

Editor State Journal:

It is with the liveliest interest that I have seen your beginning of the publishing of the Gospel of St. Mark.

To a layman in journalism it seems that there are two principal elements that underlie a news item. That one of these is popular interest, or what people wish to read, and that the other is popular need, or what the people ought (or need) to read.

Taken by these standards an absolutely true advertisement may be news. But commercial news may be trusted, to the efforts of the producers, on account of interest and profit, for dissemination.

But the Gospel, being the only news article that has held its place in popular attention for almost nineteen centuries in the face of determined effort for its suppression, and being the only news article that attempts to tell the panacea for every human need and ailment; physical, mental or spiritual; individual, social; temporal or eternal; the Gospel may well attract the attention of a live journalist eager to give his patrons the news of the largest interest and the largest benefit.

I am glad you are using the Weymouth edition; I frequently find it more meaningful than others, and in part because the phraseology is modern. Sincerely and appreciatively,

FRANK FERGUSON OGLE,
Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church.
