

THE NATIONAL TRIBUNE. (Established 1877.) PUBLISHED WEEKLY. ONE DOLLAR PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT. MONEY sent us, otherwise than by registered letter, postal money order, or draft on New York, will be at the risk of the sender.

AGENTS.—We employ no agents. THE NATIONAL TRIBUNE has every volunteer contributor, and they are generally honest and reliable; but persons who confide their subscriptions to them must be their own judges of their responsibility.

ADVERTISING.—REVENUES, ETC.—Advertisements will be charged as often as desired, but such subscribers in every case give the full name and address. In forwarding subscriptions please be sure to send us the label on the last paper received, and specify any corrections or changes they desire made in their address.

CORRESPONDENCE.—Correspondence is solicited from every section in regard to the various questions of the day. Contributions should be sent to the Editor by mail, and letters to the Editor will always receive prompt attention.

THE NATIONAL TRIBUNE, Washington, D. C.

OUR GREAT WATCH OFFER. We earnestly call the attention of our readers to the great watch offer which appears in another column.

THE Joy Goods Economist says that before the taking effect of the McKinley Bill the pearl button makers of this country could keep their factories running only a portion of the time.

GEN. C. M. FIELD says that if the rebel flag is not allowed to be displayed at Chicago, "then let us have another World's Fair where it will be."

The English monopoly of the nitrate deposits in Chile have been of almost as much value as the American silver mines, and has turned out "Nitrate Kings" just as our mines have turned out "Bonanza Kings."

EXPERIENCE as to the practicability of bombarding the clouds into giving down of rain is becoming very active.

THE NATIONAL TRIBUNE should have a circulation of a quarter of a million copies by the time Congress meets, and it will have if the comrades work for it as it works for them.

TO BUILD A splendid monument to Gen. John A. Logan in the Capital of the Nation should be a pleasure to every citizen of the Grand Army of the Republic.

"WINNING GOLDEN OPINIONS." Commander-in-Chief Palmer is "winning golden opinions from all sorts of people."

His recent order in regard to the rebel flag meets with the most enthusiastic commendation from all but unconstructed rebels.

Have you asked all your acquaintances to subscribe for THE NATIONAL TRIBUNE? If not, do so at once, to give the paper more power in championing the cause of the exterminator.

A NORTHERN EULOGY OF A REBEL.

The Fields are a peculiar family. One brother achieved a great deal of notoriety a few years ago by erecting a costly monument to Maj. Andre, who was caught playing the spy within our lines during the Revolution, tried by a court-martial ordered by Washington, found guilty according to the laws of war, and very properly hanged.

There was nothing to make him different from other spies, except that he was caught with the proofs of his guilt upon him, which they are generally too smart to allow, and that he was a handsome young fellow who had been much petted in the Tory society of New York and Philadelphia.

Now, another brother, the Rev. Henry M. Field—a divine of National reputation—has done an equally unaccountable thing in writing a eulogistic biography of Stonewall Jackson, which is published, with abundance of fine illustrations, in Harper's Magazine for November.

Dr. Field's admiration for his hero is so great that he is not even shocked at Jackson's advocacy of raising the black flag. The Doctor, indeed, confesses that he wishes this were not so, but he is compelled to believe it on the evidence of Jackson's wife and brother-in-law, who have devoted a chapter in the biography of the former wrote of him to this subject.

Think of a Doctor of Divinity writing such feeble stuff in the broad light of the 19th century! We have not space to discuss the rest of this wearying article in detail. It is a painful exhibition of how far a gushing, emotional, half-informed man will go when he starts out to panegyricize a public enemy.

TO BRING COMRADES TOGETHER. The Committee on Reunions for the coming National Encampment is perfecting a scheme by which all comrades in attendance shall be brought at once into communication with the old comrades of their regiments, brigades, divisions and corps.

Dr. Field's article abounds in the most absurd misstatements. Speaking of the Shenandoah campaign of 1862, he says: "He was killed on a narrow one-way road (under Banks, Fremont, Shields, and Milroy), advancing upon him from different quarters, and outnumbered them all, attacking and defeating each in turn, till he drove them, one after another, out of the Valley, when he gave them all the slip, and crossing the Blue Ridge in one of his rapid marches, suddenly appeared on the flank of McClellan's army before Richmond."

THE CHILEAN SITUATION.

Matters in Chile do not improve as rapidly as had been hoped for. The victorious Congressmen are pursuing a very vindictive policy, which will long delay the tranquillizing of the country.

It becomes clear every day that the English are responsible for much of the bitterness stirred up against the Americans. The English have control of the immensely valuable nitrate deposits, and they fear that the Americans will compel a division of this monopoly.

Unless there is a radical change of policy by the new Administration which is now entering into power, it will become very necessary to make some demonstration against Chile which will bring the people there to their senses.

THE REMEDY.

The Chicago Tribune, an alleged Republican and an out-and-out Free Trade newspaper, is distinguishing itself by rabid tirades against the pension system.

We also welcome the Chicago Tribune's admission that the widows and orphans of veterans should be placed beyond the reach of want.

Certainly, they ought to go. So say we all. The only obstacle to the deserts going is that there is none on the pension roll.

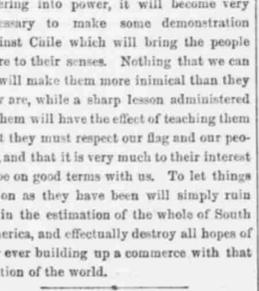

EVERY attempt to extend our trade in South America touches John Bull's excessively-sensitive touch nerve, and the agony is excruciating.

man's burning his barn to get rid of a few rats. As there are no deserters on the roll, so there can be no "bounty-jumper," for bounty-jumping necessarily involved desertion.

POLICE-INSPECTOR HUBBARD, of Chicago, deserves a general vote of thanks. Last week the Anarchists of that city held a meeting to celebrate the anniversary of the execution of the Haymarket murderers.

It was assailed by jeers in all the languages of Europe, but he was so determined in his bearing that the Anarchists finally weakened, and displayed the flag.

TRIBUNETS. A COMPARISON.

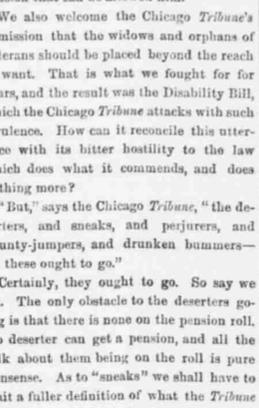

Sarsmith—Do you love poetry, Miss Maud? Miss Maud Brink (gushing)—Love it? I adore it! Poetry seems to lift me out of and beyond my every-day self.

A GOOD REASON. William Dickery—What broke off the engagement between you and Miss Randy Bitters, Ike?

Alkali Ike—Wal, you see, she kept pestering me to do something heroic to show my love for her. So, at the picnic day before yesterday, I told her to ring herself into the creek, which was considerably swollen at the time, and I would plunge in to rescue her. An' in she went.

A PECULIAR NOTE.

The Congregation (singing)—Rock of Ages, cleft for me— Alkali Ike (in the midst of the hymn)—Anour-r-r-r-r-r!

HALCTON. "Kershaw is the father of 18 children, all living!" "Hup! I don't know about that."

CONSERVAT. The Reverend Mr. Harps (to Farmer Grayneck)—Of course you will be glad to donate liberally to the Foreign Mission fund, Brother Grayneck? Grayneck—Wal, no, I reckon not, Parson. Rev. Harps—But, remember, Brother, 'He that giveth to the poor lendeth to the Lord,' an'—

FORCE OF HABIT. Femine Angel (greeting new arrival)—I am so glad to see you! It seems years and years since— New Arrival (also feminine)—One moment, dear! Is my crown on straight?

FORTHCOMING ATTRACTIONS. Good Things in Store for Readers of The National Tribune.

THE NATIONAL TRIBUNE for the coming year will be made unusually attractive and interesting. We have a great array of valuable features to present to our readers.

THE VICKSBURG CAMPAIGN. By Prof. C. A. Hobbs, of the Delaware (W.Va.) College. Prof. Hobbs was First Sergeant of Co. B, 9th Ill., and fought the entire campaign which he so graphically describes.

INDIAN STORIES. A Series of Exciting Narratives of Life, Loving, Hunting and Fighting on the Western Frontier. By Col. Henry Inman, the popular author.

LAZAR BEVERLY. An Interesting Romance. By Mrs. Olive Logan Sikes, the noted writer.

ON THE MEXICAN BORDER. By Col. A. G. Brackett, U.S.A.

A NOBLE ATONEMENT. An Interesting Story. By Mrs. Sophie Redfield de Meisner, of the Russian Legation.

SOUTH AFRICA. A Series of Letters from the Diamond Fields. By H. B. Harrison.

CARRYING THE FIRST MAIL SOUTH. By Geo. B. Hall.

AMONG THE MOONSHINERS OF NORTH CAROLINA. By Gen. Marcus J. Wright.

SOUTH AMERICAN SKETCHES. By Capt. Almont Barnes.

THE BELL WEATHER GUIDE. By Mrs. Louise Morgan Still (daughter of Gen. Morgan L. Smith), a Story of East Tennessee Loyalty.

This is only a partial list. Other attractive features will be announced from time to time.

PERSONAL. Southern papers claim that the first life lost in the late war for the Union was at Fort Sumter, after the surrender of the fort, and was a Federal soldier killed by the bursting of a cannon.

Old Comanche is dead. He was the most celebrated hero in the United States cavalry service, and he died at Fort Riley, Kan., on Thursday, Nov. 5, Comanche was the only living thing that escaped the massacre at Little Big Horn, where Custer and his command—the 7th Cav.—gave up their lives.

Comrade Joseph Lewis, Chief Bugler 104th Ill. Troop, Ill., was recently ordered before the Pension Examining Board at Atlanta, Ill. He had to travel 30 miles in an open buggy, and caught cold, which settled on his lungs, and he became pretty near joining the great majority, and is only able to walk at the present time by using two canes.

Comrade Joseph Lewis, Chief Bugler 104th Ill. Troop, Ill., was recently ordered before the Pension Examining Board at Atlanta, Ill. He had to travel 30 miles in an open buggy, and caught cold, which settled on his lungs, and he became pretty near joining the great majority, and is only able to walk at the present time by using two canes.

Comrade Joseph Lewis, Chief Bugler 104th Ill. Troop, Ill., was recently ordered before the Pension Examining Board at Atlanta, Ill. He had to travel 30 miles in an open buggy, and caught cold, which settled on his lungs, and he became pretty near joining the great majority, and is only able to walk at the present time by using two canes.

qualified, having military knowledge and experience, and, besides, he has hosts of friends in the Ohio National Guard, who would be much gratified at his appointment.

Miss Emma Connor, the school teacher of Clark Township, Ind., who made a fight upon some ruffians who tore the flag from her school-house, and who said that her father had died in defense of the flag, and, if necessary, she was willing to follow his example, was a handsome girl, and she is a native of Ohio.

Gen. Pullerton, President of the Chickamauga National Park Commission, was thrown from a carriage and badly injured on the battlefield of Chickamauga on the 20th inst. He is now in a hospital, and his head is badly cut, but the injuries are not thought to be dangerous.

The Gen. Sherman State Committee of the Society of the Army of the Tennessee, on Tuesday, Nov. 10, appointed Col. D. R. Henderson, Member of Congress from the Second District of Tennessee, Gen. John W. Noble, Secretary of the Interior, a Committee on Congressional Legislation, with instructions to ask for an appropriation of $20,000, the same amount granted for a site, pedestal, and statue in the case of Gen. Logan, Hancock, and Sheridan. The Army of the Ohio, composed of Cumberland, the Grand Army of the Republic, and the Loyal Legion were invited to cooperate through their chief officers, as well as citizens of the country, in the erection of the monument.

Col. Maurice S. Langhorne, of Lynchburg, Va., while dressing an abalone on his leg last week found part of the ball which was wounded at the battle of Gettysburg in his leg.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.

Gen. Louis Wagner, Colonel of the 8th Pa., was the principal speaker at a supper given last week by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Susquehanna Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. In the course of his remarks he alluded to his management of the Department of Public Works of Philadelphia, comparing himself to Wagner, the composer, of whose music the people of Germany at one time did not make anything but bad music.