

show the influence of heredity in this branch of the hardy Norse race.

The address of Graves, of Georgia, on lynching before the Chattanooga conference, was as revolting and atrocious an utterance as a respectable audience ever listened to in this country, and the Chattanooga audience are supposed to be the cream of respectability in the public mind that lynching was anarchy and riot and crime, but it was "here to stay," and he seemed to glory in the fact.

Democratic politicians are charged by Republicans with being engaged in a scheme to bring about a renewal of the strike in the Pennsylvania coal fields next year during the Presidential campaign. They have advanced the theory that the Hon. Charles H. Grosvenor, who was in the Cleveland-Harrison campaign of 1892, and doubtless imagine that if similar troubles can again be fomented the party in power, which is laid at the door of the party in power, with the result of a labor landslide toward the Democratic ticket.

A Smithsonian scientist has calculated that when a boy of 100 pounds eats two ounces of ice in five minutes, his stomach performs heat work equivalent to nearly an eighth of a horse-power. In a machine of that power, it would raise the boy 134 feet high.

The Republicans of Kentucky, who have nominated a Louisville business man for Governor, express confidence that conditions are as favorable for their success as in 1895, when W. O. Bradley was elected. The Republicans have a strong ticket and are united. Two former Democrats were prominent in the Republican convention. Its temporary chairman, William C. Owens, was temporary chairman of the Democratic National Convention in Chicago in 1892, and W. M. Beckner, its nominee for Attorney-General, was formerly a Democrat.

One of Uncle Sam's sailors writes to say that what the navy most needs now is more officers. The present estimate of the navy officer corps is that it will be short of an officer about 700 men and give proper instructions to each, yet that is what they are supposed to do. One cook for 100 men, as they are appointed now, is a poor ration. The food is excellent, but much is spoiled in the cooking.

It seems to be admitted that an inquiry into the award of contracts for the construction of an irrigating canal to connect the Truckee and Carson rivers, in Nevada, at an aggregate cost of $942,337. This is the first definite action taken by the Department looking to actual construction under the reclamation act. The proposed canal will be 30 miles in length, and its main purpose is to carry the waters of the Truckee River to a reservoir to be constructed in the valley of the Carson River. Incidentally, however, about 8,000 acres of land under the canal will be irrigated by it. Ultimately the project is expected to reclaim about 300,000 acres of arid lands in Western Nevada and Eastern California, including the old 40-mile desert.

It was reported that Murat Halstead, the veteran editor, is to be at the head of the School of Journalism provided for by Joseph Pulitzer, but Mr. Halstead denies the statement. The school has been endowed with $2,000,000 as a branch of Columbia University, New York.

The prediction made by some political economists that the time would come when capitalists would quarrel over the ownership of the air, as they then quarrel over the ownership of the land, seems to be verified. The German wireless telegraph trust and the proprietors of the Marconi system are now quarrelling over the right to use the atmosphere above the broad Atlantic.

The Louisiana press is almost unanimous in condemnation of the effort of the American Federation of Labor to organize the unskilled negro laborers of the South into a union. The New Orleans States, which is the recognized organ of the Louisiana Democracy, and a strong sympathizer with union labor, issues this warning: "It has been asserted by observers and writers and thinkers that the organization of the races in this country is inevitable in the course of centuries; that, beginning with the lowest classes of the colored race, will slowly but necessarily and irresistibly progress until in the end all visible traces of a negro race will have disappeared. We are wont to scoff at this theory, but nevertheless while we scoff that it is being done, and nothing will stop it outside of the color line, and the races. In our judgment the most insidious and dangerous advance made in this direction in recent years is this tendency to labor unionism to organize negro unions. It is a step between industrial fraternalism and social equality, and a very short step at that."

A Washington hotel guest, who comes from Texas, still triumphantly asserts the sovereignty of King Cotton in the New Orleans State. He says: "Since I left home I see our people are talking of a 4,000,000-bale crop, and this estimate is not too big, if the boll weevil or some other unlooked-for misfortune should not wipe out the crop. If the 4,000,000 yield does materialize, it ought, at $50 a bale, which is not too high an estimate, be worth to the cotton farmer $200,000,000. Here is a solid bit of money, a good bit more than the gold that is dug out of every mine in the Union, with Alaska thrown in. Cotton will still be King in Texas at least for many a year."

Mississippi has passed through the agencies of nominating a Democratic candidate for Governor, without any credit to herself. Edna Vandeman, who had killed two men and who had been sentenced to the penitentiary, went before the people and declared that the negroes should not be taught to read and write, and that the schools should be closed, at any rate, until the schools were closed. Mr. Vandeman received the most votes and will probably be nominated at the second ballot; the reactionists are in the saddle in Mississippi, and a blow has been struck at Democratic ascendancy in 1904 at Washington.

The debates of Senators Burton and Tillman at Western Chataqua have been well known Kansas farmer, publishers a letter saying that he "had been a very bad huckster," but now he "has confessed religion." He says Tillman and Burton saved him and he thanked God for it.

Accounts of the naval maneuvers off the coast of Maine make it appear that the practicability and trustworthiness of wireless telegraphy have had a complete vindication. The Olynx's prompt notification of the Kearsarge, 20 miles away, that the "enemy" had been sighted, and the repetition of the announcement to all the vessels of the fleet scattered from the Eastport to Cape Cod, is calculated to work a great change in naval strategy and tactics.

The merchant-marine is something concerning which theories are many and the orators multitudinous. Many Americans have come to believe that we have no mercantile marine worth speaking about, whereas official figures show that we rank second among the nations of the world in this respect, being exceeded only by Great Britain and her dependencies. The flag of Britain floats over nearly one-half the tonnage of the world, and the tonnage of the United States is calculated to be second among the nations of the world in this respect, being exceeded only by Great Britain and her dependencies. The flag of Britain floats over nearly one-half the tonnage of the world, and the tonnage of the United States is calculated to be second among the nations of the world in this respect, being exceeded only by Great Britain and her dependencies.

Were William H. Taft, Governor of the Philippines, to become Secretary of War, he would hold the position in President Roosevelt's Cabinet which his father, Alonzo Taft, occupied for three months in the Cabinet of Gen. Grant.

Tom Johnson, of Ohio, is bound to attract the lightning if a multiplicity of rods will do the business. His candidacy for Senator to succeed Mark Hanna, for Governor and for President, have all been announced. There is nothing incompatible in his worthy ambition to be the whole thing. He probably wants to be elected Governor, start the Legislature on the right track, and then be elected by the Senate, and then be nominated by it next Summer as Presidential candidate of the united and harmonious Democracy. From the Cleveland City Hall to the White House on a jump is a formidable task for one of Tom Johnson's avoirdupois. But what of that, if it adds to the interest of next year's politics?

The equestrian statue of Gen. W. T. Sherman has been placed on the pedestal in the grounds south of the Treasury Department, and the monument will be ready for the unveiling long before October 15, the anniversary of the death of the general. The statue is here with the exception of the figure of war, which will not be completed until some time in September.

Agent Brusius, of a League formed to protect the rights of the Indians, has created a sensation by making charges against Government officials. The Interior Department asserts that the same allegations have been under investigation for months. Meantime there is apprehension in the Indian Office that the stir which has been aroused over the alleged frauds will lead to a general investigation in which case much that has been hinted at from time to time for years would have to be brought to the light of day. Indian Commissioner Jones is believed to be sincere in his desire to see the situation, and if he can have his way there will be an investigation that will cut to the bone and rid the service of a number of evils that have infested it for years.

The International Typographical Union, in the closing hours of its recent session in Washington, contributed $100 as evidence of sympathy for the strikers of Philadelphia, though not in affiliation with the organization which conducts the strike.

The outbreak of the color line in the Navy gives serious concern to the Department. It is a difficult matter to get the right kind of men for sailors now, and it is believed that this new and unexpected complication will make it infinitely more so.

The postal investigation will never cause a ripple in the Newport (Neb.) office, says the striking movement for the post office, "advises this incorruptible official in the Newport Republican. 'Owners may have some by calling. We have a good one of our own.'"

Justice Brewer, of the Federal Supreme Bench, contributes his remedy to the evil of lynching. He would have not only speedy trials but fewer of them. He would give the rights of appeal in criminal cases, except in those where the trial judge should certify to his doubt on some point of law involved. This would reduce the trial mainly to a determination of the facts, and the law as given by it by the presiding judge.

Gov. Durbin, of Indiana, received a letter from Stephen A. Reese, of New Albany, saying that he had just presented him with twins, the third in succession that have come to them. Gov. Durbin inclosed the Reese letter in one to the President, in which he called attention to the fact that the law as given by the Chief Magistrate did not think that Reese is entitled to be ranked with those who are trying to counteract race suicide.

Canton, a historic old town of Missouri, has a curious post office. The boxes open directly on the street, and the holder of a box-key can get his mail any time he wants it, day or night. Although this offers exceptional opportunity for robbery, none has ever been reported.

It is claimed that speculators have for some time past been absorbing Government lands, largely through a perversion of the homestead law. The speculators claim acts, at the rate of 2,000,000 acres or more per month. Their operations have doubtless been hastened by a fear that Congress will at its next session cut off their present opportunity by adopting President Roosevelt's recommendation for a revision or repeal of these laws.

The Gould system, the Southern and Union Pacific lines, and a transportation company generally rejoice in the action of the Kansas Senate. Probably the greatest effect of the defeat of the Panama project will be the encouragement it will give to the ship subsidy people. Had it been carried, the millions of dollars in gold would have been withdrawn from the United States Treasury as a payment to Colombia. This heavy drain would have been followed by additional New York in anticipation of the Government construction of the Panama Canal, began some time ago to limit their line of credits on call loans. The great Panama project will be a serious blow for 35 years Collis P. Huntington found the Isthmian Canal project, and at his death the work was taken up by others.

Postmaster-General Payne tells how Secretary Root narrowly escaped being President, he having declined the offer of the Vice-Presidential nomination in 1900 made by the National Committee; at least, he wrote that committee a letter declining the nomination.

Horse meat is consumed in large quantities by the Belgians. Reports received from Belgium state that the country annually imports into Belgium for food purposes. For the year 1902, of a total of 35,381 horses imported, 17,119 were sent to Belgium. The statistics for ordinary use show a decided decrease while on the other hand horses for slaughter have increased, the majority coming from England.

The dreadful loss of life in the accident on the underground railway in Paris recalls the remark of George Westinghouse that the use of electricity for transportation is either a very practical way, by establishing—under its own control, though managed by a concessionaire—an "inside Inn" on the grounds. It contains "2,500 plastered rooms, 600 baths and 600 conveniences of the most practical kind. Rooms can be obtained for $1.50 per day, which includes an all-day ticket to the grounds, paid for by the inn.

When in St. Louis the other day Sam Jones, the evangelist, paid an odd tribute to Prosecuting Attorney Folk, saying that the trouble with most investigations is that they are like the hunt for a possum, hunting with a dog that is smaller than the possum. Such a man will bring home a dead dog. Now, Mr. Folk is a big dog, and he has followed with excellent results by Lieut. Everhardt, who is now on recruiting duty.

The recent earthquake shock at St. Louis has been repeated in frequent experience in that city. A sudden tremor, a general jumping out of bed, the fall of a few bricks from chimneys here and there, a few insecurely balanced vases tumbled from mantels, and the thing is over. This is the history of a score or more of "quakes" during the past 40 years. Seismologists describe St. Louis as being located just on the edge of the world's great seismic zone, and that as between all serious shocks have occurred. The World's Fair period might afford visitors the additional attraction of a possible "quake"—something more to tell about after reaching home.

Secretary Shaw and Director of Mint George E. Roberts have accepted invitations to attend the American Mining Congress at Deadwood, S. D., Sept. 7. Secretary Shaw will be present as the personal representative of President Roosevelt. One of the most important topics scheduled for discussion is the question of establishing a Government Department of Mining.

Chief Statistician Powers, of the Census Bureau, has transmitted to the Director a report on the status of the country in the year 1902. It shows that there are 4,885 irrigators in the States that the irrigated area covers 15,262 acres. The cost of the system was $2,320,758, and the total length of main ditches 1,065 miles.

The Civil Service rules do not apply to Consular offices, and no competitive examination of applicants takes place now, though some 20 years ago there were such examinations to a certain extent. Applicants to salaried Consular positions up to and including those paying $2,000 a year have to pass a non-competitive examination embracing the ordinary examination for positions in the public service and in addition an acquaintance with the elements of International Law and the volume of the United States Consular regulations.

So indignant is one Republican member of Congress over the curt order being given by the Army and the Interior to offer a joint exhibition, providing that a gold medal shall be struck, commemorating the event and presented to the old hero, who has been in more battles than any living American General. He claims that the medal should be struck, and the resolution will also provide that a large number of duplicate medals in bronze be cast, and given to such officers as Gen. Miles may select.

Under the General Staff system just put in force at the War Department there will be in time of peace a rigid investigation of all branches of the service. Information will be gathered by the members of the General Staff concerning the resources of all world powers. Imaginary campaigns will be planned against them. The roads and bridges, the climate and the possibility of sustaining an army on the soil of foreign countries will be considered. With the information collated by the members of the General Staff the head of the Army will have at immediate command every detail needed for the operation of an army of offense and defense. As has been repeatedly asserted, the departure does not mean the building up of a military system which shall endanger, even remotely, existing institutions.

It does not mean that the Nation proposes to engage in war or that the authorities fear a world struggle. On the contrary, the present movement for the new and better army is that a state of preparedness is the best insurance against war.

The New York Times, which has no reputation for sensationalism, comes forward with statements reflecting on Secretary Hitchcock of the Interior Department. It says that formal charges have been made against Secretary Hitchcock, which Mr. Hitchcock's friends are interested as stockholders. The Secretary enters a specific denial. He says: "Every cent of the money obtained from the sale of town lots in the Oklahoma territory, which Mr. Hitchcock's friends are interested as stockholders, has been deposited in the Subtreasury at St. Louis, where it remains to this day, except that which had been spent according to law."

Exposing the motives of those who inspire the charges against him, Secretary Hitchcock goes on to say: "We have found all sorts of wholesale rascality down there. Bills for public works have been higher than the price of tin. Inspectors to look over the work represented to be performed, and found that it had not been done satisfactorily. In one case a contractor sent in a bill and employed a man to get his bill paid by me, and he found that the work in question had not been done at all, and we had the United States Attorney proceed against the contractor for attempted bribery, and he is to-day a fugitive from justice. There are over 100 bridges and we found that rotten piles had been used and that mud had been thrown in behind the stonework, and we would not pay a dollar on those bridges."

Before leaving Washington Secretary Root issued an order directing that the highest honor men from the six leading colleges where Army officers are detailed as military instructors shall be eligible to appointment as Second Lieutenants in the Army.

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Armstrong and Assistant United States Treasurer Fish and Collector Stranahan, of New York, have been ordered by the United States Fish Commission to make use of his private car for an extended fishing and hunting trip in the West. The party will leave here Aug. 29, for Chicago, and will follow an itinerary which will extend as far as the Pacific Coast and will include a week's stay in the Yellowstone Park.

Addicks, the Delaware politician and Senatorial aspirant, is in trouble which may impair his political prestige. Suit has been commenced by George Wharton Post, of Philadelphia, receiver of the Bay State Gas Company, against Delaware, against J. Edward Addicks, United States Senator J. Frank Ailes, and others, alleging fraud in connection with a transaction involving the stock of the company, said to be valued at $75,000,000. The bill charges the defendants as directors, except Addicks, with entering into an unlawful combination to issue to Addicks a large number of shares of the Bay State Gas Company without consideration.

One shrewd commentator figures out that the Buddhist nation that a shorter route to eternal bliss is found by feeding a self to a tiger is paralleled by Gen. Miles's idea that a nomination for the Presidency, in opposition to Theodore Roosevelt, would afford him a personal vindication.

The St. Louis World's Fair management appears to have solved the problem of preventing over-charges by hotel and restaurant houses in a very practical way, by establishing—under its own control, though managed by a concessionaire—an "inside Inn" on the grounds. It contains "2,500 plastered rooms, 600 baths and 600 conveniences of the most practical kind. Rooms can be obtained for $1.50 per day, which includes an all-day ticket to the grounds, paid for by the inn.

An interesting story comes from the Lake Champlain region to the effect that at a conference of Republican leaders in Congress it has been decided to name Joseph W. Babcock, Representative from Wisconsin, Chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means, which would carry with it the right to make a study of the floor of the House of Representatives.

There is less talk now of an extra session of Congress in October. A watch has been lowered upon them so rapidly and if they are left to assimilate and absorb what has already been given them, before attempting more advanced problems, good results may be expected. The people, a class of kind and impulsive in their action and are sincerely anxious to learn and to improve. One thing must be remembered, and that is that a solid foundation must be laid before the superstructure is put on. There is needed, reformers, courts and methods of procedure; honest municipal administration with thorough rooting up of old and corrupt methods accompanied by an honest sanitary reform; construction of proper hospitals and schools; also a thorough reformation of the present educational methods, with the construction of suitable buildings; and a more earnest and systematic enforcement of the former reforms; a term of multitudinous office-holders in the ruined public buildings of towns with empty treasuries, ghastly hospitals and impossible streets.

Washington correspondents credit Senator Gorham with a program of Democratic helpfulness in the next Congress which may prove as valuable to the country as it would be strengthening to the party. The Gorham program is said to be one of unvarying support for measures for which there is any general demand. There will be no such thing as a veto; nothing will be done to block good measures. The purpose, of course, is to place the responsibility for any failure to pass legislation on the shoulders of the public majority, and in case of popular dissatisfaction to point to the record of Democratic members to show that it was not owing to obstructive tactics on their part that nothing was done.

An entirely unexpected and somewhat sensational feature of the recent Republican convention in Nebraska, the home of Bryan, has created widespread comment. It was the adoption by unanimous vote of a resolution declaring John L. Webster, Governor of Nebraska, delegate to the Convention and one of the well-known leaders of the State, to be the choice of Nebraska Republicans for Vice President in 1904. Mr. Webster expressed his thanks for the honor in a speech of considerable length.

One trenchant resolution in the Nebraska platform was the following: "We condemn the present administration of the public lands that the Administration of our National affairs and our negotiations with foreign nations are being conducted by a State American people who desire in honor with a second term as the Chief Magistrate of the greatest and grandest Nation of the earth—Theodore Roosevelt."

Officials of the Bureau of Education have been gathering information as to the present and prospective amounts of the State school funds, the manner of investment, etc. The surprising fact is disclosed that the comparatively youthful State of Minnesota has a great many tracts with one exception, already in hand, and has future prospects far transcending any other. Minnesota has over $12,000,000 in school funds, all seemingly invested and yielding a goodly return of interest. The ultimate amount of the fund is estimated as high as $100,000,000. Uncounted thousands of acres of valuable agricultural and timber lands remain unsold, but the most valuable tract of mineral land in the world-famed "Iron Range," which is never sold. The ore on this land is sold on a high royalty to miners, and the beds are often inexhaustible.

An official says: "There are several 40-acre tracts in the iron ranges, each of which, when the mines are developed, will bring into the State Treasury from $5,000,000 to $8,000,000 in iron royalties, at the rate of 25 cents for each ton of ore mined. The fund has a great many tracts, which will bring $1,000,000 cash. This fund is the largest fee owner of iron lands in the State."

A South Carolina transient in Washington says: "With the better and the higher South Senator Tillman has no connection or sympathy. To the business interests even of his own State he is distinctly antagonistic, and he is a serious obstacle to that work of Southern development to which we are pledged ourselves with heart and soul. He does not represent the real South Carolina; he has no claim or authority to speak for the rest of the South."

The Turkish Minister in Washington tells the following incident illustrating the cleverness of American beggars: "One of them told me a moving tale of misfortune; then he asked me for a little money. 'I put my hand in my pocket, to find the usual alms,' said the beggar; 'but, all the same,' he added fretfully, 'you wouldn't believe the amount of credit I give in this way.'"

THE AMERICAN SPANISH WAR.
different towns made self-supporting as far as possible. The courts, including the Supreme Court, have been put in thorough working order; freedom given the press, and the people granted a Bill of Rights which gives them the privilege of free assembly, a guarantee of prompt trial, and the right to give bail for all offenses. Capital. Good public spirit is rapidly developing and the people are all interested in the welfare of the province and the improvement of the public schools. The latter is the true interest in the schools, which is very keen, and in the establishment of a thorough judicial system. They are anxious to have a modification of the existing methods of procedure and also to have a public school system on the same basis as the public school system of the United States. There is a strong spirit of patriotism and a desire for a more uniformity, which spirit, while it recognizes the necessity of a Central Government, wishes it to be as limited in its jurisdiction as possible and as inexpensive as consistent with efficiency.

The revenues of the province are ample for the maintenance of the present form of Government and for the support of the public schools. The latter are being improved by the maintenance of several thousand men engaged in public works, such as road building and harbor improvements. Several hundred miles of road have been built. Plans for harbor improvements in the larger towns have been completed, and in Santiago the Barber Asphalt Company are laying five miles of pavement, at the same time putting in modern sewer and a modern water system, as the work is completed. Dredging plans for the harbor have been finished and work is about to begin. In addition to paying the expenses of the Civil Government, $200,000 was saved from the province revenue of the province between July 17 and Dec. 31, 1898. This will be devoted to payment for the dredging. The improvement of the harbor is a project which the people are anxious to assist in every way in these public works.

The present condition of the province is one which promises well for the future, and if the details of the Civil Government are not hurriedly and rapidly adopted if they are left to assimilate and absorb what has already been given them, before attempting more advanced problems, good results may be expected. The people, a class of kind and impulsive in their action and are sincerely anxious to learn and to improve. One thing must be remembered, and that is that a solid foundation must be laid before the superstructure is put on. Any Old Excuse Wouldn't Do.
The late Henry G. Morse, President of the New York Shipbuilding Company, was one day visited by a man of questionable repute who wished to borrow money whereupon to launch a questionable enterprise. Mr. Morse gave some polite excuses for his unwillingness to lend, and the man declared that he regarded this excuse as somewhat fishy. Thereupon, smilingly, Mr. Morse said: "I have a little story to tell you. Once upon a time an Arab went to his neighbor and said: 'Lend me your rope.' 'I can't,' said the neighbor. 'Why can't you?' 'Because I want to use the rope myself.' 'What do you want to do with it?' the borrower persisted. 'I want to tie up five cubic feet of water with it,' was the reply. 'How on earth,' the other sneered, 'can you tie up water with a rope?' 'My friend,' said the neighbor, 'Allah is great, and he permits us to do strange things with a rope when we don't want to lead it.'"
