accused of shooting Spaniards in the back to bring how the man who had made the war in an admiration was pictured as everything a President ought not to be.

at Oberlin and the Ohio Wesleyan University at Delaware. The latter institution conferred the emeritus degree on the subject of this sketch in 1899. Gov. Herrick went to Cleveland in 1875, entered the law offices of J. F. & G. E. Herrick, and was admitted to the bar in 1878.

ANDREW L. HARRIS.

1857, and elected Lieutenant-Governor in 1891 and re-elected in 1893. When a candidate for Congress in the Third District in 1894, Gen. Harris reduced the normal Democratic majority from 4,000 to 202.

THE OHIO CAMPAIGN.

Option Bill, yet the bill was passed and remains today upon the statute books, new witness to the fact that Mr. Cox does not control the Ohio lawmaking body.

During the special session of the Legislature in 1902, when the Municipal Code was being constructed, the so-called Cox delegation worked and voted for the old Board plan of Government, namely the rotary or continuous board plan.

Members of the Cox delegation bitterly opposed the Board plan which was adopted. Under the plan adopted the terms of all the members on the Board expired simultaneously, making it as easy to oust as a single official.

The School Code Bill which finally passed the Legislature was opposed by the members who had at all times fought the so-called Cox School Code, which latter measure was defeated.

One of the most farcical features of the Ohio campaign is the profession of the Democracy that it represents President Roosevelt—that a vote for the Democratic ticket is a vote for the Roosevelt ticket.

The Democratic Party must think we have short memories, to believe their pretensions. We have no desire whatever to dig up history, but Cox and Herrick will reprint the speech in which Parker assailed Roosevelt and the answer which Roosevelt made to him.
