

Cabbage salad is typically German. Either white or red cabbage may be used. Strip off the leaves, slice and mix thoroughly with a little salt, pound and let stand for three hours in a covered dish. Then pour the liquid, add lemon juice and oil, with a little more salt if necessary. Mix well and serve, using the red cabbage to garnish the other or to serve separately. Sometimes takes the place of oil in the Junghorn salads, the cream being mixed with a little lemon juice.

To make mushroom patties melt a quarter of a cup of butter in a saucepan, put in three cups of mushrooms, season with salt and pepper, and simmer gently for 10 minutes, stirring frequently. Drain off the liquid, add one tablespoonful of flour, stir well, then add slowly one cup of boiling milk and cook five minutes longer. Fill hot potato shells with the mixture and serve.

A good lamb stew with dumplings can be made as follows: Two pounds of lamb, one large white turnip, three large onions, three large potatoes, one cup of peas that have been soaked for two or three hours. Wash the meat and put it on to stew in cold water—about two quarts, so as not to have to add more water while cooking. Add the peas at the same time, and let stew two or three hours, then add the vegetables in quarters, all but the turnip—it is best to slice that. Let all cook until tender, then drop in the dumplings, made as follows: One and a half cups of flour, two teaspoons of baking powder, one heaping teaspoon of lard, water to form a stiff dough. Drop from large teaspoon into boiling stew, cover tightly and boil 15 minutes. Be sure to have the dumplings to the top of the meat, as the dumplings will be too soggy if they are submerged.

There isn't anything in the eating line much better than apple fritters. Make a batter by mixing together one cup of flour, two-thirds of a cup of water, two eggs, two tablespoons of butter, a little salt and pepper and a very little celery salt. Let the batter stand for a couple of hours, then fold in the apples previously whipped. Have ready a pan of hot oil, and dip each piece into the batter, then fry in hot lard until a deep brown. Drain on brown paper, sprinkle with finely grated cheese and serve.

A recipe for squash biscuit that has been tested is as follows: To two cups of cooked and sifted squash add two tablespoons of milk, one-quarter cup of sugar, one-half cup of butter, a pinch of salt and half an egg dissolved in two tablespoons of water. Mix with flour enough to make a dough that can be rolled out. Cover and let rise over night, or use a whole yeast cake and mix in the morning. When well risen shape into biscuits, and after they are risen bake.

Crab-apple "jell" is the pride of every housewife's preserve closet. Wash and quarter the apples, if large. Cover an inch or two in depth with cold water and boil to a pulp; put into a double cheesecloth strainer and let drain. When cool enough press and squeeze. Heat the juice and skim, then boil 20 minutes and add three-quarters of a pound of sugar to each pound of juice. First heat the jelly in the oven. Boil five minutes. Just before removing from the fire add spices to taste.

Scrambled eggs with tomatoes are made by beating six eggs, then adding a cupful of stewed tomatoes and salt and pepper to taste. Turn into a hot omelette pan and stir until the mixture is slightly set and then scramble.

This makes the cheapest, the healthiest and the easiest to get over cake in the world: One cup sugar, one-half cup butter, one-half cup sweet milk, two eggs, three eggs, three teaspoons baking powder.

To make bean salad cut or break the beans and wash them. Boil in boiling water till soft. Put them in the strainer till they are cold. Have ready a plentiful supply of sauce made of one cup of vinegar, one cup of oil, a little salt and sugar and plenty of oil, adding to taste some of the water the beans were boiled in. Pour this over the beans and mix thoroughly. This salad, like asparagus salad, should always be mixed 12 hours before using. The asparagus salad is prepared the same way, omitting the parsley.

Tablets Dedicated to Gens. George H. Stannard and William Wells in the State House, Vermont.

Oct. 5 the tablets in honor of Gen. George H. Stannard and Gen. William Wells in the State House of Vermont at Montpelier were dedicated with appropriate exercises. Tablets are in the lower corridor, behind the flights of stairs which lead to the chambers. That of Gen. Wells is the work of Miss Mary Stannard of Rutland, and is decorated in his relief, with crossed muskets.

The Stannard tablet recites that Gen. Jerryon Stannard was the first volunteer from Vermont, and that he was then Colonel of the 9th Vt. He was commissioned Major-General and brevetted a Major-General for distinguished valor at the capture of Fort Harrison. At Gettysburg, while commanding the 9th Vermont Infantry, he was in the crisis of the battle, he made the flank attack which threw Pickett's column into confusion. He was repeatedly wounded, and his name as an officer in the State received so many deserved promotions.

The tablet to Gen. Wells is decorated with crossed sabres, a rifle, and a sword. It gives his military history from his enlistment as a private in Co. C, 1st Vt. Cav., to his brevetting as Brigadier-General for his heroic conduct at Gettysburg. In the latter battles of the war he commanded a brigade, and was the last commander of the Cavalry Corps. The dedication took place in the presence of a large gathering of Vermont's leading men. Gov. Proouty opened the exercises with a speech, expressing his pleasure at the having performed a noble duty. Gen. Geo. F. Baker of Burlington, responded for the tablet in honor of Gen. Stannard. As a boy he had received his first commission from Gen. Stannard, and served upon his staff and knew him intimately. "He was a gallant, truthful, unselfish patriot and his fame is a priceless inheritance of his native State."

Capt. H. O. Wheeler spoke for the Gen. Wells tablet, and described Gen. Wells as a brave, energetic, and a natural product of the State. He possessed the strength and firmness of the rugged mountains and the charm and attractiveness of the best Vermont boys. He was a strict disciplinarian, but exceedingly considerate and careful of his men and brave to the last extreme when action was required. While serving with the regiment he took part in 22 battles and while as brigade and division commander in 18 battles, making a total of 40 to his credit.

The Indian War Veterans, an organization with headquarters at 1643 Market Street, Boston, at their last regular meeting decided to send two delegates, Henry Heaver, National Commander, and C. R. Hauser, National Secretary, to inaugurate a vigorous campaign for the purpose of procuring pensions for those noble and brave soldiers who defended the frontier in the early days and who have so far been unjustly neglected by this Government, whose great western empire they so valiantly protected, making it possible for this generation to develop its unlimited resources and live in peace and prosperity.

Ex-Prisoners of War. F. W. Morris, Yuma, Tenn., regrets much that the G. A. R. Pension Committee left out all mention of the ex-prisoners of war, whom he thinks the most deserving class of veterans. His idea is that those who were in prison three months should have $3 added to their pensions, six months $5 and those more $9.

A Misguided Candidate. Comrade Henry H. Guehebe, Hamilton, O., says that the Republican has nominated for Congress George H. Young, whose first speech, at a place called Okenna, was chiefly directed against Speaker Cannon. The man has made a mistake, because the veterans stand by their good friend, who has been so useful to them in the past.

NATHAN MUNSHOWER,
The National Commander of the Union Veteran Legion.

Comrade Munshower, who was elected at Atlantic City National Commandery of the Union Veteran Legion, enlisted Aug. 26, 1861, in Co. H, 52d Pa. Infantry, in that regiment until it was mustered out Sept. 16, 1864. He took part in every battle, march and expedition of the regiment during its three years of service, which is saying as much as can be said for any man, since the 52d Pa. began its career as the Peninsular campaign, Gettysburg, the Wilderness, Cold Harbor, the siege of Petersburg, Fort Steuart, and the campaign at Fort Donelson, and the Creek in the pursuit of Lee.

THE COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF.
He and the Adjutant-General Visit Harrisburg and Gettysburg.

The Commander-in-Chief and Adjutant-General have just returned from a delightful trip to Harrisburg, where they were the guests of Col. M. Schenck, who is now in command of the 1st Brigade of the 11th Division. They attended the dedication of the magnificent Memorial Building, which should be the shrine of every Grand Officer elected for the coming year are as follows: President, F. S. Fergies, Huntingdon, Pa.; First Vice President, J. S. Lempach, Williamsport, Pa.; Secretary, H. P. Smith, New Castle, Pa.

The 3d Pa. H. A. and the 188th Pa. The 25th Annual Reunion of the 3d Pa. H. A. and the 188th Pa. was held at Huntingdon, Pa. and the 18th of the 188th Pa. was held at Harrisburg, Pa. About 70 were present, including the families of the comrades. Twenty-five members died during 1909. The Army Comrades' Association, which was organized at Harrisburg, Pa., on Sept. 7, and were most cordially entertained by the comrades and his wife.

The National Vintennant.
(Maj. D. E. Proctor in Manchester (N. H.) Union.)
The defeat of Comrade McElroy was brought about by that element in the G. A. R. who are opposed to his further increase in pensions. Men who by special acts and favoritism are receiving very liberal pensions and fat Government positions are not to be met and their viciousness proved. To show how they worked a man approached me with:

"How New Hampshire?"
"New Hampshire will vote for Gilman except one. I am for McElroy."
"Comrade," he said, "you make a great mistake. McElroy is going to destroy the G. A. R. Do you know the extent of the St. Cloud steal? One of the wickedest swindles ever committed on the old soldier."
When I stammered a reply he cut me short by saying: "You don't know McElroy."

The Comrade From Florida.
Later I met a comrade with a Florida tag. Comrade, how far from St. Cloud do you live?"
"Right there."
"How bad did McElroy fool you?"
"Fool me? Best place I ever lived in. Beats old New Hampshire all out."
"Are you a New Hampshire man?"
"Yes, I am. I served in Col. Harriman's regiment. Here's a picture of my horse."
"What did it cost you?"
"About a thousand."
"Can you get it for it now?"
"Yes, and $500 more."
"Do you wish to sell?"
"No, it was my wife's by his side, and I'll rid you of your asthma."

I'll Rid You of Your Asthma
I Will Send You A Free Trial Of My Treatment To Prove Its Wonderful Effects.

For years and years, thousands of sufferers have been following the beaten path in the treatment of their asthma, and still gasping and clutching for breath. The ordinary so-called "remedies" are but habitual failures. I have tried them all, as a physician. It was not until I almost felt as if the hand of death was clutching at my throat, and that every breath I drew would be my last, that I sought a cure. At last I discovered my own treatment, used it, and in an angel's breath I was cured. My asthma will never return, and I can now breathe as freely as ever. I can now do my work, and I can now enjoy life as I never did before. I can now breathe as freely as ever. I can now do my work, and I can now enjoy life as I never did before. I can now breathe as freely as ever. I can now do my work, and I can now enjoy life as I never did before.

REUNION AT MANCHESTER.
The Reunion of Pennsylvania soldiers at Manchester, Pa., Sept. 8, was a most enjoyable one. Several hundred veterans were in the city, and the veterans on the line of march were received with enthusiasm. A stand was erected, around which several hundred little ones marched, singing patriotic songs and waving flags. Co. K, 199th Pa. held a Reunion at the Nantawan home, near White Oak Station, on Sept. 7, and were most cordially entertained by the comrades and his wife.
