In all other cases where a general law can be made applicable, no special law shall be enacted in any of the Territories of the United States by the Territorial legislatures thereof.
Sec. 2. That no Territory of the United States now or hereafter to be organized, or any political or municipal corporation or sub-division of any such Territory, shall hereafter make any subscription to the capital stock of any incorporated company, or company or association having corporate powers, or in any manner loan its credit to or use it for the benefit of any such company or association, or bestow any money for the use of any such company or association.
Sec. 3. That no law of any Territorial legislature shall authorize any debt to be contracted by or on behalf of such Territory except in the following cases: To meet a casual deficit in the revenues, to pay the interest upon the Territorial debt, to suppress insurrections, or to provide for the public defense, except that in addition to any indebtedness created for such purposes, the legislature may authorize a loan for the erection of penal, charitable or educational institutions for such Territory, if the total indebtedness of the Territory is not thereby made to exceed one per centum upon the assessed value of the taxable property in such Territory as shown by the last general assessment for taxation. And nothing in this act shall be construed to prohibit the refunding of any existing indebtedness of such Territory or of any political or municipal corporation, county, or other sub-division therein.
Sec. 4. That no political or municipal corporation, county, or other sub-division in any of the Territories of the United States shall ever become indebted in any manner or for any purpose to any amount in the aggregate, including existing indebtedness, exceeding four per centum on the value of the taxable property within such corporation, county, or sub-division, to be ascertained by the last assessment for Territorial and county taxes previous to the incurring of such indebtedness; and all bonds or obligations in excess of such amount given by such corporation shall be void. That nothing in this act contained shall be so construed as to affect the validity of any act of any Territorial legislature heretofore enacted, or of any obligations existing or contracted thereunder, nor to preclude the issuing of bonds already contracted for in pursuance of express provisions of law; nor to prevent any Territorial legislature from legalizing the acts of any county, municipal corporation, or sub-division of any Territory as to any bonds heretofore issued or contracted to be issued.
SEC. 5. That section eighteen hundred and eighty-nine, title twenty-three, of the Revised Statutes of the United States be amended to read as follows:
"The legislative assemblies of the several Territories shall not grant private charters or special privileges, but they may, by general incorporation acts, permit persons to associate themselves together as bodies corporate for mining, manufacturing, and other industrial pursuits, and for conducting the business of insurance, banks of discount and deposit (but not of issue) loan, trust, and guarantee associations, and for the construction or operation of railroads, wagon-roads, irrigating ditches, and the colonization and improvements of lands in connection therewith, or for colleges, seminaries, churches, libraries, or any other benevolent, charitable, or scientific association.
SEC. 6. That nothing in this act contained shall be construed to abridge the power of Congress to annul any law passed by a Territorial legislature or to modify any existing law of Congress requiring in any case that the laws of any Territory shall be submitted to Congress.
SEC. 7. That all acts and parts of acts hereafter passed by any Territorial legislature in conflict with the provisions of this act shall be null and void.
Approved, July 30, 1886.

After the cowboy had waited for a quarter of an hour and his hunger remained unsatisfied he began to grow angry and impatient and the atmosphere grew sulphurous from the effects of muttered oaths.
A man sitting opposite to the knight of the plains noticed that he was being neglected, and said, "You will never get waited on here unless you tip the waiters. Everybody has to do it that patronizes the place." "Well, I'll tip the next one that comes by this table," was the response of the irate cowboy. Sure enough the next waiter that passed was tipped—under the table, where the gentleman from the far west tried to mop up the floor with him. Peace was soon restored, and when the wild westerner was re-commissioned with, he explained: "Well, I was told to tip a waiter and I took the first one that came handy."—Chicago News.
A Mystery.
How the human system ever recovers from the bad effects of the noxious medicines often literally poured into it for the supposed relief of dyspepsia, liver complaint, constipation, rheumatism and other ailments, is a mystery. The mischief done by bad medicines is scarcely less than that caused by disease. If they who are weak, bilious, dyspeptic, constipated or rheumatic, would obtain the speediest aid derivable from rational medication. This medicine is a searching and at the same time a thoroughly safe remedy, derived from vegetable sources, and possessing, in consequence of its basis of pure spirits, properties as a medicinal stimulant not to be found in the fiery local bitters and stimulants often resorted to by the debilitated, dyspeptic and languid.
Turn the Rascal Out.
"My dear," said a young wife to her husband, who had already fallen into the habit of going to the lodge in the evening, and who was just preparing to go out, "I am going up the street to see the superintendent of males at the postoffice."
"Ah! On what business, may I inquire?"
"Well, I want to see if he can give me any advice about getting in an habitually late male on time."
The husband blushed, looked foolish, and said he guessed he wouldn't go to the lodge.

SUNDAY SMILES.
A teacher in one of our grammar schools was giving her class a lesson in the art of putting words into sentences. The words selected, with their definitions, were "aqueduct, a conductor," and "effervescence, to work." One of the sentences handed in was: "My father is an aqueduct and has to effervesce very hard."—Harper's Bazaar.
"Laura," said Mrs. Parvau, on the hotel piazza, to her daughter, "Laura, go and ask the leader of them orchestras to play that 'symphony from Middlejohn' over again. It's such an awful favorite of mine, and your father's, too."—Boston Traveller.
"Mr. Jones," said the end man with the insinuating voice for which he ceased to be famous some time during the reign of Elizabeth, "can you tell me how to invest money so that it can go the farthest?" "No, Mr. Thompson, I am not aware that I can. How do you invest money so that it will go the farthest?" "Why, you buy postage stamps, to be sure." The orchestra played, and Bones sang, "Why is our Grover's vest cut so low?"—Tid-Bits.

A Civil Service romance from the Washington Critic: "Fannie," he said to her, "I love you with my whole heart, and I want you to be my wife. It is true I am only a department clerk, with $1,400 a year, but Fannie, money doesn't buy happiness. Do you love me, darling?" "Oo-oo," she cooed, nestling her head on his new coat front. "And you do love me?" he exclaimed, with confidence. "You love me with your whole soul and being?" "Maybe not quite that much," she gurgled, "but I love you $1,400 worth George, and that's $400 more than I ever loved any other living man."
