LOCAL NEWS.

The Board of Health, held a meeting to-day.

The Cladine took eight visitors to Hilo yesterday, who are en route to the Volcano.

Wonder how much water was retained in the Nuuanu reservoirs after last night's rain.

A heavy thunder storm accompanied with wind and rain, passed over the city last night.

The P. G. Band played on the Palace ground, this morning. That's right Berger, cheer them up.

It was very thoughtful of an afternoon paper, to announce to the public, why Mr. Potter did not appear in uniform yesterday.

Rev. Howland will hold his last service on Thursday evening the 9th inst. at 7:30 p. m. at the Arton Hall. Everybody welcome.

Why the Star should attack Paymaster J C Sullivan in the manner it does is beyond comprehension. But—then; it is the character of that sheet to vilify.

A spar buoy was sighted from the steamer W. G. Hall last Monday off Hawaii. The steamer was stopped, and the buoy picked up, and brought to town. About 25 fathoms of chain was attached to it.

A Chinaman apparently with the intention of committing suicide, jumped from a shore boat at the boat landing, into the water this forenoon. He was rescued from his watery grave, by a boat boy and water policeman Patterson.

We understand that the young lady who wrote the poem published in last evening's Star,—“The Navy in Verse”—poured out her soul to such an extent, that she has had a fit. She probably will never more write any such lines.

The gentleman of Scottish birth, referred to in this morning's Tiser, was probably so disgusted with the music of the P. G. Band, that he resorted to the sweet strains of the bagpipe for consolation. He is evidently a judge of good music.

Cunningham in the Anchor has got an invoice of the celebrated cherries with which he flavors his high-classed cocktails. A lot of fine oysters for cocktails has also arrived, and as there is an “R” in the month, it is the proper time to indulge in straight tobasco-sauce, with some bi-walves in it.

Complaint has reached us of the manner in which water policeman Patterson handled the Chinaman he helped rescue this morning. The Chinaman was sitting quietly in the boat with Patterson holding him by the back of his shirt collar, when Patterson (presumably to show off before those standing on the wharf) deliberately struck the Chinaman on the arm with his baton. Such action was brutal and uncalled for.

Why Telephones are Handy.

“The telephone, says a Foreign contemporary, is a handy arrangement, whereby two persons may tell the greatest untruths without blushing before each other.” We know of instances, when the greatest truths have been unblushingly told through telephone. An instance of that nature happened in this city a few days ago. A lady and gentlemen had arranged a place and time for meeting, when he made the remark, You are married, she replied, So are you—

Tough Job in Prospect for Keeley.

Professor A. L. Bubach, an attache of the Imperial Museum of Berlin, who, with nine trusty men has been making explorations in northern and western Brazil, sends this extraordinary information to the directors of the institution named above: “Have had wonderful luck. We already have over 9,000 unnamed specimens in natural history, including a snake sixty seven feet long, with long tusks like a boar and a horn two feet long on its forehead.”—S. F. Chronicle.

Astor as a Journalist.

William Waldorf Astor's English magazine has scored a triumph by driving a quack concern, which was doing a flourishing trade, out of business. If Astor follows up his success by exposing some of the political jobs which seem to be as prolific in England as in this country, he will deserve the gratitude of Englishmen and Americans, particularly the latter, who are heartily tired of the Pecksniffian assumption of writers for the English press and of English books, that their countrymen are exceptionally honest and differ in that particular from the rest of the world. If the Pall Mall Gazette wishes to accomplish this result it has only to work out the details of the broad charge made by Sir Charles Dilke and others, that the funds voted for military purposes by the English House of Commons are squandered and stolen. These allegations heretofore have usually appeared in reviews, which are only read by the learned. Let them be repeated in a popular magazine and Great Britain will be stirred from center to circumference.—S. F. Chronicle.

The following were passengers from Hawaii and Maui, by the steamer W. G. Hall yesterday afternoon, from Volcano—Dr. Herz, From Kau, Kona and Lahaina—E W Fuller, Rev. E Lewis, R Callendar, H R Parmelee, J Mort Oat, Mrs. A A Haalelea, Mrs. J Monsarrat and servant, Melville Monsarrat, Y Amoy, J Makainai, Mrs. S Nowlein and servant, Isaac Sherwood wife and two children, Miss B Cornwell, G McLean, Miss Kaeo, Miss E Benish, and 45 on deck.

It is to be noticed that three or four enterprising firms (annexationists) have purchased new flags, which are now flying over their respective places of business.
