By reason of the death of the daughter of Mr. Mett one of the jury-men on the Gallagher trial, the case goes over until Friday.

The Bulletin publishes the news, obtained from the captain of a lately arrived vessel, of the death of the watchman Hans Holstein, at Lysan Island. Two Japanese laborers who are stated to have been at work on the island have disappeared. The Bulletin is in error in the name, which is, Herman Carstens not "Hans Holstein."

LOCAL NEWS.

Beautiful weather to-day.

Handicraft for April has just been published.

Business is still very dull in all lines of trade.

The Gaelic sailed for San Francisco at 8 a. m.

The Empire saloon supplies good wines for family use.

The W. G. Hall is arriving in port as the HOLOMUA goes to press.

Makiki shooting range was the scene of the usual desecration of Sunday.

Manager Cunningham, at the Anchor, displays some rare specimens of wild fowl.

Arther Johnstone ex-editor of the Tiscer is attempting to fill the editorial chair on the Star.

Messrs Castle & Cooke are making improvements inside and out of their place of business.

Herr Glade has been appointed Consul-general of the Hawaiian Islands in the German empire.

Plans are proposed by the Rev. Hyde to open the Kamehameha school to other nationalities than Hawaiian.

San Francisco customs officers state that large quantities of opium are being smuggled into Hawaiian ports in bales of hay.

The street-sweeper it is hoped will not be again allowed to make a daylight appearance. The age and style is almost antiluvian.

Gov. George D. Freeth of Lysan Island left port here on the 16th ult. for his distant territory; a day after the L'Avenir called in there.

The passengers by the Gaelic from here for the Coast were; Mr. H. F. Glade and family, A. J. Cartwright, Otto Schmidt and George Lycurgus.

The ragged looking flag which adorns (?) the Annexation club flagpole is severely commented on by many good Americans. Say, tear that tattered ensign down!

Goes in for Horses.

The following Australian bred horses were bought a short while ago by Mr. Adolf Spreckels, who evidently intends to become as famous in racing circles as his father is in the finance world.—Idalium (brother to Sir Modred), by Traducer—Idalia $2,600; Crichton, by Clieveden—Ghini Ghinni, $2,000; Trentola, by Trenton—Gondola, $1,800; Candid (brother to Candour), by Splendor—Canary, $3,000; Yarranabee, by Hippocampus—Yatterina, $1,700; Merriwa, by Goldsbrough—Habena, $2,050; Calphurnus, by July—Nandu, $575; Empire, by Chester—Queen of Nations, $155. A year ago an offer of $10,000 for Idalium was refused.

For Sportsmen.

Mr. W. M. Cunningham the valiant Nimrod has cused a lot of his booty, shot on the other side of the Chinese Theatre, to be stuffed and placed on exhibition at the Anchor. The variety of ducks and other water-fowls secured by the professional poacher will astonish even the most expert member of the Sporting Association. They never could shoot such birds. Price of admission 25 cents and one of the celebrated Oyster cocktails thrown in. P. S.—Those who don't like Oysters can take a smile. Will a duck swim?

ALL ON BOARD!

The African Colonization Company Ready.

The Advertiser paralyzed the community this morning by stating that Mr. Thomas Lucas—better known as the "red lion"—was getting ready to proceed to Johannesburg somewhere in South Africa together with a number of prominent mechanics and other material suitable to form a colony that would do honor to Ireland as well as to Hawaii. With a burst of enterprise for which the HOLOMUA always is noted a representative of this paper sought the "lion" and found him sober and communicative. He fully endorsed the statement in the Advertiser. He had already formed a colony consisting of the "best" whites that is those whom Stevens called "adventurers," "scum" and "opium ring." He was going as boss of the concern. He had reserved a salary for himself and he would distribute the work among the other colonists. Mr. E. B. Thomas who according to the Advertiser had also packed his gripsack, would contract for the tent in which the colonists were to sleep in. If his bid wasn't the lowest he expected to get it anyhow according to the rules laid down by the Chief Justice in Hawaii. Mr. Wilson would act in a triple capacity. He would "marshal" the expedition, separate the fighting lions and get occasionally arrested for doing so. The jeweler would have the easiest job possible; but then any man getting through Castle's clutches ought certainly to be able to cope with the sharks of South Africa. His job would only be to estimate the value and "set" the diamonds found by "Tommy" and the other colonists. So far everything has gone smoothly. The laboring classes are well represented, because every one of the "bosses" have taken good care to have from one to three workmen with them to do the manual business while the "bosses" do the "bossing" in great style. Some difficulty arose through this morning when at a meeting it was decided to take a doctor, a lawyer, and a newspaper man along. There was no trouble about the doctor. The p. g. signified its willingness to dispense with the services of Dr. Rodgers without compensation, only making a clause that he should not be returned—he will not. In regard to the lawyer there was more trouble. All of them wanted to go, but all of them wanted a retainer. At the secret request of the cabinet it was agreed to take W. O. Smith. His experience as a goat-hunter and his record from Kalalau were sufficient to convince the colonists of his special qualifications for a South-African job. He will come back though, as usual and don't you forget it. The newspaper man was the cause of great dissension. The great and only W. G. Smith is known to be willing, but Tommy, who always is a kicker, objected. He said that Smith was bound to start a liberal republic, with a big salary for himself, and then he said that he ate too much. The colony couldn't afford to fill his pouch. Arthur Johnstone was then proposed. Tommy kicked again because it would take a guardian to hold him in one place. If left alone Arthur would write one day for the Matabele camp and next day for the Tommy camp and complications would arise. Besides the colony couldn't afford to take Canha and his establishment with them. Henry Castle had no show at all. If he had speld Heinrich instead of Henry he might have been considered, but as it was it was well known that the knew compatriots of the lion have a most unexplainable taste for missionaries and that diplomatic questions would arise as soon as Henry was non est from a case of dyspepsia. The editor of the HOLOMUA volunteered to go. But learning that all the friends of the colonists have gone bonds for him in libel suits, sedition suits and any other suits his offer was rejected. The colony only proposes to ruin Africans. Mr. Logan admitted that he was afraid of lions and he was placed hors-de-combat so if the colony can't "fix" the Paradise of the Pacific man they will have to go without a recorder and their historical feats will be relegated to obscurity. The Bureau of Information may go if he has not got a Holt on him that will play old Harry with the whole scheme. Applications for joining the colony should be sent in without delay to Mr. Sereno E. chaplain to the company.
