The Berlin Tagblatt publishes a rumor of the dismissal of servants from the Royal Portuguese household on suspicion of being connected with a design to poison the King.

England and France have sent a collect note to the Khedive of Egypt, explaining in unmistakable terms that they, who had placed the Khedive on his throne, were determined to maintain his authority against any attempts to create disorder. It is said that the note is not directed so much against internal disturbances as against any further interference on the part of Turkey.

The spread of small-pox in the United States has excited so much alarm that the National Board of Health has petitioned the President to enforce the compulsory vaccination of all immigrants on their arrival.

A Paris paper announces that Prince Bismarck is engaged in writing his memoirs, being assisted by his two sons, Counts Herbert and Wilhelm.

German emigration in the present year promises to become even greater than in the last year. Already about 14,000 tickets have been taken by vessels leaving Bremen alone in the early spring for the United States.

It is stated that the Russian Budget for 1880 shows a deficit of 98,000,000 roubles. The expenditure for Central Asia and the preparations for war against China figure for 267,000,000, and the fortifications in the military district of Warsaw for 700,000 roubles.

The Princess Louise is said to be compiling a book relating to her Canadian experiences, and that the book will be illustrated by a royal hand.

It is understood that the bill about to be introduced into the British Parliament, dealing with county government in Scotland, one experiment in the direction of local option will be tried. In this measure the control of the licensing system will be vested in the county boards; and as these bodies will be elected by the whole body of the rate-payers, the tribunal will be eminently popular.
