Further Particulars of the Ship Norval.

The following are extracts from the Log Book of the British ship Norval, an account of the burning of which we gave in yesterday's BULLETIN. The Log was kept by Frank Anderson, who with his boat and seven men are yet to be heard from: "March 1st—On coming on deck at 4 P.M., my attention was called by the captain to a smoky steam issuing from the fore-hatch. On going below, in between decks and lower hold, found it quite cool, but with a slightly suffocating smell. At 6 A.M., went below with the captain; found the smell of gas to be increasing, together with a strong smell of burning wood and coal tar; hatch combings, etc., turning a dark, glassy lead color. At 9 A.M., on the 2d opened main hatch, smoke and steam issued, with a strong smell of fire. Found midship stanchion on fore end of hatch to be very hot, with a current of heat coming up through the drifting boards. Battened hatches down, and called all hands on deck; got all combustibles up from below, provisions, etc.; started the donkey engine pump to pump water into the hold, abreast main hatch; reduced ship to topsails; got life-boats ready for sea; started all the pumps to let water into the hold through a hole made in the deck by the carpenter, near the main hatch. Got water and provisions ready to go in the boat." The log ends here, another page being apparently torn out. In to-morrow's issue we shall give extracts from the journal kept by Capt. Halliday while in the boat.

A BULLOCK WITH A MIND OF HIS OWN.—When the steamer Likelike landed her cattle at Kalepolepo, Maui, on Saturday afternoon, a bullock, after being landed, headed again for the water and swam off to the steamer, determined to get on board again. After swimming around the ship twice, vainly endeavoring to climb up the sides, Capt. King took pity on him, and ordered him to be hoisted on board again, and brought him to Honolulu. Now the question is, who does he belong to?

A meeting is to be held this evening at 7 1/2 o'clock, at the Commercial Hotel Parlors, at which all having or taking an interest in good horses are invited to be present. The object is to prepare a programme for races and an exhibition of stock, to take place at Kapiolani Park on the 11th of June next. We understand that those taking part in this movement propose to allow no betting on the track, but that suitable prizes of plates, etc., will be offered for the winning horses.

DR. EMERSON, (No. 2 Kukui street, corner Fort) will be absent on another island, until Saturday, April 1st.
