Arabi's Defeat.

The views expressed in our editorial of the 29th have been fully justified by the result.

By one masterly stroke Sir Garnet Wolseley has not only defeated Arabi but annihilated his army, captured Cairo, the key of the position, and ended the war. He has thus secured the safety of the Suez Canal in the most effectual way, by destroying the only power that threatened it. Sir Garnet Wolseley has seen clearly from the first what was the true line of operations, and has done his work with the least possible expenditure of time and human lives.

The clearest and most trustworthy account of the battle of Sept. 13th at Tell-el-Kebir is contained in his own despatches. By advancing before daylight he saved much loss of life from the enemy's fire, as well as much suffering from the intense heat of an Egyptian sun.

The assault was made in the most gallant style, and the works were carried in about 20 minutes, while the cavalry and horse artillery, having swept around the left flank of the enemy, cut off their retreat to Zagazig and completed the route. They lost over 2,000 killed and wounded and 3,000 prisoners, besides 60 guns, all their tents and several trains loaded with supplies. Throwing away their arms as they ran, the wretched mob of fugitives were chased into the desert south of the fresh water canal. The loss of the British was about 250 men.

As Arabi had not anticipated so sudden and terrible a defeat, he had entirely neglected to break the railroad communications in his rear.

The consequence was that the British advance under Gen. McPherson, after capturing Zagazig, which they entered at 4 p.m. the same day, went on to Cairo by rail.

The cavalry, however, under Gen. Lowe, by a forced march of 70 miles anticipated them, arriving in the "City of the Caliphs," on the afternoon of the 4th, where they promptly received the submission of the authorities and the surrender of Arabi himself. The possession of Cairo rendered the position of Kefr-ed-Dwar no longer tenable, being menaced in its rear. The same was true of the other fortresses on the north coast, the last of which Damietta, surrendered on the 23d.

The sudden and complete collapse of this rebellion exposes the falsity of the assertions made by Arabi and his friend M. de Lesseps, that it was a national and religious war, and would be waged to the last man.

When Gen. Kleber retook Cairo in 1801, after annihilating the Turkish army, it was stubbornly defended street by street and house by house. Nothing of the kind has taken place in the present instance, and it is evident that the loyal people in the capital had been terrorized by Arabi's troops and the mob.

The political effects of Wolseley's victory will be immense and far reaching, particularly in Mohammedan countries. In fact it is a signal defeat of the schemes of the Sultan himself, who has been laboring to stir up Mohammedan fanaticism throughout the East, and to use it for his own aggrandizement.

It is to be hoped that Arabi Pasha, when brought before the Court Martial, will produce in his own defence the communications which he has received from the Sublime Porte, of which he has been an infatuated tool.

It is certainly to be desired that Egypt might be freed from its connexion with Turkey, which drains it of $3,400,000 per annum without rendering the slightest benefit in return.

Sympathy.

The Board of Representatives of the Honolulu Fire Department, at their regular monthly meeting, held Thursday evening, passed the following resolutions:

Whereas, the hand of Divine Providence has been heavily laid on our respected ex-Chief Engineer George Lucas, by the removal from our midst of his beloved wife, and we who have been long associated with him in the several walks of life, are desirous of testifying our respect for the memory of the departed, and also tendering our sympathies to the mourning household afflicted by this dispensation; therefore, be it

Resolved: That we sincerely condole with our Ex-Chief and the members of his beloved family on the deep affliction with which it has pleased Divine Providence to visit them, and commend them for consolation to Him who orders all things for the best, and whose chastisements are meant in mercy.

Resolved: That this heartfelt testimonial of sympathy and sorrow be forwarded to Ex-Chief Engineer Lucas and his family, and published in the newspapers of this city by the Secretary of this Department.

The Glengaber sails to-day for Portland.

The duck season has begun and our sportsmen are on the qui vive.

The Domestic Money Order system will be in train this month probably.

That lumber in front of the Y.M.C.A. building on Hotel street, ought to have a lamp put on it at night.

People ought to be more careful about leaving things to obstruct the foot path.

The Peiho is 69 days from Hongkong, consigned to Hackfeld & Co., with an assorted cargo.

Four stones weighing in the aggregate, 10,000 lbs., were raised to the top of the Lunalilo building last week.

A KAMAAINA tells us that we have never had so good a Road Supervisor as Harding, or one who knew how to build roads as well.

We noticed a dangerous practice yesterday; an old Hawaiian had a fire lit in the gutter against the foot-path in Nuuanu street, and was drying tobacco over it. Suppose some young lady had her skirts set fire to by this means who would be to blame?

The Wax Works &c. last evening were very well attended, many of our prominent members of society being present and heartily enjoyed themselves. At the matinee this afternoon no doubt there will be a goodly number, more especially the juveniles. The concert commences at 2 1/2 p.m., and the whole of the programme will be carried through.

THAT street was still obstructing Richard street at 2:30 p.m. yesterday, and nearly caused an accident by frightening a horse.

We hear that a number of Chinese firms have imported liquor by the Peiho, and we believe, by so doing, have rendered themselves liable to a fine of $500, and the seizure of the liquor in question, under the new liquor law.

We hear that all the Chinese firms in this city are going to enter into articles of partnership and combine for the liquor importing business, so as to need only one importer's license under the new act.

We were told yesterday of a couple of young fellows going along the public road at Waikiki to bathe, clad simply in their underclothes and carrying towels! These parties, too, occupy positions in society and commercial life that would not lead us to expect such things of them. Our informant further adds that their names have been reported, and they will hear further of it if it occurs again. We trust, however, for the sake of decency that it will never occur again.

We were shown yesterday a neat little card bearing the price list of nails, adopted by the leading nail merchants of Honolulu, and based upon New York prices. This is the first time such a thing has been done here, and it will, no doubt, be a great convenience to all nail dealers. We quote the following: 10d. to 60d. cut nails, per keg, $5.50; galvanized nails, $2.50; and clinch nails, $2 per keg above cut nails. All the other sizes advance in price according to a regular scale.

We noticed yesterday a glimmer of improvement had invaded the Road Department, for a luna and two prisoners were engaged cleaning Queen street with a big cart, a large shovel and a very small hoe. Even with the imperfect apparatus there was a decided improvement. What might not be done with a street-scraper?

THE Elele Poakohu for some time has had the occupancy of the upper story of the Post Office building as a composing room. Its employees have allowed the water tap to remain open all Thursday night, and the water so wasted has percolated through the second story floor and caused quite a flood in the Post Office itself. This is the second time inside of two months that it has happened. Fortunately, however, the Post Office authorities had learned by experience and had allowed nothing that could be seriously injured to remain in that part of the room. The damage done to the roof of the ground floor and floor of the second story will cost something to repair.

YESTERDAY it rained. And what was the consequence? Our streets were covered inches deep in mud, and every rut and hole were plainly visible owing to the water filling it. When will the Minister of the Interior adopt our suggestion and get a road-scraper and keep our streets clean, so that they might be fit to be walked on? If he could hear the imprecations on his head uttered "loud and deep," we think he would bestir himself a little.

We bring under the attention of the Road Supervisor, and also, of the Minister of the Interior, the following places: The mauka gutter of Queen street from Bolles' gate to Nuuanu street; the sea of mud round Emma Square; Hotel, King, Merchant and Queen streets between Nuuanu and Richard streets; and the Esplanade. And we ask them if those streets are not a disgrace (or credit, which?) to the town.
