A TEST OF LOVE.

"Is this the Rev. Mr. Mulkittle?" said a kind of out-of-reason man, entering the library of a well known Little Rock minister.

"Yes, sir; have a seat."

"I have called to transact a piece of business which to the world may seem ridiculous, but which, viewed from a spiritual eminence, is of importance."

"What is it?"

"I want you to love me."

"Love you?" gasped the good man, regarding the petitioner and inwardly vowing that he had never before met a more repulsive human being.

"Yes, sir; I want you to love me," and he sat down and closed his eyes as though he intended to await the announcement of the decision. "The command is to love one another. I confess that I love you," and opening his eyes he leered at the minister.

"Well, sir," said the minister,
"your demand is simple. I suppose you have been lost for many years, and have just tasted grace, and that you especially want the love of ministers. Yes, I love you."

"Thank you. Now, when we love any one we are willing to help him.
Gimme a dollar, sir, gimme a dollar?
Out of the love you bear me, gimme a dollar?"

The minister arose, took down the box and handed the visitor a dollar.
"Good-by. I hope you will always love me," and the lover was gone.
"How did you make it?" asked a rough looking man, when they reached a street corner not far away.

"Fine. Never met but one preacher that got away with me, and he was an old Baptist that insisted on ducking me in the river before he could love me. Preachers like something odd. The old style of striking 'em is repealed."

"Let me see the money."

"Here she is: a new dollar. Let's go take something."

"I guess not. The thing is counterfeit." It was a vile imitation, and the two thieves looked at each other in silence. The minister poked his head over the fence and laughed.
The dollar had come to him in the contribution box.—[Arkansaw Traveler.

"No, sir," said Dr. Jalap, "I wouldn't have that apple tree cut down for money."

"But you never get any fruit from it," argued Brown; "the boys steal all the apples before they are half ripe." "That's just it," replied the Doctor with a quiet smile; "that tree stands me in a good thousand every season. No, sir; I couldn't get along without it; and then "the fun I get out of it," he added; "why, Brown, I sit at the front window with closed blinds by the hour and watch the young rascals dodging around the corners and sneaking about the underbrush, and sometime I get to laughing so that I'm in danger of apoplexy. I know every one of the rogues, bless their innocent hearts, but I wouldn't interfere with their sport for considerable. I ain't that king of a man, Brown." And the old doctor laughed a merry laugh as he toyed with the silver coin in his trousers pocket.

The Sultan of Zanzibar has recently introduced the electric light into the harbour of his capital, and intends shortly to introduce it into the town. His Highness gave several grand entertainments in honour of Sir Evelyn Wood.
