M. McINERNEY.

DEATH OF MR. THOMAS A. GUMMINS.

THIS old resident died yesterday morning at 12:30 o'clock midnight, at his residence, Waimanalo, on this island. He had been confined to the house for some time past, and his death was not unexpected. The deceased was born in England, January 12th, 1802, consequently was 83 years of age. In 1814 he left for America and settled in Roxbury, Mass. Fifteen years later he landed on these islands and went into business in Honolulu as a ship chandler, and in 1839 he added to it general merchandise. Mr. Cummins retired from business in the year 1849. The same year he started a cattle ranch at Waimanalo, and in 1878, in company with Messrs. A. J. Cartwright and F. S. Pratt, started the Waimanalo sugar plantation. He leaves two sons to mourn his loss, Hon. John A. and Mr. Thomas Cummins. The funeral took place yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock from his late residence. The Rev. Alex. Mackintosh, of St. Andrews Cathedral, who had been sent for early in the morning, read the beautiful and impressive Episcopal service at the house and also at the grave. The remains were placed in a grave close to the house. A large number of people were present at the last rites, amongst them being, from Honolulu, Messrs. A. J. Cartwright, Martin, Noble, Miles, Herbert and Col. Boyd.

SATURDAY'S PERFORMANCES.

THE Music Hall was well filled Saturday afternoon with parents and children at the matinee performance of "Fanchon the Cricket." Mrs. Heath as Fanchon carried off honors and the May-pole dance delighted grown folks as well as the little people. A splendid audience greeted the company in the evening when they presented the thrilling play of the "Streets of New York." It was a play that took at once with the audience and commanded the strictest attention. The acting throughout was altogether praiseworthy, the efforts of the different members of the company meeting with enthusiastic applause from the large audience. Miss Heath as Mrs. Puffy played her part with much skill and naturalness. Miss Ing-ham's Alida and Miss Young's Lucy had many commendable points. Mr. Stetson as Badger exceeded our expectations a large way, and we were not prepared for so fine a personation of the character as he gave. His success was complete. Gideon Bloodgood the Banker, by Mr. Rutledge, was admirably acted, and he came in for a good share of applause at various points. Mr. Morrison as Mark and Mr. Malcolm as Paul did exceedingly well. Probably the most enjoyable character of the evening was Jonas Puffy played by that old favorite, Mr. Willie Simms. First of all we should mention him in the first act, taking the character of an old sea captain in which he showed fine qualities as a tragic as well as comic actor. As Puffy, he created roars of laughter, his make-up being well in perfection. The piece was well mounted, and the fire scene in the fifth act was all that could be desired, being very realistic. To-night this talented company appears in the classic play of "Ingomar the Barbarian."

TRAMPS IN THE TROPICS.

HOWARD Presbyterian Church on Mission street was filled last evening to the doors by an appreciative audience to hear a lecture by Rev. Robert Mackenzie on his recent tour to the Hawaiian Islands. The pulpit stand was elegantly decorated with flowers and the words "Welcome Home," in large white floral letters, hung from the choir over the pulpit. Rev. Drs. Beckwith, Burroughs, Shearer, Noble, Eastman, Burgess and other clergymen occupied seats on the platform. Rev. Dr. Gibson introduced the lecturer, who gave a very graphic account of the volcanoes, scenery and beauties of the Hawaiian Islands. In describing the natives and their living habits, he stated that at a "luau" he had eaten raw fish, which he now much preferred to cooked fish, and that he, and also several ladies, natives and now resident in the city, had eaten and much enjoyed live shrimps, shells and all. He also saw several of the natives who were fully seven feet tall and would weigh 400 pounds, all perfectly symmetrical in their proportions. At the "luau" he saw the little "hula hula" danced by two native chiefs, and called it a grand epic poem. He praised the excellent behavior and kindly nature of the natives, describing them as too kind to live with Americans. The surf bathing, singing, flower garland wearing, and other amusements popular in the islands, were also fully depicted. The lecture closed with a glowing description of the beauties of the Iao Valley, which the lecturer considered far superior to the Yosemite.—San Francisco Call, April 10.

POLICE COURT.

SATURDAY MORNING. Before Police Justice Bickerton. J. Hayesen was fined $5 and $1 costs for getting drunk. Kealokuewa, for assault and battery on Fred Johnson, was sent to Capt. Tripp's stone mansion for five days. Manuel Fia, charged with assault and battery on Palmet, was discharged after the hearing of evidence. Keola, an insane person, was committed to the Insane Asylum. Chas. Ah Kau stated he had known the man two years, he had been in the Asylum but his brother took him out. Since then he had got worse, and gets weapons, and they have had his feet in irons a long time.

MONDAY MORNING.

Before Police Justice Bickerton. Five men of different nationalities were arrested for drunkenness, and each had to leave $6. Ah Wing and Ah Mau, two Chinamen, don't like to ride horseback without they can go at a breakneck pace. They tried it on last Saturday, but fell into the hands of the officers of the law, who are on the streets to look after the public safety. They both had to pay $10. Nahuina, for violating Express rule No. 6, was reprimanded and discharged. Bola-bola, for disorderly conduct, was remanded until the 21st. Frank Davis was fined $9 and costs, $1.20, for assault and battery on Yee Yin.

CHINESE ACCOUNTS.

EDITOR BULLETIN:—The letter of "Commerce" in your Saturday's issue is, in my opinion, sound and sensible. I cannot conceive that any commonsense man, having trade relations with Chinese, should object to his line of argument. Of course, every community contains a percentage of unpractical Vaux Hall philanthropists whose largeness of heart prompts them to cry out against every measure which their weakness of head leads them to believe is unequal or oppressive. Does any man expect Honolulu to furnish an exception? Indeed, the proverbial generosity and benevolence of this community give grounds for expecting a larger proportion here than the average elsewhere. But we are usually a little surprised when practical, matter-of-fact, dollars and cents business men allow their hearts to get the better of their heads. I know that I, for one, could not understand why the business portion of this community opposed the attempt to compel Chinese traders to keep their accounts in a language that can be understood in our law courts and counting houses. I was given to believe at the time that the petition against the measure was signed by nearly every merchant and trader in the city. I thought then as I think now, that they were sharpening a razor to cut their own throats. Judging from the letter of "Commerce," as well as from the private statements of several business men, some of those signers are now beginning to think the same. Some merchants are apparently just discovering the possibility of Chinese traders practising fraudulent bankruptcy without the possibility of detection. Hold on a bit; they will find out more by-and-by. The first-fruits only are ripe: the full crop is coming. The shrewd, money-making Celestial knows what he is about, and fully realizes the strength of his position. Insolvency with him means a very few cents in the dollar to his creditors, and the balance deficiency securely concealed for his own future use. It means this in nine cases out of ten, and more. To be sure, the same thing is sometimes done by white men when they see the way clear, and has been done more than once right here in Honolulu. But with the Chinaman it is the rule, the almost invariable rule, and the exceptions are extremely few. I have been frequently told by intelligent Chinamen here that this country has never yet furnished one solitary exception. This may be extreme, but then the Chinamen ought to know. They have every chance to do this kind of thing, because all their accounts are kept in their own hieroglyphics, and nobody can decipher them but themselves. The Attorney-General had an intelligent comprehension of the situation when he introduced his bill compelling the use of English or Hawaiian. I cannot pay the same compliment to those short-sighted humanitarians who raised the hub-bub which prevented its becoming law. There is one thing, however, they cannot blame the Legislature, nor the Government, nor the King. The Legislature passed the bill, and the King withheld his signature by request of the petitioners. If the petitioners are now suffering the consequences of their act, and beginning to feel the keen edge of the razor let the petitioners reverently give thanks unto themselves.

ANTI-HUMBUG.

At Nice, recently, the Duke of Hamilton purchased all the tickets for a performance of "La Sonnambula" in order that he might not be "annoyed" by the presence of others.

At morphine parties in Paris the custom is for the hostess and her guests to sit in a circle and, while listening to a concert in a distant room, apply the drug to themselves from jeweled instruments and recount their sensations to each other.
